

Huskers To Entertain Iowa State Trackmen

With a third straight duel meet win in mind, Coach Ed Weir sends his Nebraska track and field artists against the strong Iowa State indoor track squad Saturday night on the Nebraska track under the east stadium.

The Cyclone thinclads have carried off conference honors in the indoor competition for the last three years, and the meet Saturday will test the Husker chances of dethroning Coach George Brentnall's performers.

Kratz Faces Test.

Features of the evening's program will be the mile and 880 races. Dean Kratz, Sidney stand-out, will try to take a double win in these events, facing Iowa State Ace Bill Arlen in the mile, and going against Bob Jones in the half mile.

Arlen was Big Six indoor mile king last winter, while Jones took 440 honors in the outdoor meet. Both Cyclone performers will be gunning for Kratz, and will stay out of earlier events to be prepared for the smooth striding Husker.

Nebraska stock took a rise this week, when big Ralph King, Waterloo hurdler, turned in his best time of the season in the high hurdles. The lanky timber-topper stepped off a nifty :07.8 performance, equalling the existing duel meet record.

Records in Danger.

Several other existing records are in danger, since the 440 mark is an even 53 seconds, and the half mile standard in 2:03, both within easy reach if the races are close. Dick Miller may crack the 13 feet 4 inch vault mark, for he cleared 13 feet 6 inches last week against Missouri.

Bobby Ginn, brilliant Husker miler, will not compete this week, but is expected to run in the Kansas duel meet on February 23, and should be in top shape for the conference meet early in March.

Leo Schneider Out of Kansas Basketball Tilt

Guard Leo Schneider is definitely out of the Nebraska-Kansas basketball game at Lawrence Friday, Coach Pop Klein reports. The shin splints that have bothered Schneider the last few games have forced Klein to leave the defense ace at home.

The Jayhawks of Phog Allen have learned not to underestimate the Nebraska team, for the Huskers always play their best against the league leaders. Last year, for instance, the Scarlet five handed the Kansans a 59 to 45 defeat, in the only win of the conference race for the Huskers.

Kansas Took First Meeting.

In their first meeting this year, the Kansas quintet broke loose in the second half to take a 56 to 45 win from the Nebraska team.

Nebraska has only two conference games remaining after the Kansas game, appearing at home for the last time on February 25 against Missouri
