Double duty man on the Ne-braska athletic staff these days is Coach Tony Sharpe. Busy with the Nubbins basketball team since late in November, Sharpe took on new duties last week when the first baseball trials began,

Catchers and pitchers have reported and will work out in the basement of the field house until the weather permits outside activity. Sharpe, the Husker hardball mentor, played professional ball with Muskogee, Oklahoma in the Western Association and with Crookston, Minnesota in the Crookston, Mini

With the diamond sport coming closer, Athletic Director A. J. Lewandowski was in Chicago last weekend to discuss plans for an NCAA baseball tourney similar to the basketball setup under which teams qualify through district playoffs.

According to the present UN baseball slate, the Scarlet squad will play no one but conference opponents this spring. Such a schedule is not conducive to the production of a champion contender. At least a few warmup games are needed before any team steps into the heat of conference

Although the Husker track team was defeated at Columbia Saturday night in its dual meet with the University of Missouri, several performances served to indicate that the Nebraskans will be in the thick of the fight for conference

Don Cooper's pole vault alti-tude of 13 feet 9 inches proved that his leap of 13 feet 7 inches against Iowa State was no fluke. Cooper has at least a one foot lead over any other Big Six vaulter, his closest rival being teammate Dick Miller.

High jumper Monte Kinder also tutrned in a reassuring performance. The Cambridge kangaroo negotiated 6 feet 3 inches to take his pet event. Against Iowa State Kinder failed to clear six feet, but his efforts against the Tigers proved that he will have to be reckoned with in the conference

A third noteworthy achievement was the mile relay time of Loyal Hurlbert, Hurlbert failed to win in the 440 as he suffered a nasty leg cut in the early stages of the race, but he came back in the relay event to run his quarter in less than 51 seconds, the best competitive time recorded in the Big Six this season.

The Jayhawkers and Aggies may parry and shuffle for eight minutes before anyone pots a field goal. But the crowd-and there's always one on hand when the two deadly foes get together—never seems to mind. There's certain fascination about the Cowboys' methodical ball handling and the Jayhawkers' deft swinging and breaking. Then there's always the rare sight of two teams playing as ruggedly on defense as they do on offense.

USKER Nubbins Annex Pair IGHLITES From State Quintets

The Nubbins, for the first time this season, were fully extended to come through with a victory as the Concordia Bulldogs kept the crowd at fever pitch for the entire game. The Nubbins held a 54-48 lead with three minutes left and were barely able to stave off defeat, the game ending 54-52. In the five o'clock affair, the other Conceptia College (52)

Nubbins squad, led by sharp-shooting Doyle Busskohl of Norfolk, defeated the Luther college Vikings 58-28.

In the Luther game, the Nubbins went out in front to stay early in the tussle, and the Norsemen were never able to take the lead, Early scores by Doyle Busskohl, Jim Van Burgh and Al Bergquist gave Nebraska a substantial margin that was never threatened. For a while, Coach Bill Patton's blue clad men were able to stick within one or two baskets, but every time Luther sank one, the Huskers would resank one, the Huskers would re-ply with one of their own. The men from Wahoo fell further be-hind and trailed at the half 29-17.

After intermission the game got even worse for Luther. Smooth passing and teamwork between the Nubbins put more points on the growing Nebraska lead. Busskohl and Bill Wenke especially looked good in this part of the game. Wenke made two baskets in a row from under the hoop on long down-court passes from Busskohl.

The second of the two teams that played against the Vikings didn't look as smooth as the first, but was able to control the ball and the lead safely. Lanky Bob Allen led this group in scoring and came out with second high scoring honors for the first game. He trailed Busskohl, who made ten points, by one point,

Les Jasa and "Legs" Torrens were the big guns for the Vikings, Jasa hitting for 14 and the husky 6' 4" Torrens for five. Torrens' work under both baskets was noteworthy. High scorers for the Nubbins were Busskohl with ten, Allen with nine, Wenke with eight, and Van Burgh with six. Following the top four were Don Bauer and Al Bergquist who were both good for five, Hinde, Isham and Keat-ing who collected four apiece, and Harry Meginnis who trailed the team with three to his credit. All Nubbins' players scored at least once. The Nubbins, who were really on the ball, sank the amazing average of 45 per cent of their

Concordia Tilt. In the Concordia game, the Bulldogs had it all their own way

as far along as five minutes after the half. Herb Meyer's crew got off to a quick 7-2 lead. Brommer and Neil Hafemeister sank most of these early counters. Then the Nubbins crept up until Saler's free shot tied the count at eight apiece. Hafemeister kept hitting his beautiful long shots however, and it was all the Junior Husk-ers could do to keep abreast. Another charity toss by Bill Saler put NU ahead, 13-12, but Concordia swept to the front again and held a 27-19 halftime margin.

Fast Action.

After the half, the action got faster. A determined Nubbins bid led by Thurman Wright and Bernie Bieterman closed the gap considerably. Bill Denker's lone tally of the evening brought Nebraska within one point of the Bulldogs at 33-32. At this point, key Con-cordia pivot man Merle Reiling sustained an ankle injury and had to be taken from the game. Nebraska, taking advantage of every opportunity, drove to a 39-34 margin with Wright hitting bucket after bucket from close in. A field goal by Tom Milliken brought the score to 50-43 with five min-

Leading scorer of the evening was the Bulldog's hot-shot forward, Neil Hafemeister, who collected 24 points. Next in line for Concordia were Brommer and Merle Reiling with ten apiece.

Cyclones Win...

Myers hit a free throw and a side effort to boost Iowa State into a 48-45 lead before Dick Srb, spelling Dick Schleiger, netted a fielder for the Huskers. Myers replied with a long goal from the corner and the Cyclones held the upper hand.

Then Cox dumped in his last contribution from the field on a one-hander and Retherford provided a charity toss to tie the score again with less than four minutes remaining.

Ray Wehde added another free throw but Retherford broke loose on a galloping dribble around the free throw circle which ended with a looping over-the-head layup. Sheperd nailed the first of his field goals and persistent day's box score Ray Wehde, fouled by Brown, towa State (56) connected on his seventh free toss. Myera f. Roy Wehde f Hopes Up.

Husker hopes soared when Cerv grabbed a rebound and banged it home. The Cyclones found Sheperd unguarded near the sideline and the Gary, Indiana, hoopster connected on the shot which broke the Scarlet spirit.

In the final 20 seconds Norman and Myers fouled Nebraska players, but the Huskers were playing for two points and took the ball out-of-bounds. A long shot bounced away, two rebound attempts failed and the game ended with Ron Norman holding the ball in Nebraska territory watching the clock tick off the final five

Scarlet fans were certain of a Nebraska win on the basis of the early second half surge. The ease with which the Huskers racked up nine quick points provided good cause for optimism, before the hard pressing Cyclones pulled themselves back into the Action was rugged throughout, a total of 42 fouls being assessed by officials Ted O'Sullivan and Faye Ferguson.
