

HUSKER HIGHLIGHTS

By George Miller

Seems like the Cornhuskers did a good turn for the Minnesota Gophers and Coach Bernie Bierman when two of the Minnesota regulars were injured early in the Husker game on September 28, for the hurts received by Halfback Tom Cates and Guard Chuck Dellao enabled two Gopher substitutes to have a chance at fulltime duty.

Sharp-shooting Ev Faunca, one of the nation's leading passers and all-around offensive backs, replaced Cates and blossomed into a full time performer, one of the best in the Big Nine. The other reserve who got a chance was huge Leo Nomellini who is one of the big surprises on the Minnesota squad.

Husker foes will learn to fear San Vacanti when he enters the game at a crucial moment.

In the last two contests slingin' Sam has entered the battle when the Scarlet have been threatened. On the first play after his arrival on the field Vacanti has unleashed a touchdown pass. Jack Pesek was on the receiving end against Missouri and a week earlier it was Ed Nyden who latched on to the toss in the end zone.

George Sauer's Kansas Jayhawks make a specialty of thrilling their rooters. In the Oklahoma Aggie encounter the Cowpokes scored their touchdowns in the closing seconds of each half.

This was nothing new, because in earlier games Denver and Iowa State had also pushed across the touchdowns with less than a minute remaining in the half.

Last Saturday's action produced something special in the way of thrills, for after the Aggies had pushed across a touchdown in the closing minutes, the attempted extra point which would have tied the score went wide. K. U. cheers were stifled

Cyclone-Drake Encounter Set For Saturday

AMES, Iowa.—It's not the oldest rivalry in Iowa State gridiron history but at least it is the longest—this series with Drake University.

Big Game.

It took Drake and Iowa State seven seasons to get started playing each other. Once started—that was in 1898—the series has been interrupted only three times. Breaks came in 1899, 1918, and 1920. With those three exceptions the Bulldog and the Cyclone have tangled every fall to give rank to the series as one of the state's "big games."

Like all other such traditional rivalries, consistent winning on the part of one team or the other has not detracted from the "draw" of the game. Iowa State has won 30 of the contests, Drake has captured 12, and three have been ties.

Nor has it always been necessary for each to bring unbeaten records to the contest to make fans flock to Drake Stadium or Clyde Williams Field. Previous play has had little effect on the game.

Cyclone Win Streak.

In racking up 30 wins the Cyclones scored ten in a row from 1910 through 1921. Drake's longest winning streak was 1929-1931 with four. The 1914 victory at 52 to 0 was the highest total for Iowa State while the 30 to 0 Drake win 1937 was the best Bulldog mark.

But history will mean mighty little Saturday when the two teams, meet for the forty-sixth time. Each team has won two games this year and that won't meant a thing.

All that will matter is that such foes as St. Ambrose, Detroit, Northwestern, Oklahoma and the like can—for this week—be regarded as simply tuneup contests for the forty-sixth meeting of the Bulldog and the Cyclone.

when the referee signaled that the Jayhawks were offside, but a Kansas lineman broke thru to block the second attempt and the Jayhawkers were the perpetrators of one of the day's many upsets.

Sid Held, former all-Big Six basketball performer for Nebraska, will be in action for the Faultless Laundry quintet of Kansas City this winter, along with several other former college aces.

Professional basketball leagues are springing up all over the country, so that collegiate stars will have plenty of opportunities to continue their condition when college eligibility is exhausted. As elaborate farm system, complete with waiver clauses, is in existence and will take care of many of the players who do not stick with the top flight outfits.

A goodly number of the freshman football candidates who have practiced faithfully all year without recognition get a chance to show their stuff in the intrasquad games arranged by Frosh Coach Pop Klein and his staff.

Lilies Take Independent Grid Crown

Phi Delta Theta, in a last minute drive, defeated Delta Upsilon, 13-7, in Tuesday's intramural football scrap. With two and a half minutes left to play in the game, the DU's were ahead 7-6. Then as the game ended Phi Delt Lebsack connected on a pass to Dick Chapin for the winning touchdown.

The Lilies won the independent championship Monday in defeating the V-9's, 13-0, to hang up a perfect record of six wins and no defeats in league play.

Houtz and Lowe scored touchdowns for the winners and Houtz has become the top scorer in the independent league. The Lilies will meet the winner of yesterday's fraternity championship game between Phi Delta Theta and Delta Upsilon on Thursday.

In another independent game, the Vets' Organization staved off a last minute threat to beat the YMCA, 6-0. Early in the game, Al Gloor made an almost impossible catch to put the Vets ahead. Both teams played a bang-up defensive game and not until three minutes remained did the Y team make a serious threat.

Johnson and Coffey led the Vets' forward defense, while Cranston and Keinker led the Y attack.

Round-Robin Begins.

Beginning the round-robin play-off in the first three leagues to decide fourth, fifth and sixth place standings, Beta Theta Pi set back a stubborn Phi Kappa Psi team, 1-0. Playing off a tie, the Betas were unable to gain a single yard. However, they threw the Phi Kaps for a five yard loss and a play later recovered a fumble to win the game.

Another tie game found Sigma Phi Epsilon downing Sigma Nu, 1-0, to stay in the running. The Ag Freshmen won by forfeit from Delta Sigma Pi.

Remaining schedule of intramural football games:

Wed., Nov. 6: Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Beta Theta Pi; Vets' Organization vs. Presbyterian House (replay of protested game).

Thurs., Nov. 7: All-university championship game Lilies vs. Phi Delta Theta; Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Phi Kappa Psi.

Two Mile Team Faces Wildcats On Thursday

Coach Ed Weir's two-milers are preparing for a meet Thursday with the Kansas State Wildcats at Memorial stadium.

The meet will be in the nature of a tryout for both squads, inasmuch as the conference meet comes the following week at Norman. The two coaches are expected to run six to eight men for the purpose of determining their best runners. Only the first five of each team will count in the scoring.

Young Back.

Blaine Young's return after a siege of flu should help the Husker squad. In addition to Young, Weir plans to run Bobby Ginn, Don Morrison, Phil Meyers, Harold Kopf, Jim Martin, and any other Nebraska men available. No charge will be made for admission. The race will begin at 4:30.

Swimming, Baseball Meetings Today

Swimmers are asked to depart to the training room in the field house for physicals on Wednesday evening, Nov. 6, and then to contact Coach Hollie Lepley on Thursday to arrange practice schedules.

Baseball Coach Tony Sharpe has announced that there will be a meeting of all candidates interested in varsity baseball. The meeting will be held in the varsity room in the coliseum basement Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Nebraska Gridder Get Two Day Layoff

With an open date Saturday, the Nebraska gridder's got a well-earned rest the first two days of this week, before resuming their football chores today.

Although there was no news from the practice field, Trainer Elwyn Dees had cheering words from the training room in the field house. Cletus Fischer, hard-hitting right halfback from St. Edward, who has been sidelined with a bum leg since early in October will probably be able to see action against the Iowa State team on November 16.

Fischer's return to the squad will bolster the right halfback ranks, especially in the defensive quarter for the scrappy 160 pounder is one of the most deadly tacklers on the team.

However, the news of Fischer's return to form is somewhat offset by the injuries to Fullback Tom Novak, Guard Ed Schwartzkopf, and End Ed Nyden. Novak has a bruised shoulder, Schwartzkopf a badly bunged-up knee and Nyden has been under observation at a Lincoln hospital because of a kidney injury.

The open date will give the Huskers a chance to prepare for the last three games on their schedule. After the final home contest with Iowa State on the 16th, the men of Masterson will journey to Oklahoma for a Big Six game on the 23rd and then proceed to the coast for a battle with UCLA at Los Angeles on the last day of November.
