

UN Will Have New Class Building

Construction May Begin This Summer

Construction may start this summer on a new general classroom building, first addition to class space on the Nebraska campus since Andrews hall was built in 1929, it was announced Monday by L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent.

Bids for the building, which will be erected south of Bessey hall where the tennis courts are now located, are to be issued in the near future. Barring delays in obtaining materials, or other such hindrances, the new structure is expected to be ready for occupancy second semester of next year.

The new building will balance with Andrews Hall, on the north side of the quadrangle, which it will duplicate. Three stories high, it will be 238 feet long and 66 feet wide. A small "L" in which it will differ from Andrews, has dimensions of 98 by 54 feet. Of red brick with white stone trim, it will conform in style to other buildings on the campus.

71 Rooms.

"The university had hoped to construct a larger building the size of Social Sciences hall, but the increased cost of materials makes it prohibitive," Seaton said. "The new edifice will contain 31 classrooms and 40 faculty offices, including the office of the dean of the college of arts and sciences."

Though space allotments have not been made definite, the school of journalism, and the departments of mathematics, history, romance languages, sociology, political science and philosophy are planned to be housed there.

This will leave Social Sciences hall for the exclusive use of the college of Business Administration and the junior division. The latter will be moved there from its present quarters in the basement of University hall. When journalism and romance language classes and offices are removed from University hall, oldest building on the campus, it will be left vacant. If enrollment does not justify its further use, Seaton said, it will be torn down.

Reporters

There will be a reporters' meeting in the Daily Nebraskan office, Union basement, today at 1:30, according to Betty Lou Houston, editor.

Actors Offer 'Twelfth Night' Mar. 14, 15, 16

"Twelfth Night," Shakesperan comedy, will be presented by the University Players March 14, 15 and 16 at the Temple heater.

The theme of the play is concerned with a girl who is shipwrecked on the shores of the fairy-land Illyria. Cast in the role of the ship-wrecked girl is D. Ann Richardson, masquerading as a boy and lending John Alden assistance to over-amorous Duke. The male lead is Balvolio, the steward, played by Dean Graunke.

Sir Toby Belch, inveterate tipplet, is played by Rex Coslor, while Dede Meyers takes the part of Sir Andrew Aguecheek, English knight.

Swanson Plays Countess.

Ardis Swanson portrays the part of Countess Olivia. In her garden much of the action of the play takes place. Maria, Olivia's serving maid is Barbara Berggren. Gaylord Marr will act the part of Feste, the jester. The lovesick handsome Duke Orsino is portrayed by John Hanly.

Van Westover will appear as Viola's ship-wrecked brother Sebastian, and Herbert Spence is cast as Fabian, Olivia's serving man.

Other supporting roles include Dutch Meyer as the sea captain; Howard Oliver, Antonio; David Andrews as Curio; Dean Wells, Valentine; Alan Ray, the priest; Bill Fein and Fred Lorenz, the two officers.

As a preface to the play there will be an imaginary scene between Shakespeare, played by Bill Swanson and Burgage, by Larry Gilling. Avrum Bondarin will narrate the story.

Five New Sets.

Under the direction of Max Whittaker, technical director, five different sets have been designed and are being constructed for the production. Dallas S. Williams, theater director, is in charge of the complete undertaking.

In addition to the regular Thursday, Friday and Saturday night shows, there will be a special matinee for school children Saturday afternoon, March 16. University students and townspeople may also attend the matinee if they choose.

Tickets for "Twelfth Night" are now on sale at the Temple theater boxoffice. The price is 60 cents. The boxoffice is open from 12:30 to 6:00 this week, and reserved seats may be obtained at that time.

Student Group Will Consider Chancellorship

Students of the University of Nebraska will be given an opportunity to express their opinions on the choosing of a new chancellor, Wednesday at 5:00 in room 315 of the Union.

A committee headed by Mary Ann Mattoon and composed of Betty Lou Houston, Edith Pumphrey, Claire Kepler, Robert Gillan, Bill Miller and Elmer Sprague, has been named by the president of the Student Council to preside over Wednesday's meeting and present their findings as to qualifications or specific personalities to the Board of Regents.

Mortar Boards Honor Scholars At Tea Sunday

Four freshmen women were announced as recipients of the $75 Mortar Board scholarships at the organization's annual scholarship tea Sunday afternoon in Ellen Smith hall.

Dace Bolyan, Mary Ann Graff, Pauline Holm and Donna Rae Gorham were chosen from the group of applicants for the scholarships. It has been several years since the honor went to four freshmen.

Ava Bromwich, Victoria Chilquist, Janet Hutchinson, Jane McElhancy, Martha Nickerson and Mary Lou Weaver were presented with silver identification bracelets acknowledging them as the out-

FHA May Okay Air Base Plans

Plans for reconverting the Lincoln Air Base hospital site into apartments for university married veterans have been submitted for approval to the federal housing administration, according to R. W. Devoe, president of the board of regents.

The plans were presented to the FHA regional office in Chicago Thursday by Devoe; L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent; Col. James P. Murphy, director of military training; and H. C. Potter, construction engineer.

Submit Requisition.

FHA informed the university officials they had submitted a requisition for all equipment nec-

Big Name Band Creates Upheaval As Students Prepare for '46 Prom

BY MARILYN MEYER.

Personally we don't care. Personally we are disgusted. These snub characters who think they can arouse our curiosity about the "Foremost Trumpet and Trombone Stylist of America" are just bumping their heads against a stone wall. We don't care.

Fred Teller thinks we lose sleep and can't eat just trying to single out the band leader who holds that title. He keeps talking about the rating in "Downbeat" and how they can manage to hold the crowds back at the big affair on April 5.

Big News.

We don't care. We are perfectly calm. Oh, what's this? Fred Teller just streaked through and said the committee would announce the unknown on Wednesday. Oh, happy day! With mild curiosity we wonder if it could be— No, what would he be doing in this neck of the woods around prom time? Our stomach (there's just one between us) does a few loop-the-loops and we settle back to our calm self. La de da—wonder who it could be? Come to think of it, it would be nice to be in on the know. Do you suppose it really is a big NAME band, BIG that is? Maybe there is more behind those gleams in the eyes of the committee members than we know. After all, they are informed as to what is going on.

In the Know.

Jack Cressman just gloats about his honored position as one of Those Who Know. He and Mr. Teller exchange knowing glances and quietly murmur, "Let 'em suffer a little longer." This is beginning to arouse our own curiosity just a little.

Maybe we had better start curling our hair and eyelashes and sharpen the old trap in preparation for the gala event. We hear everyone is invited, including the freshmen and sophomores.

Since this is the first prom since ye olde days back in 1942 it might be worth taking in. Not that we'll ever admit it, but it will be nice to tell our grandchildren that once in our college career we attended a junior-senior prom. And with a name band featured at the hop.

There's that band again. Just can't get it out of our mind. We wish Mr. Teller would come down out of the clouds and let us in on the secret. But on second thought, we don't want to flatter him by letting him think we care about who the Foremost Trumpet, etc., is. Oh, never. We are so unconcerned that we won't let him see that we have only the third knuckle left on our right hand. We don't care. We are disgusted.

Veterans' Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Student Veterans Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the ballroom of the Union for the purpose of discussing recommended changes of the constitution. All veterans are urged to attend. Richard Stood, Public Relations Chairman
