

Humiliated Pharmacists Attack Crusading 'Daily'

By Wally Becker

Close on the heels of the startling expose by George Tierney Shestak of the outrageous estate of the Pharmacy college, avalanches of bitter denials and stinging rebukes cascaded down about the heads of the crusading Nebraskan editors.

Outraged and humiliated pharmacists, stung that their awful secret had been so cruelly laid bare, fumed and frothed (at 98 centigrade), while demanding retraction of the article and decapitation of Shestak.

Bomb Shell.

Shestak's journalistic bombshell blasted away the shrouds of secrecy which have for 60 years shielded the insidious goings-on in the quiet, ivy-draped Pharmacy college. The stunning revelation struck the grim, silent college with the fury of a torrential tornado and left it like an upset anthill, with nurses, "students," and Dr. Lyman scurrying about the humble ruin. These embattled pharmacists, with the scalding tears of hot rage burning their fiery eyes, fell full five fathom in furious attack upon the noble heads of our editors.

To no avail! We shall not retract!

It was with the hard, gem-like flame of the true radical that Shestak revealed that Pharmacognosy 576 was in reality a course in the Chocolate Malt; and that advanced Pharmaceutology 487 actually dealt with limes, limeades and limericks; or that frosted fudge sundaes masqueraded as Pharmacology 666; and that basic course Pharmacy 1 was really the Cherry Coke.

Outrageous.

Publication of a few of these peurle attacks against our courageous expose will only serve to demonstrate the essential truth of our cause. One Vicky Chilquist, who purports to be a senior in the College of Pharmacy, dared dispute the veracity of the famed story. "Whenever the Daily Nebraskan should care to visit the College," she retorted, her breath coming in quick, hot gasps, "they will find us engaged in work of a serious and complex character." Yes, the Daily Nebraskan is fully cognizant of the exacting mental exertion demanded in the elaborate construction of a chocolate-mint soda.

One Bernice Kimball, claiming to be a "student" of pharmacy, waxed indignant over the daring article: "Scandalous!" she screamed, quite forgetting in her rage to put the straws in the lime phosphate she was concocting at the time.

One Bill Zimmerlee, professing to be an intimate of the Pharmacy clique, forsook the cigars and tobacco he was grading according to price, long enough to curse, "in extreme poor taste, suh."

One Charleen Miller, who has sold her erlife into Pharmacy casting dark looks over her shoulders and narrowing her lids in hatred, muttered: "That George Tierney was anti-pharmacaal by birth and breeding," as she arranged a colored display of tooth brushes.

That very cleanly disposes of the wretched objections of the pro-Pharmasists, and now to run those "Pharmasists" off the campus. They'll throw up a barricade before twelfth and R, but if need be we can gut them out of the basement crevices there. Delenda est Pharmaco!
