

Alum Board Membership May Change

Alumni membership on the university athletic board of control should be from "more than one city," the Board of Regents recommended Saturday.

The board also agreed on a policy to ask for recommendations for membership on the board from the Alumni association, the "N" club and the University Senate for representation on the athletic board.

Report Presented.

The action was taken following presentation of a report of a joint alumni-regent committee which had been appointed to consider two resolutions presented the Board of Regents January 5 by the Omaha chapter of the Alumni association. The resolutions asked:

(1) That alumni representation on the board be altered to include a representative of each congressional district; and (2) that the board be empowered to "give immediate publicity to any of its actions," unless in the judgment of the board such action be first submitted for approval to the Chancellor and the Board of Regents.

Recommends.

The committee's report recommended that the athletic board's constitution should "not be changed" but that the two alumni representatives should not "be from the same city." The committee declared that the resolution (See ALUMS, page 2.)

O'Neill Show, 'Ah, Wilderness,' Ends Play Season This Weekend

BY DEDE MEYER.

"Ah, Wilderness!" a comedy of recollection in three acts, by Eugene O'Neill, will open Thursday evening for a three night stand at the Temple theater.

This play, the fourth and final major production of the University Theater this season, is a gentle and loving story, colored with bits of humor and sadness, about a typical American family in 1906. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock upon the scene of the home of the Millers, who live in a small town in Connecticut.

"Just Folks."

The Millers are average folks. Mr. Miller owns the local newspaper, and his family is faced with the usual problems that face American families. During the play their main trouble is concerned with Richard, their young son, a senior in high school, who reads Oscar Wilde and Omar Khayyam, and writes poetry to his girl friend.

Richard hates capitalists, and because of his rebelling nature, is forced to break up with his girl friend. Being young and arrogant, Richard, for spite, goes out and gets drunk in the presence of a strange woman. When this news reaches his parents, they think that the world is coming to an end.

But Richard's lost damsel proves her devotion at a moonlit rendezvous on the beach, and everything is set aright. About this time Mr. and Mrs. Miller begin to reminisce, and they remember that they, too, were young once.

Enlarged ROTC Unit Is Planned For Next Year

An enlarged ROTC unit to be in full swing by next fall is being planned, Lt. Col. Merle J. Senn, acting director of military training, announced last week.

The unit will again be composed of three branches, field artillery, infantry and engineers, instead of the present "branch immaterial." "We expect to fill most of the maximum quota of 125 cadet officers from student veterans who have had the required basic ROTC courses taken care of by their time in the armed service," Lt. Col. Senn said.

Stimulus.

Added incentive for veterans to take advanced ROTC has been given by the war department, Senn reported. The cadet now receives $87 uniform allowance instead of the pre-war $36. Subsistence money has been increased from $7.50 per month to $21.

Preference in applying for advanced ROTC will be given to veterans, according to Colonel Senn. They will be selected on the basis of the type of job they had in service, character, scholastic record and a comprehensive intelligence examination. To be a cadet, the student must not have reached his 26th birthday and must be 19 years of age.

Teachers College Club Adopts Foreign School

The University Teachers College Women's club, made up of women faculty members and wives of professors, has adopted an elementary school in Luxembourg to which they are sending money for paper, pencils, books and clothing.

Made through an international federation, the club's initial contribution was $150 to be spent in buying such commodities.

Vets Meeting

Last regular meeting of the year for the veterans' organization will be held at the Union Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. Election of officers for next year is scheduled, according to Richard Sinsel, publicity chairman.

A 20 percent increase in the cost of course fees to all students, and an increase in the non-resident fee to a minimum of $75 were made by the Board of Regents Saturday.

The steps were taken to meet an anticipated budget deficit created by a rapidly increasing student enrollment at the university, according to Comptroller John Selleck. They will also provide necessary adjustment in salaries of some faculty members; and provide funds for additional faculty members needed to instruct the anticipated 7,000 to 8,000 student enrollment expected next fall, he said.

Lutherans Hold Dinner Sunday Nite

Revival of the pre-war banquet for campus students of the Lutheran Student group under the direction of Rev. Henry Erck and alumni has been scheduled for Sunday May 12, at 6 p. m. in the Union XYZ parlors.

The banquet, an annual pre-war custom adopted by the group, was dormant during the war years due to the tightened rationing regulations. With the relaxation of governmental control on commodities it will again be possible for the Lutheran group to plan the affair each year, according to Rev. Erck.

Irwin Jones Speaker.

Irwin A. Jones of Seward, assistant attorney general of Nebraska, will speak to the assemblage following the dinner. Frank Mueller, field secretary of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce, will act as toastmaster. Both are former members of the campus group.

Banquet committee chairmen selected from the active student group are Minerva Schliefert, decorations; Lambert Burmester, tickets, and Elaine Putensen, entertainment.

The board approved, effective Sept. 1, 1946:

(1) A 20 percent increase in the cost of course fees to all students. Most courses now cost $2.50 per credit hour. The increase would boost this figure to an average of $3 per credit hour. For the average student this means $7.50 more a semester in course fees.

(2) An increase in the non-resident fee from a minimum of $25 per semester to a minimum of $75, which was described as "in line" with increases made at most other institutions over the country. Nebraska at present charges a smaller fee to out-of-state students than most other neighboring states, who assess an average of $60 per semester.

(3) A recommendation by the deans of the colleges that all freshman and sophomore students—either resident or non-resident, must file applications for admission to the university before Aug. 1; that all sons and daughters of university alumni and other students not resident to Nebraska but who live in areas ordinarily served by Nebraska (eastern Iowa, northern Kansas, eastern Colorado and Wyoming and southern South Dakota) must be in the upper half scholastically of their high school classes; and all freshmen and sophomores distinctly non-resident to Nebraska must be in the upper tenth scholastically.

Jelle's French Class Sponsors Volunteer Food, Clothes Drive

Joan and Jeanette Strain, sophomore French majors, have volunteered to lead the campaign for money for the mailing and wrapping of food and clothing packages being collected this week in a volunteer relief drive sponsored by the 18th century French class of Dr. Emile V. Telle.

The Strain twins were the first volunteers outside the eighteenth century class to respond to the appeal for volunteers.

Based on the postage cost of the 11 pound maximum weight per package allowed by the post office, as well as on the cost of wrapping paper, cord, etc., the volunteer group has set $300 as the goal for a fund to pay these expenses.

The group asks that anyone desiring to contribute make their contribution to either Joan or Jeanette Strain, any members of the 18th century class, or with Pat Lehr at the Student Union office.

Union Box.

A large box has been placed in the lobby of the Student Union building to receive articles of food and clothing. Organized houses on the campus are making individual collections.

Packing and wrapping of packages will take place in the EABW room of the Union Friday afternoon and Saturday. Volunteer workers are asked to help. Thursday noon has been set as a deadline for all collections.

Class Volunteers.

According to C. D. Stokes, spokesman for the sponsors of the drive, the drive is a volunteer effort on the part of Dr. Telle's 18th century class, and has no official backing.
