

Huskars Defeat K-State 62-47

G. Lebsack Paces Team During Second-Half Rally

Staging a second-half comeback, Nebraska's Cornhuskers downed Kansas State's Wildcats 62-47, with Gayle Lebsack hitting the basket for 13 points.

Playing before a crowd of 5,000 fans, the Huskers fought against the Wildcats to bring about their second win of the season.

Lebsack.

Lebsack, six-foot three-inch freshman from Lincoln, scored six field goals and one free toss. He led the scoring and won individual honors in the game. Five of Lebsack's goals came on long one-arm push shots.

Kansas State drew first blood with a field goal and a free throw by Dick Hood and played fast during the first half. At halftime the score was 26-23. The Wildcats opened fast and played hard that first half.

Accurate Shots.

Under the Husker's accurate long shots, however, the K-Staters wilted and fell under the scoring power of the Nebraskans.

The game was played as the first of a Big Six doubleheader in the municipal auditorium at Kansas City. The Husker battle was part of a four-team tournament championship series and ended with the playoff between Kansas and Missouri.

In the opening round of the championship tourney, Kansas State was swamped by Kansas, 71 to 46.

Revival.

Nebraska's second-half revival began with a long field goal by Lebsack, followed by a free throw by Jim Sandstedt.

The Big Six tournament series will not figure in the standings of the four teams who are playing.

Until last night's game, the Huskers' only win was against the University of South Dakota. Previously, they have bowed to Minnesota and Missouri in the game played Friday night.

Loop Grid Teams Weak Against Outside Elevens

Big Six teams were woefully weak against outside gridiron competition. Conference schools played a total of 24 games against non-conference foes, winning 10 and losing 14.

Iowa State paced the six teams, winning two non-conference games and losing one. Kansas won three and lost two while Nebraska broke even, winning two and losing two.

Kansas State, Missouri and Oklahoma each won only one outside victory, the Sooners losing four, the Tigers three and K State two.

Nebraska was the lone conference school that managed to defeat a Big Ten team. This was the Huskers' 13 to 6 win over Iowa U. last Saturday. Indiana, Ohio State, Minnesota and Northwestern were the Big Ten elevens that defeated Big Six grid machines, and these victories added up to five wins for the Big Ten against one for the Big Six.

It was the same story in the Southwestern Conference, for Missouri managed to nose out Southern Methodist for the only Big Six win. Conference teams suffered four defeats at the hands of the Texas schools, as Texas U., Texas A.&M. and Texas Christian proved to be too much for Oklahoma and Kansas.

Non-conference teams averaged 13.7 points against Big Six schools, while the conference teams averaged an even 21 points when playing outside foes.

Gomer Jones Named New UN Line Coach

Nebraska has a new line coach. Lt. Gomer Jones, Ohio State center and All American in 1935, was announced Friday by the public relations office as line coach, at a salary of $4,000 a year.

Masterson's Assistant.

He also played professional football with the Cleveland Rams for several seasons.

Retail Customers Reign Supreme; Says Prof. Blood

Weary of being asked "Don'tcha' know there's a war on?" the long suffering retail store customer is ready now to assume his traditional role of demanding the best of service and goods, according to Professor F. C. Blood, of the university's journalism department.

Speaking before a joint meeting of the Oakland and Fremont chambers of commerce recently, Professor Blood said, "Customers are tired of this fishy-eyed technique of selling which has prevailed during the war. How much goodwill retailers have lost in the last few years is a matter for anyone to speculate upon. But it is certain we must pay for the mistakes which have been made. Certainly this disinterest in the customer is on the way out."

War Intervenes.

Merchants cannot expect to pick up selling methods where they left off before the war, continued Professor Blood, as the abundance of merchandise returns to the shelves of stores. "The proprietor and clerk who pull soap flakes out of their sleeves and lift bananas from behind piles of discarded packing crates will be compelled to remodel their merchandising methods of lose customers."

Clerks will have to be given some training in the "abc's of selling," merchandise will have to be displayed in attractive methods, and greater use made of advertising to keep the customers coming, Blood concluded.

Two million impressions of Bing Crosby's recordings of "White Christmas" have been marketed in the U. S. alone.
