

Ragged Edges

BY PAT GILLIGAN.

The week end rain and slush didn't seem to dampen the spirits of the students, for social activities progressed at their usual clip.

The biggest news to come to light is the elopement of Dick Fuller and Shirley Mason, who didn't waste any time after their pinning two weeks ago. They traveled to Marysville, Kas., last Monday night to tie the knot. It seems a few of Dick's brothers made the trip with them and helped them celebrate the occasion.

New Romances.

Thursday night must have been the night for romance for Millie Haycraft and Bob Burhans decided to limit their dating to each other from now on. Also Dee Bourne finally bestowed his Phi Delt shield on Mike Swanson—after being threatened by his brothers for past weeks. It is rumored they are discussing the wedding bells in the spring.

Sue Alexander and Jack Colgan might have picked a more romantic—but not a more unique—setting than zoology lab to decide on a steady deal.

Phyl McLaren with Lynn Augustine and Helen Schroeder with Bill Latta traveled to the Latta homestead in Tekamah for a big hunting trip over the week end.

Floating on air in more ways than one was Barbara Radcliff when she flew to Columbus with Colorado "A" and M man, Stephen James, Friday, to visit his parents. Steve, Barb's man of the moment, flew down from Ft. Collins in his plane to pick her up.

Omaha Party.

A group of the Phi Psis and their dates, Nancy Watkins and her escort, Jimmy Kruse; Tish Gardiner with Bud Hoffman; and Jo Bixby, took in the "Bowery" party with Dick Coyne. They left early in the evening for an informal gathering in Omaha at the home of Pepi Votava, who spent the evening with Allan Thompson.

Some of the Sig Alph dates Saturday included Willy Polite with Nancy Lawlor, Dick Lahr and Peggy Lawrie, tall Don McArthur with Marilyn Lowe and Bill Leroy with Carol Hemmingson.

The ATO pledges held their own private wet together Saturday night, altho the actives thought it most considerate of them.

When AGR pledges entertained actives at the traditional party Friday night, Gray Kinnier and Mary Derrick announced their approaching marriage. Duane Foote and Rose Mary Deffenbagh and Dwight Johnson with Lee Decker also attended the party.

Army-Irish Game Over Radio Gives All But Playing

By Bob Gillan.

Lincoln, as you all know, is the home of the most powerful radio stations in the midwest—the most powerful stations powered by three rather tired dogs running on treadmills, that is. If any of you were listening to the Notre Dame-Army game yesterday you can appreciate what we mean. Not only were we subjected to the most blatant forms of commercialism when some melodious voiced announcer started chanting a refrain about some razor which was the sharpest that he ever owned, but the Pellagra, New Mexico hog market reports started coming every time that Davi took off down the sidelines.

We are used to hearing this sort of thing, but what really bothered us was that the aforementioned dogs seemed to get tired when something interesting happened. All we heard during the second quarter was the score of the Toothless Gap Teachers College versus Mange Tech game, three pleas to join the Slobovian army, and the name of the station repeated 537 times.

Just a suggestion, boys. Next time how about sending reports by carrier pigeons to a man stationed on 13th and O with a megaphone?

Time Limit Needed to Remedy Deplorable Telephone Situation

By Geneve Jensen.

Situation unbearable! How about reform on the campus? The time has arrived to take steps of correction.

After numerous consultations and long deliberation, it has been decided that a happy medium can be reached—a medium involving the length of telephone conversations in the organized houses.

When hours of continuous dialings bring no results other than one bloody stump on an index finger, something must be done. The obvious conclusion: Rules!

No longer would it be necessary to spend valuable hours waiting in line to place calls. What we need is organization of the organizations.

Rule Enforcement.

It may be argued that there are five-minute or eight-minute rules in the houses, but the question arises: Why aren't they enforced?

Students on the campus must be made aware of the fact that there are other students. It may be distressing when after only 20 minutes, someone unreasonably asks you to hurry, but some people must be reminded.

One big complaint held forth is that too many people no sooner return from a date than they dash to the phone to talk for hours to the person they have just seen.

It is understood that 12:30 nights are not an eternity—one contention is that any lengthy discussion can be concluded earlier in the evening, so that a simple "good night" again would be sufficient after 12:30.

Another Alibi.

Another familiar statement that comes from infringers of the time rules is that no one else will want to use the telephone after one o'clock. May these people be gently reminded that they are using it—therefore there could be and probably are persons who are awaiting late calls.

The installation of more telephones could alleviate the situation, but to remedy it, the time limit rules must be observed by each house member.

Chores in "Unconquered" prevent Gary Cooper from accepting Bing Crosby's invitation to join him hunting and fishing at Der Bingle's Nevada ranch. Gary hopes to join Bing when the film winds up, and Paulette Goddard will hit the skyways for New York about the same time.

Miss Shirley J. Ludwig
