

Oscar Ellis Talks At First Meeting Of Pi Mu Epsilon

Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity, announces that Mr. Oscar A. Ellis will be the guest speaker at their first meeting of the year Tuesday at 7 p. m. in parlors XY of the Union.

Mr. Ellis obtained his B. S. degree in civil engineering at the university and is now a construction engineer here.

At the meeting Mr. Ellis will explain a system he has derived for trisecting the angle with considerable accuracy. It has been proved that it is impossible to trisect the angle with complete accuracy using only a straight edge and a compass, according to mathematicians. However, several methods have been found which show a great degree of accuracy. Some of these methods will be explained by Mary Cooper, math student, preceding Mr. Ellis.

Pi Mu Epsilon meetings are open to anyone interested in mathematics. Any student wishing to attend should notify Mrs. Ernst in the mathematics office by noon today, or should notify his mathematics instructor by 5 o'clock today.

Nebraska 'Alumnus' Reviews Speech by Ex-Student, GI Bill

Reviewed in the latest edition of the Nebraska "Alumnus" is a speech by Wendell Berge, x25, made before the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce last month. Mr. Berge is at present assistant attorney general of the United States, in charge of the anti-trust division of the department of justice.

The former student chose as his topic "Future of Free Enterprise," explaining the cartel system of business and the danger it brings to free enterprise.

The much-publicized GI bill of rights is explained in the magazine by Prof. J. P. Colbert of the school of engineering. Prof. Colbert answers questions about the bill in an attempt to clear up confusion concerning points such as eligibility, education, tuition,

Education Group Holds Kid Party

Big bows, long pigtales, short dresses and bobble socks were the order of the day for the Elementary Education Department party held Tuesday night in Ellen Smith hall. Following dinner, the students were entertained by stunts contributed by the girls in Miss Evans' class.

After the grand march, prizes were awarded to Sally Sears for the prettiest costume; Paula Jones for the most original costume; and Kay Detweiler and Nina Scott for the most amusing costume. Miss Christensen of the elementary department led the group singing.

Jane Sorenson, president of the Association for Childhood Education, had charge of the party.

During his first three years in college, Wendell Willkie was a prominent leader among the independent students. He successfully led a fight for fair representation on the Indiana U governing body. University respected, he had little respect for those who had not the spunk to respond to an argument.
