Westmoreland Tells Progress On Vet Checks

Ashley Westmoreland, Lincoln regional manager of the Veterans Administration office, has reported that every effort is being made to mail overdue subsistence checks to university student veterans and trainees before the Christmas holidays.

According to Westmoreland, this backlog resulted because wage reports from veterans in school and training, required by Public Law 679, confused many veterans and also their case records. In addition, the administration runs into a natural number of errors in processing 15,000 subsistence payments each month.

Although the administration expects to have 2,600 overdue checks mailed before Christmas, the regular payroll is slated to clear shortly after the first of the month.

Farmer's Fair tradition will return to Ag Campus in the spring, Wilbur Bluhm, manager of the Farmer's Fair board, revealed today.

The Fair, in the past one of the most important events on Ag campus, is a combination of work and play for Ag students. After lying dormant through the war years, recent student interest in the event has encouraged its revival. The board has selected a tentative date in April for this year's fair.

Although no definite plans have been made in regard to the new Farmer's Fair, it has become a tradition for all Ag students to wear overalls and gingham dresses the week before the fair. All classes on the Ag campus are dismissed the day before the fair and all the students devote their time to all success of the show.

Students Submit Opinion Polls On Chicago Convention Queries

Many of the Opinion Polls printed in yesterday's Daily Nebraskan have been filled out and returned student council members reported.

Several suggestions for action and discussion at the Chicago meeting have been made and will be followed by the delegates. A large number of students have expressed interest in going to Europe over the summer vacation and have inquired as to how such a trip might be made. In general, a closer co-operation between students of all nations has been advocated, and almost all students favor the creation of a national organization that will co-operate with similar organizations in the International Union of Students.

Return Method

Those who have as yet not returned their ballots are asked by the student council to do so, and are reminded that this can be done by placing the ballot in the Student Council mail box in the basement of the Union, by returning it to the Student Council office on the third floor of the Union, or by placing it in any of the campus mail boxes that are located throughout the campus.

The main topics to be discussed in Chicago are concerned with the creation of a national student organization in this country that would function as an integral part of the International Union of Students, a discussion of the problems of students everywhere, and a general and specific plan of action to do something about correcting certain wrongs in the present system. A complete report on the conference that was held in Prague this summer will also be presented to the delegates who will represent national organizations of students and colleges and universities all over the country.

Working Committees.

At present there are committees working on an international basis investigating such things as the general health and living standards of students all over the world, and these committees will give reports as to their progress.

Nebraska delegates will cast three votes at this conference, which are, in turn, controlled by the expression of the student body on the Opinion Polls.
