Staggering Of Class Periods Scheduled For Fall Semester

BY FRANK LOEFFEL.
An Ag College Faculty committee after consultation with Ag Exec Board, student governing body, has released plans for better correlation of class schedules between the ag campus and the city campus.

The committee composed of Professor C. C. Wiggins, chairman of the horticulture department; I. L. Hathaway, associate professor of dairy husbandry; M. E. Guthrie, assistant professor of home economics has recommended that all morning classes on the ag campus be started on the half hour, that is, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 and 11:30. The committee further recommended that afternoon classes be continued on the hour as at present, and that staggering of class periods be effective with the opening of the fall semester.

In essence, the real feature of this alteration is that adequate time is allowed to travel from one campus to the other for successive classes. The plan, theoretically, will enable students to attend more classes in a morning than can be attended with the present class schedule.

Plans for staggering class periods resulted from a petition circulated by Ag Exec Board requested that the university provide transportation between campuses with a private bus system. In January the petition with seven hundred signers was presented to university officials for their consideration. After a short time it was returned to the board in order that they might reconsider the petition's demands since the university deemed it impossible to operate a private bus system. On the basis of this request a plan was formulated whereby the present bus system could provide more convenient transportation between campuses.

Ag Religious Council Plans Easter Service

A pre-Easter breakfast will be held in the college activities building Sunday, Mar. 30 at 7:15 a. m. The service which has become an established campus religious function will feature Dr. Clarence Hall of the First Lutheran church as its principle speaker.

Annual Breakfast

The breakfast, an annual event on ag campus since 1927, is an outgrowth of a desire of ag students to provide a type of religious service in which students at large could participate.

Ag Religious Council which sponsors the pre-Easter breakfast is composed of representatives from YMCA, YWCA, the Evangelical United Brethren church, Epworth and Warren Methodist churches and the Lutheran Student Association. Council officers are: Don Meaders, president and Mary Louise Helt, secretary. Dr. T. H. Gooding and Dave Sanders are the faculty sponsors.

Hart Speaks At Ag Dairy Conference

"Universal pasturization of all milk supplies is the one way of guaranteeing pure and wholesome milk products to consumers," said Dr. R. W. Hart at a meeting of Nebraska dairy representatives this week.

Dr. Hart, of the U. S. Public Health Service, spoke during the Dairy Industry Conference which is being held on ag campus this week. His topic was "Milk Borne Diseases and Epidemics."

The federal official said that there are three major diseases transmitted to man from cows through milk supplies. These diseases are: bovine tuberculosis, undulant fever, and various streptococcus infections. The most frequent disease, the public health specialist said, is septic sore throat. The original source in most all cases where outbreaks of septic sore throat are traced to milk is a careless handler.

Carelessness in pasturization, Dr. Hart declared, can be dangerous to hundreds of milk drinkers and consumers, especially if the carelessness stems from poor personal hygiene.

Professor L. C. Thomsen, department of dairy industry, University of Wisconsin, told the conference that the dairy industry leads all other industries in the percentage of the consumers dollar returned to the producer. For the whole dairy industry, 59 cents of the consumer dollar is returned to the primary producer.

Professor Thomsen was discussing "Modified Methods for Reporting Operation Costs" in the dairy industry, and he explained that the dairy industry operated on one of the narrowest margins of profit of any major industry.

The Dairy Industry Conference will continue through today and includes representatives of the processing and distributive phases of the Nebraska dairy industry.

86 Showmen Groom Stock For Junior Ak Sar Ben Show

By Charles Brim.

Eighty-six ag showmen are putting the finishing touches on their animals this week as they prepare to compete for the title of grand champion showman at the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock show to be held Saturday, March 15.

The annual show, which begins with the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben ball in the student activities building, has attracted the largest number of competitors in its history. The 86 entrants will be competing for the possession of the silver trophy symbolizing grand championship. Winners in the five divisions—horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine—will be awarded ribbons, and first and second winners in each class will compete for the championship.

First event of the weekend festivities, according to Merle Bringer, manager, is the ball which is to be held Friday, March 14 from 9 to 12 p. m. Tickets, priced at $2.00 a couple, will go on sale this week. Johnny Cox and his orchestra will furnish the music for the ball.

The livestock show, to be held in the pavilion of the horse barn, will begin at 8 p. m. with the ringing of an alarm clock, according to Willard Visek, president of Block and Bridle, sponsoring organization.

Alarm Clock Signals.

The alarm clock is traditional in the opening of Junior Ak-Sar-Ben shows, and will be the signal for the first class to enter the ring as the show officially opens.

Ed Janike, secretary of the Omaha Livestock Exchange and a former Block and Bridle club member will be the judge this year. He will award the prizes on the basis of the showman's ability in the ring and on the amount of work he has done in fitting his animal for the show.

The show, patterned after the Omaha Ak-Sar-Ben, is open to the public, according to the sponsors. Prices for the show are 30 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.
