Enrollment Hits Mid-Term High

Greatest mid-year enrollment gain in the history of the university, a rise from 4,207 students first semester to 4,700 who had registered by Thursday afternoon, was announced by George W. Rosenlof, director of admissions. To the latter figure should be added about 550 students in the Omaha college of medicine, and those in the graduate school who will register by the end of this week.

More than 434 veterans were enrolled first semester, and 333 of that number will be attending classes again this term. Seventeen hundred veterans who have not been registered here before bring the total number of GI students to 2,059, roughly two-fifths of the university's total enrollment this semester.

Gain Comparable to First War.

A 100 percent increase over the second semester 1944-45, and a

Church Groups Plan Variety Of Activities

Church groups on the campus have planned a variety of activities for this week end. Gene Ellsworth, music manager for KFOR, will present a vesper organ recital at the First Methodist church at 4:30.

The Lutheran Student association will meet with June Sederstrom, national secretary of that organization, at the city campus center at 5 p. m. and at the Ag college center at 8:30 p. m.

Regular Chapel Services.

The regular Lutheran chapel service will be held at 10:45 a. m. in room 315 of the Student Union. Rev. H. Erck will conduct the worship service.

The Ag college Christian Youth Fellowship will co-operate with the Lincoln Christian Youth council in a 5:45 meeting at the First Presbyterian church. President Wilbur Blumh has announced that tickets may be purchased or reservations made for the lunch by calling 2-3117.

A representative of labor will speak at the Presbyterian Student House at 5:30. An open discussion will follow his talk on labor's needs.

Traditional Rites Held.

The University Episcopal church will hold a 6 o'clock dinner for which reservations must be made in advance. At 7:30 p. m. there will be choral evensong and a short address by Rev. L. W. McMillin. Immediately following the address will be a procession of lights in honor of Candlemas day and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. This procession of lights is an ancient and traditional service. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to attend the services.

Dr. J. S. Welch Speaks To Nu-Meds Wednesday

Dr. J. Stanley Welch, head of the Lincoln clinic, will be the principal speaker at the Nu-Med dinner to be held Wednesday, Feb. 6, in room 315 of the Union.

Tickets may be obtained in Dr. Otis Wade's office, 308 B. H., according to George Dingman, Nu-Med member.

Following the dinner, Dr. Welch will show the members through the clinic.

gain of 35 percent over the first semester's total, was reflected in the figures released by the admissions office.

This increase compares very favorably, according to Rosenlof, with the peak years following the first World War. In 1928-29, the total number of students registered for one or both semesters was 7,049, and this number is expected to be surpassed by the time late registrations for 1945-46 are finished.

Engineering Most Popular.

The peak registration has not yet been reached, and Rosenlof reiterated his statements made earlier this year that the university can expect to have an enrollment of nearly 10,000 within the postwar period.

Most popular among new students was engineering, with business administration and agriculture coming close behind. Greatest demand for new class sections was felt in business organization, English and chemistry. Although class quotas had been doubled in many instances, the English department was still creating new class sections Wednesday morning during the final registration period in the coliseum.

Bertita Harding Speaks at Convo Tuesday Morning

Bertita Harding, well known novelist whose stories deal with the romantic background of her aristocratic ancestors and the Mexican emperor, Maximilian, will speak at a student convocation at 1 a. m. Tuesday in the Union ballroom.

Mrs. Harding, who recently returned to this country after collecting material for a forthcoming lecture tour on inter-American cultural activities, will speak on the subject, "The Power of the Pen."

Parentage.

Born of Rhenish and Hungarian parentage, Mrs. Harding was brought to Mexico as a child of three when Franz Josef had her parents hide the crown jewels for safe keeping. She has published five novels, "Amazon Throne," "Phantom Crown," "Hungarian Rhapsody," "Golden Fleece" and "Royal Purple."

Journalism Head Edits Publication For Students' Use

Prof. F. C. Blood, director of the university School of Journalism, has edited a booklet entitled, "How to Edit a High School Paper and Get Out the Year Book."

This booklet will be distributed to high schools in Nebraska for use of high school students. It deals with problems of organization, makeup, content and financing, and provides a style of news writing for the benefit of student editors.

"This booklet is not a textbook but primarily a practical working guide for high school students to follow," Prof. Blood said.

Ad Solicitors

Students wishing to solicit advertising for The Nebraskan are requested to meet with Lorraine Abramson, business manager, on Monday, Feb. 4, at 1 p. m.

Traditional Innocents Return to UN

The traditional purple gowns and baldrics of the Innocents are returning to the campus this semester, according to Ellsworth DuTeau, acting chairman of the alumnus committee.

The men's senior honorary society, defunct since 1943, has been reactivated around four '43 Innocents back from the war—Bob Cunningham, Bob McNutt, Fred Metheny and Jack Stewart.

There will be no tapping of junior men this year, but Innocent alumnus Ellsworth DuTeau indicates that ranks of eligible juniors will swell to numbers adequate for tapping at Ivy Day, 1947.

Alums Revive.

Innocents society is being revived by Innocent alumni, headed by Mr. DuTeau, and returned Innocents tapped in 1943, when two classes, '43-'44 and '44-'45 were tapped. Complete return of all former Innocents is expected by fall semester, 1946, when the organization will resume full peacetime activities.

Initiated at Nebraska in 1903, the society flourished until its 40th anniversary, when the war intervened. The Innocents officiate at the chancellor's annual reception of freshmen and farewell to graduating seniors, usher football and basketball games, organize Ivy Day with the Mortar Boards, train cheer leaders and sell freshman beanies.

Cornhusker Sales

Sales for the 1946 Cornhusker will be closed Friday, Feb. 8, according to Editor Joyce Crosbie. No yearbooks may be purchased after that date. All partial payments should be paid immediately to Marilyn Adler, business manager.

Awgwan Announces Subscription Details

All students with Awgwan subscriptions for the past semester who did not receive their December or January copies may pick them up at the booth in the Union, according to Dean Neill, business manager.

Students who wish to subscribe to the magazine or renew their last semester's subscription may do so at the Union booth.

Fossils Jitterbug At Beaux Arts Ball

Are you bored with life? Are you tired of ordinary dances and parties? Are you hungry when you don't eat breakfast? Do silly signs saying "It's Different!" and "Mystery Ball!" slap you in the face everywhere you go?

February 9!

Well, now it can be told. The fine arts department has finally revealed what's different. Before the war the Beaux Arts ball was the event of the season, and this year the ball has been hauled out of the mothballs, given a shot in the arm and returned to the campus, come February 9.

February 9!

"It's different!" Yep, it really is. It's the first costume ball the campus has seen in many moons. The theme is "Heaven and Hell," so any kind of costume is jake. (Well, practically any kind!) But

Newspaper Resumes Pre-War Schedule, Five Copies Weekly

The Nebraskan, after two years of part time schedules, will resume daily publication Feb. 13, according to Prof. F. C. Blood, acting director of the School of Journalism. For the first time since 1944, The Nebraskan will be available each Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

At a recent Publications Board meeting, it was unanimously decided to return to publication as a daily. This decision was due to the great increase in enrollment and to the fact that labor shortages are less acute.

Betty Lou Huston, new Nebraskan editor, has announced that the

YW Officers Assume Duties For New Term

Newly elected officers of the Y.W.C.A. took office Wednesday evening after the installation ceremony in Ellen Smith hall.

Mary Ann Mattoon, outgoing president, installed Shirley Hinds as president for the coming year and Miss Hinds installed the remaining new officers.

Preceding the installation program, Virginia Buckingham read a poem, "The Torch Bearer," and Ruth Norman played several piano selections.

Ends Services.

To end the services, Helen Laird sang "Once to Every Man a Nation." The benediction was offered by Kady Faulkner. Lois Hanson was chairman of the installation service.

Members of the administrative cabinet installed at the ceremony were: Betty Lou Horton, vice president; Phyllis Teagarden, secretary; Shirley Schnittker, treasurer; Mary Dye, district representative; Mimi Johnson, membership chairman; Marilyn Markussen, freshman program; Maureen Evnen, international relations; Eleanor Knoll, upperclass leadership; Gretchen Claudius, New Testament; Virginia Demel, social committee.

Mary Lee McCord, Vesper planning committee; Joanne Rapp, publicity committee; Gretchen Burnham, Old Testament; Helen Laird, discussions chairman; Helen Schroeder, Girl Reserve leadership; Joan Moyer, beginning social service; Mary Esther Dunkin, person.

five editions a week will insure a more thorough coverage of all campus activities. It is also hoped that the Nebraskan will feature more pictures and informal material in addition to the news stories, than before.

Beauty Queen Finalists Reign At Tea Dance

The tradition of the Cornhusker's presentation of the beauty queen finalists will be broken for the first time this year when the Student Foundation presents the six girls at a tea dance to be held in the Union ballroom on Feb. 14 at 4 p. m., Margaret Neumann, chairman, has announced.

Coed Counselors Honor Freshmen At Annual Party

Honoring all freshman coeds and new enrollees in the university, a coed counselor party will be given Tuesday evening, Feb. 5, at 7:00 in Ellen Smith, according to Suzanne Pope, Coed Counselor president.

Games, songs, and refreshments will be featured thruout the evening and the newcomers will meet their Coed Counselor Big Sisters for the first time.

Priscilla Flagg is chairman of the party committee with a group of 20 serving under her. All coeds on campus are invited to attend, according to Miss Flagg.

Yearbook Takes Staff Pictures

First and second semester staffs of The Nebraskan, Awgwan and Cornhusker will have their pictures taken at 9:30 on Saturday morning in their respective offices. Barbara Emerson, managing editor of the Cornhusker, announced today.

Pictures are for their sections in the yearbook, and all staff members should be present.
