

Ag Club President Announces First Meeting of Year

Allen Klingman, president of the Ag Men's Social club, announced today that the group will begin its third year of activities with a meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in room 305 Ag Hall. The Social Club is open to all ag men and in the past has sponsored dances and parties and supported ag campus activities.

Beanie . . .

(Continued from Page 1.) Upon arriving there a drooling clerk asks me, "Wuz you wishin' somethin'?" I mutely shows her the ticket. She hands me a beanie an' sez, "You're fortunate to have a beanie. The latecomers will miss out. We have only 150 coed caps and 50 billed lids for fellas in stock and they sell rapidly. So remember to tell your many friends to hurry and get their beanies." I think that I must remember to tell Herman.

Back to the Union. I ambled back to the Union at a P-38 speed rate an' shows Senior Allah my accomplishment. "Huck, huck," I laughs an' sez, "Ssssee—I gggot my beanie." He mumbles somethin' about witty freshman remarks an' proceeds to tell me all the things I'd never heard before about '49 determining the school spirit an' how we've got to get into things an' pitch. Classes before us have always loved and followed the "Plebe" year traditions an' it's up to us to maintain an enthusiastic attitude by dotting the campus with our beanies.

If one of us fails to don the red 'n white toppers we brand ourselves and our class as apathetic students—when we all want to illustrate our sincere eagerness to do our utmost for UN. The potential graduate's enlightening words spurred my indifference to the zenith of ardent inspiration an' I vowed to be as my fellow '49ers—devoted to my omnipresent beanie.

Hard Characters Pace Corridors Of Music School

BY DEDE MEYER.

Through centuries many people have labored under the false illusion that musicians are sensitive, temperamental souls. This infamous rumor, like all other lose propaganda, should be disregarded completely. In fact, it's a downright insult to these tenacious, enduring, ever-striving persons.

I say enduring. Perhaps elsewhere such is not the case, but anyone who struggles through the University of Nebraska music school must surely have at least the endurance of Atlas. And what's more, he should graduate with ears accustomed to the sweeter sounds of an active stone chipping concern.

Powerful Talent.

For as one approaches the U. N. school of music some lovely afternoon, he is caught and nearly blown away by currents of on-rushing talent. Near the ground floor a coloratura soprano battles it out with a lasso. But alas, as is usual the male is no match for the weaker sex, and the soprano climbs triumphantly to her grand climax, emerging in a final screech, while her accompanist pounds majestically in the lowest octave.

Higher up in the building Grieg's "Piano Concerto" wrestles with "Mendelssohn's Spring Song." This contest for supremacy seems to be undecided, especially since the mellow tones of Hazel Scot's boogie woogie float gently down the stairs and mingle with the more sedate, classical adjios. Here and there a violin puts in her two-bits worth, and every once in a while a trumpet note dashes up the hall, followed by a few of its brothers and sisters.

Morse made his first telegraph instrument from an old picture frame.

Aspiring Actors Glimpse Theatre Activity at Party

Actors and actresses by the dozens, footlights, floodlights, greasepaint and scenery will be in evidence Tuesday night as the university theater plays host to all students interested in working in the drama department this winter.

Calendared for 7 p. m., the party, first of its kind in recent years, will begin on the stage in the Temple auditorium. Dallas Williams, university theater director, and Don Kline, Nebraska Masquers president, will act as co-hosts.

Four Plays.

Information about the four scheduled major productions, try-outs beginning Sept. 26, experimental theater one-act plays and related theater activities will be discussed with interested students. Tours of the drama facilities in the Temple will be conducted by members of the Masquers, theater society.

Entertainment and refreshments have been planned following the tours.

AUF . . .

(Continued from Page 1.) can be given in cash or pledged to be paid at a later date. A booth in the Union will take subscriptions from Lincoln students and a booth on Ag campus will be set up where Ag students may contribute.

Sororities, fraternities, dorms, organized houses and N.R.O.T.C. on the campus will be reached thru their representatives.

On Monday, Oct. 1, speakers will tour organized houses on campus and explain the purpose of the drive and take contributions.

Progress of the drive will be graphically shown on a poster in the lobby of the Union. Each day's collections will be posted.

Solicitors will turn in money each day at 5:00 p. m. in room 315 of the Union and from 9 to 12

a. m. on Saturday, Oct. 6. A rally for all solicitors is scheduled for Thursday at 6:00 p. m. in the Union ballroom.

He who laughs last has found a dirty meaning.

CORRECTION.

Delta Tau Delta, campus fraternity listed as inactive in the September 19 issue of the Nebraskan, is active on the campus this year.

Catholic Student Group Organizes

The Newman Club with Monsignor George Schuster as chaplain, Catholic student organization on the campus, will hold its first officers' meeting of the season Monday evening at 7:00 p. m. in the club rooms, room 205 in the Temple building. Plans will be made for the All-University Church Night to be held Friday, Sept. 28 in Parlors X-Y-Z in the Union.

Catholic services, consisting of mass and sermon, will be held each Sunday morning at 11 a. m. in Parlors X-Y-Z in the Union.
