

Theta Sigs Select Cawood As Head

Mary Alice Cawood, Nebraskan news-editor, YWCA worker and president of Kappa Alpha Theta, was revealed at the Theta Sigma Phi banquet Thursday night at the Cornhusker as the honorary journalism sorority's president for the coming year.

Journalism majors, school of journalism faculty members, staff members of local newspapers and interested students were guests at the dinner, which used as its theme, "University Magazines." Ruth Korb, president, introduced the speaker and Les Godfeldy acted as toastmistress.

Fritz Daly, alumnae secretary, told the group that Nebraska in the postwar years will offer an unparalleled opportunity to young men and women desiring to be of service to state citizens.

"Former Nebraska newspaper reporters and editors, many of them graduates of our school of journalism," Daly, himself a former Omaha newspaperman, said, "now populate many positions of importance on eastern metropolitan dailies, press associations and magazines. Naturally we are proud of this recognition of the university and the state, but there is just as great an opportunity for service right here at home—on our daily papers and community newspapers."

Daly went on to say that Nebraska is a young, growing state, See CAWOOD, Page 4.
