

HUSKER HIGHLIGHTS

By George Miller

The Cornhuskers are not the only Big Six team to get a trip to warmer surroundings at the close of the football season.

While Bernie's boys are in Los Angeles for a battle with UCLA, the Kansas State Wildcats will be facing the University of Arizona at Tucson. By that time, though, the idea of travel will be old stuff to Hobbs Adams' crew.

On November 9 the E. States will fly to San Francisco for a game with the University of San Francisco, and two weeks later they will be in Albuquerque for a tilt with the New Mexico Lobos. The Arizona game comes on the following Saturday, so the Wildcat players should be sporting healthy tans when they return to Manhattan in December.

Oklahoma's top heavy win against Iowa State, 63-0, marked the first time since Mike Michalski has been at the helm of the Cyclone football fortunes that his team has been shut out.

The last time that an Iowa State eleven has been blanked was in 1942 when Nebraska turned the trick by a 26-0 count. Thirty-five games have been played by Ames teams since then and the Cyclones have managed to score in every encounter.

Another Sooner back jumped into prominence in that Cyclone game, for Oklahoma's fullback, Eddie Davis, was acclaimed by the Iowa Staters as being every bit as good as his teammate, Joe Golding.

When Kansas State and Iowa State get together this week end for their tussle at Manhattan to decide who gets last place in the conference, six of the seven leading punters in the loop will be present.

Bob Dennis, 18 year old Cyclone booter, currently paces the loop with an average of 45.8 on his kicks, just .8 of a yard back of Art Pollard of Arizona U. who leads the nation in this department.

Other Cyclone punters are Ron Norman and Ron Ferguson, while the 'Cats can field Karl Kramer, second ranking Big Six kicker with an average of 41.2, Vic Jones and Harold Bryan.

Huskers beware: The starting backfield for UCLA against Santa Clara last Saturday contained three players who are technically listed as fullbacks. But all three showed enough speed to win places in the starting lineup and have been terrors ever since.

Art Steffen, 205 pounder who runs at left halfback; Jerry Shipkey, 215 pound right half who replaced injured Cal Rossi and Jack Myers, 200 pound fullback have rolled over the opposing defenders like runaway locomotives.

Seems as if the Cornhuskers are playing the wrong teams at the wrong times. Injured stars on three rival teams yet to be played have been out or will be out of the lineup for varying lengths of time, but all will be set to play against Nebraska.

For Missouri regular Fullback Fred Bouldin has been benched with a broken hand for several games but will be able to go against the Huskers this week.

Iowa State's Ed Farni sustained a couple of bruised ribs against Oklahoma and will be idle until the Nebraska game on November 16, while Cal Rossi, Uclan sparkplug who broke his leg against California, is on the mend and is expected to be fit and ready by the time the Scarlet clash rolls around on November 30.

Defensive Drills Scheduled for UN

Blocking and tackling techniques received plenty of attention in the University of Nebraska football camp as the Huskers drilled for the Missouri game Saturday.

Movies of the Indiana game showed that the Scarlet team was extremely ragged in these departments and such deficiencies were in a measure responsible for the failure of the Nebraska speed boys to do any effective ground gaining.

With a victory over the Tigers necessary if the Nebraska banner is to continue to wave at the top of the Big Six race, the Husker coaching staff intends to give the Scarlet gridders plenty of work this week.

Tom Novak, pile driving fullback who has developed into one of the top line backers and ball carriers in the conference, has been bothered by a shoulder injury which he received in the Indiana game. All other squad members with the exception of Cletus Fischer, who is still hobbled by a knee injury, will be set to play. Should Novak be out of the Bengal battle, the Husker stock would slump sharply, for the former Omaha South bruiser has been one of the standouts both on offense and defense for Nebraska.

The Huskers' flimsy pass defense will not be overlooked by the Missouri team Saturday. Despite the fact that they have no big name aerial artist, the Tigers have completed 40 percent of the passes they have tried, not a bad average in any man's league.

Any hopes the Huskers have that Missouri may have an off day Saturday when the two clubs get together to provide the feature attraction of the Nebraska Homecoming festivities should be forgotten. Against Southern Methodist last week the Bengals were at their worst.

Fumbles and poor punts set up all of the Mustangs' tallies and Coach Don Faurot will have his charges ready to go at top speed against the Scarlet-clad squad.

Injuries Hurt Cyclone Hopes For Triumph

AMES, Iowa.—With Jim Riding out for the season and Ed Farni not expected back before the Nebraska game, the Iowa State coaching staff will go to work on replacements this week.

Riding, one of the nation's best defensive centers, had his back injured at the end of nine minutes of play against Oklahoma and will be lost to Coach Mike Michalski for the rest of the season. A fractured vertebra was the result of his hard play on the first Oklahoma kickoff of the game.

Farni, sophomore quarterback, had a pair of ribs pulled loose late in the game and will be out for about two weeks.

Nebraskan Takes Over. Carter Kokjer, Sidney, Neb., and George Schoel, Waterloo, both reserve centers, will share the pivot duties. Bob Dennis, Plattville, Wis., and Jim Sutherland, Ames, will be the leaders for Farni's vacated post. Both are freshmen.

Another freshman who seems certain to see more action is Bill Chauncey, Webster City fullback. Hampered by injuries all season, Chauncey now appears physically ready to play. His showing against Oklahoma convinced both coaches and fans that the former all-stater is ready to go.

While the Cyclones drill for the Kansas State game Saturday, the Wildcats settle down to hard workouts too after an open date. Coach Hobbs Adams' squad, like the Cyclones, will be seeking its first Big Six win of the year when Iowa State visits Manhattan.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Registers Win In Table Tennis

In the Intramural table tennis tournament, Sigma Phi Epsilon defeated Delta Sigma Pi Monday night, as they captured 4 out of the 5 matches. Smiley came thru with the lone win for the Delta Sigs, defeating Doering in 2 out of the 3 games played.

Other results were: Sack, DSP, lost to Portwood, SPE; Capsey, SPE, defeated Anderson, DSP; Dickey, SPE, defeated Limbaugh, DSP; and Johnson, SPE, won by forfeit when his opponent failed to show up.

Delta Upsilon Nips Sigma Chi In Playoff Tilt

The first league playoff in the intramural football league found Delta Upsilon, League II champs, defeating Sigma Chi, the leaders of League III, by a 7-0 margin. Hanson caught the winning touchdown pass for the DU's.

Phi Psi Team Wins.

Phi Kappa Psi climbed a notch in League III standings by defeating Theta Xi, 13-2. The YMCA turned on the heat in the independent loop, to defeat the V-9's, 31-0. Cooper and Klenker led the Y attack. YMCA is now deadlocked with the Lillies for first place in the independent league, and their game Thursday may decide the championship.

The Vet's Organization had an easy time collecting their third straight win, as they downed the Ag Freshmen, 8-0. The Vets made all their points in the first five minutes, and were never seriously threatened during the game. Willemson took a pass over his shoulder from Sodergren as he went into the end zone for the only touchdown.

Wednesday's schedule:

- 1 Phi Gamma Delta vs. Zeta Beta Tau.
- 2 Lillies vs. Ag Freshmen.
- 3 Vet's Organization vs. Presbyterian House.
- 4 League I second-place playoff.

Who's the greatest halfback in America?

DO YOU AGREE with Southern football coaches? They're acclaiming Charley Trippi of the University of Georgia as the best all-round halfback they've ever seen. Other players may outdo him in running, passing or punting—but, say the coaches, Trippi does all three things better than any other one player the South has produced. You won't want to miss this interesting article about Trippi in today's Saturday Evening Post.
