In the first meeting of the Moscow conference yesterday: Molotov in a surprise move proposed that the Chinese situation be added to the council's agenda. Marshall reserved his decision on the proposal until today.

Molotov also stated that the council faced a "by no means easy task" in forging the treaties for Germany and Austria, but he also said a solid basis for writing the peace of Germany had been achieved at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences. Previous to yesterday's meeting Secretary of State Marshall stated he sought a 40 year peace alliance with Russia, Britain, and France, to render Germany impotent.

David Lillenthal was approved by the Senate atomic energy committee Monday. The vote was 8-1 with John W. Bricker dissenting. Bricker's reason for the adverse vote was that the FBI files showed Lillenthal had given "radicals" jobs in the atomic program.

Chairman of the committee Bourke B. Hickenlooper defended Lillenthal with the statement "no evidence has been produced indicating that Lillenthal is either a Communist, friendly to Communism, or that he is neither a fellow traveler." Hickenlooper urged his confirmation at the earliest possible date.
