

Lew Shifts Backs to Go Against KU

After taking two rollicking defeats from the hands of Big Ten elevens, the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers are going into practices this week with inspired spirit in preparation to meet the University of Kansas at Lawrence Saturday.

Coach A. J. Lewandowski is staking chances on a revamped backfield that will include Bill Betz at quarterback, Jack Selzer and Doug Nelson holding halfback posts and Ken Hollins at fullback. The presence of both Selzer and Betz in the lineup might well indicate that Lew is preparing an aerial attack against the Jayhawks. Betz has been absent from practice lineups for the past two weeks and warmed the bench Saturday because of a bum shoulder received in the Minnesota game but Lewandowski announces the ex-Lincoln high back will be in fine condition to go against KU. Two other casualties returning to the team will be Ken Hollins and Bill Perdew, both backs, who will be ready to meet the Kansas onslaught.

Those seeing the Indiana game reported a better Husker showing than was given at Minnesota which indicates the Huskers are improving fast.

The KU team has not won a game from the Huskers in the last 28 years and it's been all of 43 seasons since the Jayhawks have won on home field. Last year's game was a close one with the Huskers winning out 7-6. The Kansans will be going all out to put another win on their record.

Big Six Get Full Home Schedules

Big Six football teams will be able to look forward to a more pleasant schedule this week-end than last as the conference teams prepare for a full loop schedule. Last week brought another round of rough games to the Big Six teams that gained only one win, and five losses to the conference elevens. Nebraska made an improved showing against Indiana's Hoosiers though the 54-0 count didn't indicate it. Missouri also came from their low standing though losing to a strong Minnesota team but they put the Gophers to their limit to win. Oklahoma found the University of Texas too tough and lost by a 20-0 count. Kansas State couldn't handle Michigan State and went down 45-6 as did KU before the Iowa State Cyclones, 25-0 in the only conference game.

This week's schedule will be right in the family with the Missouri and Iowa State teams meeting in the feature contest. The Tiger's outstanding fight against Minnesota has brought their stock up and the Cyclones are figuring on a mighty tough showing by the Missourians.

Another of the interesting contests between Big Six contestants will be the Nebraska-Kansas clash at Lawrence where two mighty even elevens will meet. Last year found the Huskers winning out 7-6 over the favored Jayhawk team and this year's clash promises to be another close one.

With four games to be played before the semi-finals next week, the soccer-baseball tournament is fast coming to a close. The four games scheduled for the end of this week are:

Wednesday: Gamma Phi (1) vs. D. G. Bronze; Kappa vs. winner of Towne Club-DG Pink. Thursday: Pi Phi vs. winner of Chi O-Alpha Xi (1); Howard Hall vs. winner of DG Blue-Sigma Kappa.

Planning for the next tournament the WAA office has set Oct. 27 as the deadline for the team lists from those entering the Nebraska ball games.

Any individual who does not have a health permit registered in the WAA office by Friday of this week will be eliminated from the games, according to WAA officials. To this rule, they assure all players, there will be no exceptions!

Rally . . .

(Continued from Page 1.) two Huskers, including the new game captain, will speak to the crowd. The speeches will be followed by Nebraska songs and yells for the team.
