

Injuries Slow Drills For Iowa State Tilt

A lengthy injury list confronts Coach Bernie Masterson as he drills the Huskers in preparation for the last home game of the season Saturday against the Iowa State Cyclones.

Fullback Tom Novak and Guard Eddie Schwartzkopf are expected to miss the Big Six tilt Saturday and save themselves for the Oklahoma and UCLA games later this month. Big Tom has a shoulder injury plus a sore hip, while Schwartzkopf has a bad knee.

With Novak out of the lineup Wally Hopp, Hastings smasher, is expected to be on the field at the opening kickoff handling fullback duties. The roly-poly ball carrier has sparkled in practice sessions as well as in the Missouri game since he was promoted from the Nubbins squad.

Wilkins Game Captain.

Gene Wilkins, 200 pound Omaha guard, will replace Schwartzkopf at the right guard spot and will serve as game captain for the battle, the last of the season for the Iowa State eleven.

End Ed Nyden is lost for the season because of a kidney injury sustained in the one point loss to Missouri, and Quarterback Sam Vacanti is hampered by a lame shoulder.

Fred Metheny has moved into the No. 1 quarterback slot and will probably get the call Saturday. With Novak out of action, Frank "Junior" Collopy has moved back to the fullback spot from his right half berth and Bill Moomey will start at the halfback position.

UN Has Edge.

Based on the first string outfit that has been running together in practice this week the Huskers will hold a weight advantage of about five pounds per man over the invading Ames outfit.

Masterson has been using Jack Pesck and Willard Bunker at ends, Carl Samuelson and Gordon Hall at tackles, Wilkins and Fred Lorenz at guards, Joe Partington at center, Metheny at quarterback, Dick Hutton and Moomey at halfbacks and Hopp at fullback on the first unit.

The second combination has Jack Hazen and Bob Schieger at ends, Bob Teft and Vern Stiner at tackles, Frannie Leik and Bob Lipps at guards, Jim Thomson at center, Vacanti at quarterback, Jim Myers and Pat Rooney at halfbacks, and Frank Collopy at fullback.

Coach Ed Weir Names Five UN Distance Men

Five runners have been selected by Coach Ed Weir to carry Nebraska's colors in the Big Six two mile race at Norman, Oklahoma, Saturday.

Heading the list of two-milers is Bobby Ginn, pre-war Husker great, who has dropped only one race this season, and who figures as one of the top contenders for individual honors in the meet.

The other members of the team are Don Morrison, only recently returned from the service, Jim Magtin, freshman distance runner from Omaha Benson, Phil Meyers, and Harold Kopf.

Ginn has been troubled by a bad cold this past week, but as yet it has not hampered his running. Don Morrison has been improving consistently since his return to school and should be in top form this week-end.

Biggest improvement in the meet against Kansas State last week was the running of Martin. His performance against the Wildcats enabled him to finish in fourth place and also netted him a position on the squad going to Norman.

KU Upsets Oklahoma.

On a muddy and sloppy track last week, the Kansas Jayhawkers upset favored Oklahoma by the score of 25-30. Earl Jones of K.U. finished in first place, followed by Hal More, also of Kansas, who

HUSKER HIGHLIGHTS

By George Miller

If Nebraska fans are worried about getting into the coliseum to see Harry Good's 1946-47 edition of the Nebraska basketball team in action they ought to stop and consider the plight of the Illinois fans.

Due to an overwhelming enrollment and a limited seating capacity at Huff gymnasium, white seats 7,600, only students will be admitted to Illini games except for the tilt with Nebraska at Champaign on Dec. 28. For that game the general public will be admitted, since Christmas vacation will be under way and the campus will be less populated.

Even with such restrictions students will not be able to attend all of the games, for they have been divided into two groups, the "Orange" and the "Blue," and will attend alternate home games.

The Husker team when they play at Champaign will be on their way to Kentucky for clashes with Louisville and Western Kentucky Teachers on Dec. 30 and 31.

Who knows where the Iowa State two-milers will finish during the conference race?

The Ames runners may surprise if what one of their number accomplished last week is any indication.

During a cross country race against Drake's national champions Cyclone Larry Inman felt his shoestring break. He paused to mend it and still turned in a better time than he has managed all season.

The Iowa State band will be on hand at Memorial stadium Saturday to provide support for Mike Michalske's gridders when the Cyclones tangle with Bernie's Huskers.

It will be the third time that an opponent's band had been on hand with the Nebraska band, for the Missouri organization made the trip to Lincoln and the Scarlet and Cream musicians were in Lawrence when Nebraska edged the Jayhawks. Each time two bands have been together the Nebraska group has been definitely superior—a record which the football team will attempt to duplicate.

Nebraska's two-mile team is not doing badly when you consider that of the five runners two are not distance experts on the basis of previous competition.

Jim Martin, Omaha freshman, was the state 880 champ last year, and is a new hand at the two-mile distance, while Harold Kopf of Lexington won high school honors in the 440. Along with Bobby Ginn, Don Morrison and Phil Meyers, these novices will carry the Husker hopes in the conference meet at Norman Saturday.
