

Movie Stars Give 'Uniform Of the Day' at WAC Show

Under WAC sponsorship, a program will be presented at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday at the Temple theater for sophomore, junior, and senior women.

Pvt. Lon McCallister, who portrayed the role of "California" in "Stage Door Canteen," will arrive in Lincoln Wednesday with other Hollywood and New York stars to present "Uniform of the Day," which was written by Pvt. Ted Key, former radio script writer, and produced by Pvt. William Johnstone, formerly the "Shadow" on a national radio program. Other army personnel appearing in the production are Pfc. Carolyn Blake and Cpl. Helen Famalette, both formerly of the New York stage, and Pvt. Russel Gleason, actor son of James and Lucille Gleason.

WACs Hold Interviews.
For twelve days Sgt. Neva M. Bell and Cpl. Rebecca Underwood will interview and act as consultants to women students who are interested in the WAC.

New regulations make it possible for women to enlist as Air WACs and serve with the army air force as control tower operators, airplane dispatchers, mechanics, or other air force personnel.

Today there are 239 different types of work which women in the WAC are performing. The recruiting sergeants will be on the campus during many hours of the day to answer any questions which university women may have.

Admittance to the program Wednesday will be by invitations which may be obtained in the

Winifred Nelson Is Byline Writer On Capital Paper

Winifred Nelson, former university journalism student and Lincoln Star reporter, is now a byline writer on the Washington Post. She left for Washington, D. C., in February and has recently written front page stories for the Post on the sedition trials and the Hopkins Institute "call house" trial, both of which have attracted nation wide attention.

Miss Nelson was affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta and was a sophomore when she left. She was court house reporter for the Lincoln Star.

Dr. A. Dimond Presents Paper On Penicillin

In a paper presented before the fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Nebraska academy of sciences Friday afternoon, Albert E. Dimond, assistant professor of botany, emphasized the control of the growth of the penicillin-producing fungus. The paper was jointly prepared by Dr. Dimond and Dr. George L. Peltier, head of the department of bacteriology.

Dr. Dimond and Dr. Peltier have conducted extensive experiments with the fungi. The most favorable temperature for the growth of the fungus is 77° F. It now takes from 8 to 14 days for the fungus to become established and produce penicillin.

Dr. Dimond revealed that a continuous process of growth has been suggested for greater production of the drug. When production is increased, there will be a marked decrease in its cost.

Kappa Phi Holds Annual Banquet Friday at YWCA

Kappa Phi, Methodist sorority, held its annual spring banquet Friday at the YWCA.

Mrs. C. W. Molzen, who was introduced by La Vaughn Nelson, toastmistress, spoke on "Harmonious World Sympathy." Beverly Biba greeted the sorority and Margaret Cook responded for the group. Levawn Johnson and Alice Rife led group singing.

Recognition for outstanding pledges was announced by Gertrude Nie who named Alice Rife to wear the Kappa Phi pin next year and Vivian Ferris to receive the sorority bracelet.

Margaret Wiener, an alumna, discussed the sorority council which will be held at Baker university in the summer. Initiation of new members and installation of officers followed the banquet.

Uni Speech Students Give One-Act Plays

Two short plays, "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet" and "Ways and Means," will be given at the Union ballroom May 11 at 8 p. m., according to directors Jeanne Racine and Becky Silver, students of the speech department.

The first is a comedy written by Charles George, and combines scripts from several Shakespearian dramas, adding a touch of informality with present-day slang. The story centers around the visit to "Juliet" by five of Shakespeare's feminine characters who attempt to give her advice on how to catch "Romeo."

The characters are: Juliet, Dorothy James; Katherine, Joan McCague; Desdemona, Gerry Neumeyer; Cleopatra, Becky Silver; Portia, Betty Rhodes; and Ophelia, Jeanne Racine.

Play Is Comedy.

"Ways and Means," written by Noel Coward and directed by Becky Silver, is a comedy concerning a young couple of the social class of England who play the big games and lose heavily.

The cast includes Bill Major as Toby Cartwright, Dorothy James as Stella Cartwright, Joan McCague as Olive, Jeanne Racine as Princess, Eugene Tedd as Lord Chapworth, Jean Kinnie as the maid, Marie, and Art Beindorff as Stephens.

Former Reichstag Member . . . Gerhard Seger Speaks On Peace at UN Convo . . . Before Social Science Group

Gerhard H. Seger, former member of the German Reichstag, speaking at the social science section of the Nebraska academy of science Friday afternoon, declared that in order to achieve a lasting peace we must have a long period of armistice. Mr. Seger is now an American citizen and publisher of a German language newspaper in New York City.

"A peace of revenge will not be a lasting one," he said, "but there is a legitimate demand for revenge and retribution that ought to be satisfied during the armistice period, so as not to burden the peace itself with any punitive measures."

Speaker Lists Steps.

Among the steps Mr. Seger mentioned to be taken during the armistice was the unilateral disarmament of Germany. He pointed out that the allies failed to accomplish this after World War I. He explained that while the German republic tried to establish a civilian democracy in Germany and rid the country of its Prussian militarism, the German army resisted and was supported by the English and French members of the inter-allied control commission because of the balance of power policy in Europe.

Mr. Seger emphasized that we won't secure a lasting peace unless not only nazism but German militarism is liquidated thoroughly. Explaining that Hitler is not supported by a majority of the German people but maintains himself in power with the "most extensive terroristic machinery," Seger advocated giving the German people another chance at democracy, perhaps within the framework of a European federation modeled after the Swiss federation.
