Nebraska Man Leads Heroic Drive On Nazis

From Capt. Robert E. Adams, former University of Nebraska ROTC officer, now stationed with the infantry "Somewhere in France," comes word that a squad under the command of Lt. Eugene F. Johnson of Wayne, Neb., heroically wiped out a column of German infantry, including at least six vehicles. This information came from Stars and Stripes, overseas newspaper.

While on reconnaissance, the squad was stopped in a small town and had to fight their way out. They were again delayed when they came to a bridge freshly blown by the enemy. The squad built a new one in no time, and soon they were safely on the other side of the stream. With small arms and 20-mm. bullet holes in the vehicles, not a man was injured.

Also from the Stars and Stripes were clippings of "Private Breger" cartoons, with personal comments attached.

AUF Drive Hits $1,694, Goal in Sight

The mountain climber on the AUF poster in the Union lobby began a belated jump upward yesterday when nearly $500 was turned in by campus solicitors. Tuesday's collections, the largest for any one day to date, put the little man two-thirds up the mountain at the $1,694.90 mark, leaving $805.10 to be collected toward the $2,400 goal in the last two days of the drive.

Contributions of $25 from The Nebraskan, $25 from Coed Counselors, $5 from the 4-H club, $30 by Tassels, and $10 from the home ec club increased the total gifts from campus activity groups to $265. To date, two men's houses, one unaffiliated and one Greek, are the only organized houses to contribute 100 percent.

May Reach Goal.

Margaret Beede, AUF chairman, reported that if contributions continued to come in at Tuesday's rate on Wednesday and Thursday, the campus could meet the $2,400 goal by the close of the drive Thursday night. She urged all students to give Wednesday if possible so that the money may be counted and tabulated before the close of the drive.

Ag campus had given $102.50 by Tuesday evening with the home ec club and the 4-H club the only contributing ag campus groups.

Prof. C. W. Scott of the Teachers' college school administration department, announced yesterday that 75 percent of the goal set for university employees has been met.

J. Dunninger, Mind-Reader, Appears Here

Joseph Dunninger, famous master mind and accomplished hypnotist, will appear at the coliseum Friday, Oct. 20, in the first of the Town Hall series sponsored by the Lincoln junior league.

"Thought reading is not fortune telling. It is not psychic or supernatural. It is a trained ability to read what is in the thoughts of persons who cooperate by concentrating. But there must be cooperation. I can't read a mind that is closed against me," Dunninger pointed out.

It is Dunninger's belief that every person has some gift, some faculty for doing something, which, if developed, he can do better than anyone else. Most people aren't lucky enough to discover their gifts early enough to develop them to a high degree.

Dunninger's unusual extra-sensory perception became apparent at the age of 8, while he was in grammar school arithmetic class. Although not adept at numbers, he always had the correct answer. The teacher kept moving him to various parts of the room and searched him for copy notes, but could never find any.

"There were 60 kids in the class, the master mind explained, and at least 50 of them usually solved the problems correctly. With 50 minds concentrating, how could I miss?"

Whenever anyone rang the doorbell at home, or called by telephone, he always advised the family in advance as to who the caller was.

What No Stamp Booths? Or Get On the Beam!

In an informal poll, it was discovered that the majority of students on the campus do not realize that War Stamp booths are open for business every Wednesday of every week. Some do not even realize where War Stamp booths are located.

Is this why the stamp sales last week averaged only about three cents per student?

Today is Wednesday, War Stamp Day. Stamp booths are located in Sosh, Andrews, Ag Hall, and the Union, right outside of the Crib. Each one is open from 9 until 4.

Uni Theatre Appoints Ghita Hill, Bill Boydston to Staff

The appointment of Ghita Hill as University theater business manager and Bill Boydston as technical assistant was officially approved by the University theater committee at their Monday noon meeting.

The committee, composed of W. K. Beggs, Patricia Lahr, L. T. Lasse, W. H. Werkmeister, A. E. Westbrook and Dallas Williams, held a routine meeting in which plans for the University theater this year were presented, reviewed, and approved. An estimate of the budget was decided upon.

Season tickets may be purchased from the Tassels for $2.40, including tax. The tickets are good for five performances. They need not be used one at a time but may be used at any time for any play.

The first production of the season, "The Wingless Victory," by Maxwell Anderson, will be given Nov. 2, 3, and 4. It will be followed Dec. 7, 8, and 9 by Paterson Green's "Papa Is All," and "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder on Feb. 15, 16, and 17.

The last two productions will be "Angel Street," by Patrick Hamilton March 22, 23, and 24 and "Kiss and Tell," by F. Hugh Herbert on April 25, 26, and 27.

The new cheerleaders, yell king Ulrich and the Tassels will be out in full force at 7:30 p. m. to lead the procession of fans from the Union, down R street to 16th, along sorority-fraternity row to Vine and on to the coliseum. The decorated, tractor-drawn victory bell will lead the parade, followed by the football players, riding in convertibles, and part of the varsity band.

The old bell, which has been stored in the basement of Morrill for the past year, will be unearthed and dusted off today to make its debut tomorrow morning in front of the Union. There it will rest, amidst ribbons and signs, until the time comes to send out its call for UN rallyers. As the procession starts, Peg Larson, 1944 Pep Queen, will mount the platform and ride beside the victory bell to the coliseum. Members from all organized and unorganized houses will carry placards on which are printed slogans for the coming clash with the Kansas Jayhawks.

The main rally will be held in front of the coliseum where cheerleaders will lead yells from the steps. This will be the first performance of the new girl cheerleaders, who were chosen this year for the first time in UN's football history.

The players will be introduced by Coach Ad Lewandowski and (See RALLY, page 3.)
