Iowa State Nips Husker Quintet

BY DON J. BAKER.

Bob Mott's delayed action dual counter spelled Nebraska's defeat here Monday night and kept the Cyclones in the running for the Big Six conference cage title by a score of 47-45.

With but seven seconds left in the game, Mott sent a long, arching shot whistling thru the hoop to create the deciding score of 47 to 45. Iowa State trailed 25 to 22 at halftime.

Jim Myers dumped in 14 points to pace the Cyclones, while Koenig led the Huskers with 14 points.

The triumph brought Iowa State's record in the loop to five victories and two defeats and pared the Jayhawkers' margin to a half game.

The Cyclones went ahead in the first 45 seconds of the second half when forward Orlyn Feuerbach and Mott hit fielders. Guard Buzz Hollins knotted the tally with a charity shot, but Ted Chamberlain, Iowa State backcourter, cashed a push shot to put Iowa State out in front, 28-27.

Cornhusker Art Peterson's gift shot again evened the score, and the teams battled down to the stretch on even terms to set the stage for Mott's archer from way out yonder.

Red Hot Wings Club Bombers 60-37, Ehlers, Lumppp Star

BY CHUCK PETERSON.

The Lincoln Wings defeated the 2nd AF Superbombers by the score of 60-37 last nite at the coliseum. The Wings went ahead on Eddie Ehler's first bucket and were never headed after that.

The Wings and the Bombers matched basket for basket until Tatum and Lumppp went on a scoring spree to bring the score to 32-18 at the half. It was during this period that Goose Tatum scored 11 of his 15 points. Big Bob Hendren was guarded very closely during the first half by Ahern and didn't score a single point until midway in the last half.

It was all Wings during the second half and they were paced by Ray Lumppp and Ed Ehlers in one of the fastest exhibitions of basketball ever seen in the coliseum. Lumppp started the half with a rebound and countered with a free throw. Tatum and Ehlers then began to pour the baskets in and the only player on the Bombers that could match either of them was Player-Coach Joe Regan.

In the last few moments of the game Ed Ehlers outraced the Bombers and countered two driving baskets, to all but cinch the outcome. The Wings played smart ball stalling during the last three minutes, but they didn't have any worries after the first two minutes.

Ray Lumppp was high man with 18 points, followed by Goose Tatum with 15 and Ehlers with 12. High man for the Bombers was Biggs, who amassed the total of 11 points. Ahern's defense work was one of the biggest factors in the Wing's victory, but it was really the Wing's fast break that broke the Superbomber's back.

AS I SEE IT

By

Chuck Peterson

The newest innovation in the game of basketball is being shown to the East by Columbia. It consists of the same number of players, size of court, etc., but there is a half moon drawn around the top of the free throw circle and extending toward the back of the court, touching the backline about four feet from the side line. The point is that every basket sunk from outside this line is three points instead of the usual

two. And if a player wants to take a free throw from this line instead of the usual line, he is awarded two points in place of the regular one for a gift toss. It seems that everyone concerned would rather spoil the game of basketball by giving a reward for playing a sniping game instead of a driving game, than to let the tall boys play without a handicap

Even tho the Huskers have averaged over 44 points a game they have won only two out of 16. They have engaged in four overtime contests (and lost them all) and have lost half a dozen by only one or two points. What they need, I guess, are some rabbit's feet, four leaf clovers, and some loaded dice.

have a great deal of hair on their chests. Well, a few do. These appartions are finally found to be THE campus BMOC's, THE boys around campus, THE college Joes. To save them any embarrassment, their names are being withheld. This act guarantees a good laugh, and spectators can even throw tomatoes at the most-loved College Joe if you like. Frankly, these boys are used to tomatoes.

The two surprise acts are only a part of the whole show, but there is no doubt that the rest of the show will be even better. Tickets for the War Show are on sale every noon in the Union lobby, and from 4 to 6 in the afternoon, and from 7 to 8 every evening for 40c each.
