

Scarlet to Face Hoosiers Saturday in Vengeful Mood

There will be a day of reckoning in all football rivalries, and one of these days is coming up Saturday when the Huskers and the Hoosiers get together for an afternoon of gridiron activity at Memorial stadium.

For the past three years the Indiana club has poured topheavy defeats on the war-weakened Huskers. In 1943 Bo McMillin's ball team trounced Nebraska 54 to 13, in '44 the count was 54 to 0 and last year the Scarlet got 14 and again Indiana collected 54 points.

Hence Bernie Masterson's ball players will be out to try for a bit of revenge. Nebraska may

ABE ADDAMS
Indiana End

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Indiana's football forces, given a two-week respite from Big Nine competition, set out today for Lincoln, Neb., and Saturday's intersectional contest with the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Best Since '36.

The Hoosier-Husker pigskin party has been one of the country's best football attractions since 1936, when Coach Bo McMillin personally arranged this long-term intersectional rivalry.

McMillin long has been a popular figure in the Cornhusker precincts. As early as 1927, Nebraska fans were marveling at the manner in which his underdog Kansas State eleven battled almost on even terms Nebraska's perennial Big Six titlists.

McMillin's Indiana elevens have become an even greater attraction at Lincoln. The 1937 Hoosiers drew more spectators than any team to appear in Nebraska's stadium, and the series has presented chapter after chapter of stirring football lore. In the inaugural contest of 1936, Indiana scored nine points in the first half, Nebraska tallied 13 points in the last half, and when the game was over, Dana Bible, then the Husker mentor, said: "It was all even—you won the first half and we won the second half."

It was not until 1941 that Indiana was able to register a victory, and now the Hoosiers have won five straight, scoring 54 points in each of the last three contests.

McMillin has been engaged in pigskin patchwork all week in an effort to get Indiana's crippled eleven up to maximum strength. Fullbacks Pete Pihos and Harry (Chick) Jagade, Guards Howard Brown and Frank Ciolli and Abe Addams, regular left end, probably will be missing from Indiana's lineup because of injuries.

Mile Relay Set As Half Time Entertainment

Eight of Nebraska University's prospective quartermilers will provide halftime entertainment Saturday at the Nebraska-Indiana football game.

Early Preview.

Since Indiana is not bringing a two mile team along with the football squad, Coach Ed Weir has decided to send two of his mile relay teams into action against each other in an attempt to get a line on prospects for the track season which is not too far off.

Trackman nominated by Weir to run in the race include Don Vollersten, Bill Conner, Fritz Ware, Harold Kopf, Bill Moorehouse, Loyal Hurlbert, and Dick Young. The eighth member of the group has not yet been selected.

Hurlbert's time of 51.9 seconds in the 440 the past week has been one of the more outstanding performances turned in by a trackman so far this fall.

Nubbins Meet Wildcat B Team Tonight

The Nebraska Nubbins will go after their fourth consecutive victory tonight when they meet the Kansas State B team at Manhattan.

Coaches Ray Prochaska and Bob Kahler have named 32 players to make the trip, which will be a return engagement between the two outfits.

Two weeks ago the Husker B team scored a 25 to 14 triumph over the Wildkittens in Lincoln. Quarterback Kay Cleavinger and Halfback Del Ehret sparked the K-Staters in that game and will be on hand again.

Promotions have taken Harvey Stroud, who raced 90 yards for a score in the first clash between the two teams, and Wally Hopp from the Nubbins lineup.

not win, but you can bet that the score will be nothing like the scores of the past three years.

Prior to the war the Indiana-Nebraska series had produced some thrilling battles and the Huskers had the edge three wins to two before untried teenagers took over the pigskin spotlight.

This year finds the two teams similar in a number of respects. Each has won two games and both have been beaten by Iowa by the same number of touchdowns. Injuries will hamper both clubs tomorrow, the Hoosiers' Pete Pihos being unable to devote full time to his fullback duties and the Huskers' Sam Vacanti being unable to sling his passes with the desired effect.

36,000 Expected.

The 36,000 fans who are expected to jam Memorial stadium for the game will be watching Ben Raimondi, the Indiana passer who ranks first in the nation.

As an added attraction, Raimondi will be presented with the A. A. Ruzzulo trophy, given annually to the outstanding athlete of Italian ancestry. Governor Dwight Griswold will be on hand for the ceremony.

The ceremony will be nothing new to one Husker, for Sam Vacanti received the honor a few seasons ago for his work with Purdue.

UN Has Top Average.

Although the Nebraska team has won two and lost two this season, it leads all other Big Six squads in average points per game. With 60 points in four games the Huskers have an average of 15 points a game, trailed by Kansas with 14.6 and Oklahoma with 14.5. Indiana has scored 41 points in five contests for an average of slightly over eight points a game.

Indiana has the best of the defensive averages, allowing foes 11.2 points a game, while Nebraska's opponents have averaged 17 tallies.
