KU Jayhawker Team Practices 'T' Formation

LAWRENCE, Kas.—Followers of football at the University of Kansas may see an offensive formation new to the Crimson and Blue gridsters next fall. In spring practice which is now in session at the Mount Oread institution Coaches Henry Shenk and Elmer Schaake are experimenting with the "T" formation.

Thru the years that they have been coaching in high schools and at the university, the coaches have used the single wing formation exclusively, but this spring the Jayhawker mentors have decided to try the "T."

35 Report.

About 35 athletes are reporting each afternoon for practice sessions. The group includes the following lettermen: Gordon Reynolds, Charles Moffet, Dorwin Lamkin, Dud Day, Garland Cantrell, Cecil Langford and Don Stockdale.

The Kansas coaches have been having Charley Conroy of Neodesha, Tom Sinclair of Humboldt and Kenneth Kuth of Nashville handling the ball on the "T" formation.

When Shenk was asked if the Kansas coaches planned to junk the single wing and go all out for "T," he replied, "By no means. We are just doing some experimenting this spring. We may use the "T" some next fall but we will rely mostly on single wing formations to gain ground."

Gain With 'T.'

In practice this week, Charles Moffet of Peabody, all Big Six tail back last season, made some good gains off of the "T." In the two back fields in recent scrimmage sessions the mentors have been running Moffett Sinclair, Edgar Miner of Hays, Dan Westerman of Kansas City, James Sanders of San Francisco, Calif., and Milford Collins of Kansas City, Mo.

The Kansas coaches plan to hold practice sessions two weeks longer and wind up the spring drills with a game between squad members.

The Crimson and Blue clad athletes will open the session Saturday night, Sept. 22, playing Texas Christian University of Fort Worth, Tex., in Ruppert Stadium, Kansas City, Mo., under the lights.

Fem Fun

Short meeting of participants in the ping-pong tournament of the Spring Spree will be held in the WAA office in Grant Memorial tonight at 7 p. m. and Thursday at 7 p. m.

Since the times for different rounds and the rules of the tournament will be discussed, everyone interested should attend.

Swimming tournament has been postponed, the new date having been set for April 21. Practices for participants will continue on Thursdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.

and on Saturdays from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. Any coed participating in the tournament who is enrolled in a swimming class may get a permit from her instructor verifying her attendance instead of having a separate practice for the tournament.

Officials have been chosen for the tournament. The referee will be Frannie Bleick; timekeepers, Ruth Bicknell, Elaine Osterman, Carol Krey, Joyce Lindberg, Mary Jean Way and Beverly Uhler; clerk of course, Jody Lynn; starter, Isadore Brown; scorer, Charlotte Blum; inspector, Eunice Way; diving judges, Misses Kuplic, Mott and Lockhart; and judges, Virginia Townsend, Fern Freeman and Dorothy Sand.
