UN Students Choose Star Cage Squad

Nebraska students have a chance to present their choices for a western all-star basketball team which will compete against a similar eastern aggregation on March 30 in Madison Square Garden.

The contest is being sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune for its fresh air fund. The Harold Tribune also backs the early September football game between a professional team and the eastern all-stars for the same cause.

All-geniies the Boundary. Any student, using the ballot printed on this page, may indicate his or her basketball preferences. The dividing line between east and west in this venture has been set at the Allegheny mountains, so the western team has plenty of teams to draw from.

With players like Bob Kurland of Oklahoma A. & M., Milo Kom-enich of Wyoming, Max Morris of Northwestern, Charlie Black of Kansas, Leo Klier of Notre Dame and Don Otten of Bowling Green, UN students should have no trouble choosing a ten-man squad.

Ballots must be mailed to: Sports Department, New York Herald Tribune, 230 West 41st Street, New York 18, N. Y., by March 5.

Contrary to public opinion, the fantasy that holds up strapless gowns is not Yehudi, but an obscure shoeclerk named Ginsberg.

Oklahoma Title Hopes Rest on Hurdler Sharp

NORMAN, Okla.—Beaten by a close score in each of three dual meets this year, Coach John Jacobs' Oklahoma track team closes its indoor season Saturday in the 18th annual Big Six indoor meet at Kansas City's Municipal auditorium.

Lacking runners who can score heavily in the 440, 880 and mile runs, the Sooners have only an outside shot for the 1946 title, but will be strengthened by two athletes who were not with them in Saturday's dual at Missouri, Quarter-miler Joe Richardson and Pole Vaulters Fred Eaves.

The Sooners practically forfeited the vault to the Tigers and Richardson's sub, Broadjumper Jack Dempsey, dropped the wand in the mile relay which if Oklahoma had won would have gained her a tie in the meet.

"After we dropped the baton and got half a lap behind trying to pick it up, we kept running hard, hoping Missouri would drop it up ahead of us. But they held it with both hands," laughed Jacobs.

The Sooners' top performer at Kansas City will be their brawny 180 pound hurdler, Jon Sharp. Sharp is all-victorious this winter against Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri in both the 60 yards high and low hurdles and has not been outrun while anchoring the Sooner mile relay. He made up ten yards on the Kansas anchor and broke the string in the meet-deciding relay, only to lose because the Kansas runner's torso passed the finish line first.

Other Sooner performers who should notch points at Kansas City will be Laddie Harp, all-victorious Sooner sprinter who defeated Missouri's Bob Crowson at Columbia Saturday; Two-miler John Canaris, who did 10:13 against Missouri and won; and Shotputters Plato Andros and Ben Stout.
