Lucy Ann Hapeman, Gloria Beaumont and Margaret Hunter will carry the female leads as Charlotte, Emily and Anne Bronte when opening night curtain rings up on "Moor Born" Thursday at 8 p. m. in Temple Theatre.

Lucy Ann Hapeman writes "Jane Eyre" and keeps the home going; Gloria Beaumont writes "Wuthering Heights" and moves dreamily in a world all her own; Margaret Hunter writes "Vilette." Veteran Hapeman wowed 'em as the gossip in "Papa is All," veteran Beaumont thrilled 'em as the native girl in "The Wingless Victory;" veteran Hunter teased 'em as a drum majorette in "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Share Leads.

Dewey Ganzel and Gene Hougsey share male leads as Reverend Bronte and Branwell Bronte. Off-caste Ganzel opened the current season as the fiery minister in "The Wingless Victory," repeated in "The Skin of Our Teeth," played the fool in "Room Service" and dons again the ministerial cloth for "Moor Born." Tyro Hougsey takes his first bows to Temple audiences when curtain rises Thursday. Hougsey plays the Bronte sisters' gifted brother, who blunts his tal-

Veteran Board States Summer School Plans

J. P. Colbert chairman of the Consultation Board for Veterans, has announced that those veterans under public law 346, the G.I. Bill, who plan to attend summer school may receive full subsistence provided they carry a schedule of seven semester hours or more for the nine weeks session, or five hours or more for the six weeks session. Anyone carrying a schedule of less than the minimum number of hours will have his subsistence reduced in an amount to be determined by the Veterans Administration.

At the close of either the six weeks or nine weeks session, a veteran may continue to receive subsistence for a vacation or leave period of not more than 30 days for the calendar year. However, anyone who draws subsistence for the 30-day leave period will also be using up an equal period of his time-entitlement. Consequently, the veterans particularly one with a limited time-entitlement should waive their rights to draw subsistence during their 30-day period. By so doing they will save their time-entitlement so that it will apply on time actually spent in school.

Rehabilitation Act.

The veterans under public law 16, the Vocation Rehabilitation act, may also attend summer school provided they carry a full schedule of seven semester hours or more for the nine weeks session. Such students will receive their full subsistence throughout the balance of the calendar year. (See VETERAN, page 3.)

All-University Dandelion Day Set for Friday

Campus dandelion campaign will get underway Friday when students will receive directions as to zoning and rules for the campaign, to be climaxed by a dance at which a king and queen of dandelions will be presented.

The entire campus has been marked off into zones, and each organized house will be responsible for a zone and its own yard.

A chart will be placed on the Union steps from 1 to 5 p. m. Friday, along with scales and a truck for dumping the dandelions. The house who turns in the highest number of pounds of dandelions will be entitled to the king and queen.

Candidates.

Each house is to turn in a candidate for king and queen to Mary Jo Gish, chairman. Fraternities will turn in their candidates for king and sororities, for queen. The fraternity and sorority who bring the most dandelions will automatically receive the king and queen.

The campaign will end with a dandelion dance in the Union Tuesday evening, May 1. All freshmen and upperclassmen may take 10:30 nights if they do not have any down hours, according to Midge Holtzschere, AWS president.

Coeds will be allowed to wear slacks and jeans to class all day Tuesday, according to Dean Verna Boyles.

Phyllis Fischer and Rita Maginn, freshmen, have been awarded the Presser Foundation music scholarships of $150 each by the School of Music.

Each year two such awards are made at Nebraska. The scholarships are made available through the University of Nebraska Foundation and go to worthy students majoring in music.

The Presser Foundation is located in Philadelphia and its holdings include the Etude Magazine, the Oliver Ditson Music Publishing Company and the John Church Music Publishing company.

Warren Baller Lectures at Sosh Tonight at 7:30

Warren R. Baller, professor of educational psychology and measurements, and guidance consultant in the university junior division, will give a lecture, "Determining the Qualifications of the Rehabilitated Veteran," as part of the university series, "The Rehabilitation of Veterans," tonight at 7:30 in room 101 of sosh.

In his capacity of guidance consultant, Baller has occasion to counsel with and administer tests to veterans. He received his doctorate from the university in 1935. During the year 1940-41 he served as visiting lecturer with the division of human growth and development at the University of Chicago.

COUNCIL MEETING.
There will be a Student Council meeting held at the Student Union at 3:15 this afternoon, as announced by Harold Andersen, president.

Fraternity Men Open Annual Dance to Public

Friday nite will see the revival of the old Inter-fraternity ball. Although this dance will not be like those of past years, it is being sponsored by the fraternities in an attempt to get student activities back on the social calendar, said Boyd Hecht, chairman of the planning committee.

Different from other years, the dance will not be closed to just fraternity men. Hecht stresses the fact that all unaffiliated, service, and other men are invited.

Held in Coliseum.

The ball will be held in the coliseum Friday night from 8-12 with the feature of the evening being Bobby Sherwood's nationally known band which will supply the music.

Tickets will be sold for $2.00 a couple and may be secured at the Union, at Social Science building and at Rosewells. The profit from the affair will be put in the Inter-fraternity council fund and will be used in future years for more balls of the pre-war nature.

The committees for the affair are men representing the various fraternities. The planning committee is Boyd Hecht, Woody Woodull, and Martin Pesek. Gordy Ehlers and Harold Andersen are in charge of publicity, and decorations are being handled by Gene Merchant, Don Chapin, Don Hansen, and Clarence Reef.

Second Awgwan Edition Leaves Press This Week

The long-awaited second issue of the Awgwan, campus humor magazine, will be out sometime this week, according to editor, Phyllis Johnson. She could not specify the exact date of release of the April issue, however.

Miss Johnson stated that every university student who does not live in an organized house on the campus may pick their copy of the Awgwan up at a booth in the Union. The time and place will be announced later when the date of issue is released.

The third issue was sent to the printer Monday, said Miss Johnson.

Polls on City, Ag Campus Open at Noon

Tomorrow voters will go to the polls in the Student Union and in Ag Hall between 12 noon and 3 p. m. to vote on candidates for Student Council, Publications board, and Ivy Day orator. Each person will be required to show his identification card before casting a ballot.

Seven candidates who filed for office have been disqualified for infringements of eligibility requirements. Those announced as ineligible are Ed Robinson, Roffs Zimmerle, Gene Dixon, and Lucy Hapeman, all Student party candidates, and Phyllis Johnson, Fred Hecox, and Martin Pesek of the Progressive party.

Taking the places of these candidates are Bob Gillan and Jane McElhaney of the Student party, and Virginia McDonald and Tom McCarville of the Progressives. Neither party has a nominee for Council representative from pharmacy college, and the Ivy Day oratorship has but one aspirant, Russ Ledger of the Progressive party.

The election slate, as printed in the Nebraskan today, contains only those names of candidates who have been checked and approved by the Student Council.

Students who go to the polls in the Union basement or at Ag hall will vote for the representatives to the Council from their respective colleges. Publications board ballots will be cast according to class status. Seniors-at large members of the Council are voted on by the junior and senior classes.

Schooner Uses Midwest Talent In Next Issue

"Prairie Schooner," university literary magazine, is living up to its name of "Talent Scout of the Midwest" by printing in its summer issue articles written by two authors who, at the present time, are having books published.

By coincidence two different publishers are printing books which are a collection of biographical short stories. One is E. P. Dutton's forthcoming "I Ask You, Ladies and Gentlemen," by Leon Surlmelian, with an introduction by William Saroyan, and Simon Schuster's "The Happy Life," by Robert Fontaine.

Surlmelian's stories describe the youth of an Armenian boy who "mended in America the wrecked legend of his life," and the other is the story of a happy childhood in French Canada by a Canadian-born author, Robert Fontaine.

Schooner Printed.

"Prairie Schooner" printed, in winter 1939, the first story by the unknown writer, Surlmelian, "I Ask You Ladies and Gentlemen," from which the title of the book is taken. Another Surlmelian story appeared in summer 1940, "Without Bitterness or Regret." Spring 1943 contained, "Introduction to Mortality" and summer, 1944, "The Great Hoax," all of which appear in the forthcoming book.

Robert Fontaine, too, was first printed in the pages of the "Prairie Schooner." "Many Colored Glass" and "Grandfather and the Widow Lachance" have appeared in the summer and winter 1944 issues and are continued in "The Happy Time," scheduled to appear on the June 11 book market.
