It's Up To You . . .

The miniature peace conference proper gets under way this afternoon, when the twelve conference committees meet to discuss such problems as a postwar world security organization, the treatment of war criminals, the treatment of Japan and Germany, and the settlement of territorial problems. The groundwork has been laid; the conference itself begins.

The planning committee, headed by Barbara Stahl, has done an excellent job in organizing and planning the conference, attending to the million and one details. Their job involved much hard work, much responsibility, and the committee has performed it well. The planning stage of the conference has thus been successfully carried off.

But the entire conference is still very much in the "make or break" stage. The excellent work already done will come to nothing if, from now till the end of the conference early in March, individual students fail to take an active interest, fail to discharge their responsibilities.

The conference has been set up so that each student, through the various organized groups, may take an active part. The conference, indeed, has been set up so that each student must take an active part in the experiment if it is to succeed. Interested, active participation in the various group and committee meetings, general convocations, and plenary sessions—this is the responsibility of the individual student. The success or failure of the entire peace conference depends on how well that responsibility is discharged.

Delicate Soldering Task
 Wiring a baby-sized airborne radio receiver, a key item in the AAF's stellar instrument landing system used in combat operations, requires making 600 soldered connections. Special ground-down pliers and fine-tipped soldering irons are used to complete the task.

Letterip

To seek an honorable peace with the United Nations following the defeat of the fascist forces is the objective of a joint German-Japanese Council for International Peace and Justice, the formation of which was announced today.

In an appeal issued to the United Nations at a time when leaders of the "Big Three" nations are meeting on the Black Sea, the council, composed of anti-fascist German and Japanese refugees, declared that a fair but firm peace settlement is the only way to provide for lasting world peace.

The text of their statement is as follows:

"In the interests of establishing a fair and lasting peace in order to promote the world brotherhood of man and provide for prosperity for all, the peace settlement should include these conditions and terms:

1. Immediate admittance of Germany and Japan and the other defeated nations to the proposed world organization of nations.
2. Germany and Japan should be kept territorially and economically intact in order to avoid economic chaos as well as political and psychological repercussions to the whole world.

3. No punitive reparations.
4. The occupation of the defeated nations should be by a small but effective allied force which would be withdrawn at the earliest possible time and thereby avoid stirring up resentment in the peoples of the occupied nations which would sow the seeds for a future world war.
5. We approve of the just punishment of those individuals guilty of specific war crimes without the mass persecution of groups so as to avoid creating a spirit of revenge in the people.
6. We favor the internationalization of the Pacific possessions of Japan, guaranteeing equal access of their trade and raw materials to all nations. Korea should be made autonomous.

7. There should be equal access by all peoples to all the raw materials and markets of the world.
8. Germany and Japan should be permitted to create a free government of their own choosing, with the approval of the world organization of United Nations.

BATTLE REPORT TO ALL HANDS

EVERY seaman and officer aboard our Navy's fighting ships instantly hears the call to action, follows the battle's progress over a special type of announcing system made by Western Electric.

On carriers the entire crew, topside and below deck to oilers and ammunition passers, can hear first-hand accounts direct from the pilots themselves on how it went "upstairs."

Meeting the communication needs of our armed forces requires all available manpower and manufacturing facilities. That's why telephone equipment cannot now be built for civilian use. After the war, Bell Laboratories' scientists and workers at Western Electric will turn again to their peacetime jobs of designing and making telephone equipment for the Bell System.
