

Cornhusker Victory

Nebraska Power Too Much for Iowa State

BY GEORGE MILLER.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers joined Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri in a four-way tie for first place in the Big Six by grinding out a 33-0 win over the impotent Iowa State Cyclones Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium before 25,000 fans in the final home game of the season.

Three times in the first half Bernie's boys took advantage of Ames miscues to rack up three touchdowns and with a 19 point margin at halftime the Scarlet gridders were never in danger.

Dick Hutton and Bill Moomey were running in top form, and the Huskers moved at will up and down the field, controlling the ball most of the time. Due mostly to the utter lack of a running attack, the Michalske-coached Iowa Staters were unable to get farther into Nebraska territory than the 40 yard line.

Bill Chauncey was the work-horse of the Iowa State attack, but the Cyclones depended on passes by Ron Norman to provide most of their yardage. The passes failed to click and so did the visitors who wound up their season with Saturday's effort.

The best play of the game is not recorded in the points-scored column, for a slipping penalty nullified a 56 yard gallop by Hutton early in the third quarter.

Hutton Runs.

Ron Norman punted up the field to the elusive Auburn flash who cut across the field to the west, leaped a pile of would-be tacklers at the Iowa State 12 and changed directions to end his jaunt in the east corner of the end zone. However the penalty cancelled the effort and moved the ball back to the Nebraska 30.

Another long-distance sprint, by Bill Moomey, was stopped five yards short of touchdown territory. The right halfback broke into the clear for a 61 yard excursion before he was knocked out of bounds midway in the third quarter.

Quarterback Fred Metheny, making his first appearance in the starting lineup, paced the Scarlet point-makers with a pair of touchdowns, both coming on quarterback sneaks from within

All students who do not now have Engineering advisors but who wish to become listed as freshman engineers next semester are asked to report to the Junior Division office before November 27. University Given Scientific Device By Westinghouse

Six electronic tubes, designed to send out intermittent pulses of power, have been presented to the university department of electrical engineering by the Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

The tubes, which represent five different types, are small devices, but complex in structure. They will be invaluable for purposes of display and experimentation, explained Prof. O. J. Ferguson, chairman of the department of electrical engineering.

Norwegian Diplomat Will Address Convo

University students will have a chance to hear one of the most active of all European statesmen when Carl J. Hambro of Norway addresses a student convocation at 11 a. m. Tuesday, November 19, in the Union ballroom.

Dr. Hambro, who will speak on "World Government in Our Time" is present head of the Norwegian Parliament, and chief Norwegian delegate to the United Nations Assembly.

Senior Statesman.

The extent of Dr. Hambro's activities is a 'ardstick of his remarkable abilities. Dr. Hambro has held the position of Head of Parliament, second in importance only to the King, for twenty years. He was one of the youngest members ever to be elected to Parliament. When the Germans invaded Nodway, he conducted Parliament meetings until the Germans overran the country, before he escaped to England by way of Sweden.

He was elected President of the Assembly of the League of Nations in 1939, and will remain in charge of the affairs of the League until it is completely taken over by the UN.

Authored 20 Books.

He has written twenty books, the latest of them being "How To Win The Peace." This book explains the failures of the old League of Nations and points the way to a really effective world peace. Besides the books he has written, he has translated more than fifty books into Norwegian.

He was editor-in-chief of "Morgenbladet," oldest and one of the most influential newspapers in Norway; and editor-in-chief of the great Scandinavian quarterly "Le Nord," published jointly by Denmark, Finland, Iceland and Sweden.

In addition to these activities, he has been an influential lecturer in the Parliaments of Europe as well as in the legislatures of the

SONNY DUNHAM.

MB's Sign Dunham For Traditional Ball

Sonny Dunham, top-ranking trumpet and trombone stylist who charmed over 1500 couples at last spring's Junior-Senior Prom, has been booked for a return engagement at the Mortar Board Ball Friday, Dec. 13, in the Coliseum.

Dunham, whose flexible style and arrangements have brought him a place in the circle of band favorites according to Downbeat, Metronome, Variety and Billboard polls, is bringing 15 musicians, his own trumpet and trombone, and three vocalists.

More of the Same.

More of the same, only better, is guaranteed by Virginia Demel, Ball chairman, in announcing Dunham's second appearance here.

This year, as has been the custom, Tassels will sell tickets for the dance to co-eds only. An annual turn-about affair, the Mortar Board Ball offers women students the opportunity of the year, Miss Demel pointed out.

Recording for Columbia, Dunham and his band have taken time out from their ballroom, theater and nite-club engagements to meet contract obligations to Columbia and Universal pictures.

Young Beginner.

Beginning with the trombone at the ripe age of seven, Sonny teamed with his two sisters and mother to play family concerts in the neighborhood of his home in Brockton, Mass. At sixteen he went to New York, where he met Ben Bernie, and began playing in some of Bernie's ensembles. After an interlude with Paul Tremaine, Sonny landed a berth with Glenn Gray's famed Casa Loma band.

While a low-range trumpet man with Gray, Dunham tried his hand at arranging for the first time. His job on "Pagan Love Song" is still rated as one of the ten best arrangements in modern music.

After Gray's band disbanded, Sonny gathered some musicians together for one of the finest aggregations in the land. How wise his choices were is shown by the rating held by Dunham, who at 33, is considered one of the nation's top band leaders.

Gamma Lambda Elects Officers.

Members of Gamma Lambda, honorary band fraternity, elected the following officers at a recent meeting: president, Darwin Frederickson; vice-president, Richard Weekly; treasurer, Jack Snyder; secretary, Bob White; and publicity chairman, John D. Lind.

The honorary was re-activated in March, 1946, when Robert S. Lowe, former president, returned from the service, and organized the group.

Gamma Lambda sponsored a dinner for members of the Missouri State Band before the Homecoming game, and also entertained members of the Iowa State band in Parlors XYZ of the Union before the game yesterday.

Easterner Club Plans Meeting Wednesday

A dinner-meeting will be held by the Easterner's Club on Wednesday night at 8:15 in Parlor Y of the Union, according to Art Cohen, chairman.

Immediately following the dinner there will be a business meeting for the purpose of making further plans for the organization, as special feature at this meeting, ventriloquist Bed Levinson will present a program for the group.

A representative from the Burlington Railroad will discuss possible arrangements for transportation back east during Christmas holidays.

The constitution committee, under the chairmanship of George Rundle, will present the constitution that they have drafted. The constitution will be presented to the organization for ratification, and if accepted, it will be passed on to the student council for final approval.
