

Student Federalists Meet, H. Turk Elected Chairman

The first meeting of the newly-formed Student Federalist organization was held Thursday night in the Union, with more than 20 interested students attending. It was concerned with the basic principles of world federalism in general and Student Federalism in particular.

Herman Turk and Eugene Bertram conducted the meeting. The first portion was not only devoted to explanations, but also included a question period, during which those present asked about those points of federalism that they did not completely understand. Following the discussion, the attention of the group was focused on organizing a permanent group.

Turk Elected

The first step taken was the unanimous election of Herman Turk as acting chairman. A constitution committee was appointed to prepare a draft to be ready for ratification by the group at the next meeting, which is to be held Thursday night.

Other business accomplished at the meeting was the decision to have three students prepare explanatory talks dealing with some phase of federalism for presentation at future meetings. The first talk, entitled "Federal Principles in History," will be presented at Thursday's meeting by Herbert Rohde. The next two talks, "Federalism in the United States" and "A World Federal Order; Requisites and Prospects" will be delivered at the following meeting by Dorothy Lasher and C. Vance Hubbard respectively. The purpose of these talks is to give those interested a substantial background in federalism so that they can proceed to discuss some of the more advanced problems.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the meetings and to become a member in the organization, according to Mr. Turk. Those that are particularly interested are invited to be at the next week's meeting, for it will still be organizational and will also feature the special talk.

Prize-winning Works of Nebraska Artists Featured in Morrill Hall Guild Exhibit

An all Nebraska art exhibition, displaying the works of Nebraska artists exclusively, is being sponsored by the Lincoln Artists' Guild, and will open at Morrill Hall this afternoon at 2 p. m. to continue through November 11, according to Mrs. Dwight Kirsch, chairman of the Guild.

In past years the annual fall exhibit has displayed entries contributed predominantly by Lincoln artists, but this year's show will feature the works of many outstate artists who have contributed more than half of the 160 entries. This year's exhibit will be larger than any previous one due to the increase in the number of contributors.

Winning Works.

Open to the public, the exhibition will feature oil paintings, water colors, sculptures, and ceramics to be shown in two of the art galleries and in the hallway. Outstanding among the displays will be several portrait heads and a prize-winning torso, the works of Miss Phillis Campbell of Lexington who received national recognition by winning first and second awards at the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis, Minn.

The selection jury whose job it was to judge the entries and choose the best ones for the exhibition was comprised of Miss Myra Biggerstaff of Auburn, Miss Dorthea Kropp, professional decorator for Gold's, and Mr. Murray but canvassers will cover all houses.

The cost of a single copy of the Awgwan is $25. A year's eight subscription, which will be eight issues is $1.75, and a semester subscription is $1.00. The booth in the lobby will be open during the remainder of this week and all of next week.

Turnbull of the university art department.

Miss Biggerstaff recently returned from Sweden where she had been studying art; she also studied in France. Miss Kropp who was awarded a scholarship to a Paris art school also studied abroad. Mr. Turnbull, a former student at the Colorado Springs art center, was an art instructor in Great Falls, Montana, before coming to teach at the university.

A reception in honor of the contributing artists will be given by the Guild Tuesday night in the Morrill Hall art gallery.
