

Yell King Art Beindorff Lists Card Stunt Rules

In preparation for the Indiana game, Yell King Art Beindorff today issued six suggestions to students seated in the card section to secure better coordination in the traditional half-time card stunts.

Although the colorful card flashes were well-received at the first home game, Beindorff said he felt the displays would be more uniform and effective if the following rules were observed:

(1) Cards should be in proper order and ready to flash as soon as the first half ends, since the flashes are prepared to coincide with the band formations.

(2) No one should leave their seats in the card section after ten minutes of the second quarter have been played.

Empty Seats

(3) If there are empty seats, all persons should move toward the center of the card section so that only the edges have to be filled. This will make it easier to fill vacant seats.

(4) Cards should be held with the long side horizontal and the short side vertical.

(5) Signal for raising the cards will be the chant: "One, two, three, UP!" The same signal will be used for lowering: "One, two, three, down!"

Don't Tear

(6) Since paper cannot be obtained as in pre-war years, students are asked not to destroy their cards. Later in the game, they will be passed to the aisles. Corn Cobs will collect them so that they may be re-used at later home games.

Kosmet Klub Appoints 22 New Workers

Twenty-two underclassmen have been chosen and approved as Kosmet Klub workers for the coming year, Jack Buffington, secretary, announced today.

These men will help stage the Klub's two annual shows, the fall revue and the spring musical, with the most outstanding workers selected by the active members for initiation after the spring show.

Buffington asked all workers to watch The Daily Nebraskan for announcements of future meetings.

Workers

New workers named are John Ballew, J. R. Castner, Robert Diers, Paul Dietrich, Gould Flagg, Kenneth Fletcher, Warren Howard, Richard Johnson, Philip Keeny, Edwin Lawson, W. E. Lucas, Robert Moodie, Karl Mueller, Perry Rankin, Bill Schenk, Walter Simon, Roger Stewart, Bill Stunkel, C. J. Theisen, Gerry Thomas and Norbert Tiemann.

After a wartime absence, the Kosmet Klub revived their activity schedule last March with a spring show. The Sigma Chi's won first prize in the skits, receiving the gold cup.

Dick Folda, last year's president and John B. Cook, business manager, turned over their duties this fall to John Dale, president, and Fred Teller, business manager.

composed of Pat Lahr, Student Union director; Fritz Daley, alumni secretary; Tom Novak, Jim Meyer, Dick Thompson and Fred Lorenz, all football men, decided that the Beta Sig's long, lanky, pig-toting Hoosier best filled the bill for the men's competition and that the AOPis' recalcitrant goat and singing of "Blood on the Ground" did the same in the women's division.

With Lena, the Hyena, classic comic strip character, stealing top billing for the evening, Indiana seemed to have hit a new low in the Cornhuskers' opinion. Art Beindorff, yell king, and his able staff of cheerleaders led the rally with the university pep band assisting with the music.

Fourteen Entries.

A total of 14 different ideas of "Who's Yer Hoosier?" were placed on view, giving the judges no little difficulty in deciding which personified the ideal Hoosier. Showing the originality that sparked the entire rally, Chi Omega, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Delta Tau, and Sigma Nu seemed to please the large group which had gathered in the lot east of the Union.

The Chi O's dreamed up a "Hot Air Hoosier" consisting of balloons and accompanied the presentation with some loud and long singing. Beta Theta Pi carried a stretched that purported to be holding "Carton's Cousin" while the S D T's brought out a large map of the United States with Indiana crossed off. The Sigma Nu entry was also carrying a pig that left little to the imagination as to what they think of native Indians.

Equally clever in the estimation of the crowd were the other entries but it was the AOPi representative and the Beta Sig man who were presented with miniature N men by Beindorff, Tassels, Corn Cobs and approximately 1,000 spectators loudly voiced their agreement with the judges' decision, to wind up a highly successful rally.
