Pep King Issues Plea

Ask Hour Dance Change Friday

A special plea has been issued by Martin Pesek, Yell King, that all organized houses scheduling hour dances Friday night change dance times from 7:30 to 6:30 p. m.

Pesek explained to the Daily Nebraskan that this change is necessary because of a near conflict in time with the projected street dance scheduled downtown at 8:30 p. m., Friday.

The Yell King announced that the Chi Omegas and the Phi Psi's have already changed their hour dance time and their eating hours in an attempt to insure 100 percent attendance at the first rally of the season. He expressed a fervent hope that other organized houses and individuals would also arrange their program for Friday in accordance with the scheduled time of 7:30 p. m.

The pre-game rally will progress from the Union to N and O streets at 12th street and end at the street dance site. Two bands will provide music at 12th street in one of the first all-city football celebrations since 1941.

'Alumnus,' Grid Tabloid Back in Print

THE NEBRASKA ALUMNUS football tabloid, a supplement to the monthly magazine of the same name, is being published again for the first time since before World War II.

The football tabloid is published after every Nebraska football game to fulfill the great demand of the many alumni living out of Nebraska. Mr. Fritz Daly, secretary of the Alumni Association, said that the association hopes to continue publications in following football seasons as long as the demand shows that it is wanted.

The LINCOLN JOURNAL and the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD furnish the association with football stories and pictures. Reports on school activities are also included in the paper.

The tabloid was published seven years preceding the war during football season but was discontinued because of the shortage of paper, office help, and inadequate printing facilities.

Hurlbut Urges 8-Point Petrol Research Plan

Professor L. W. Hurlbut, head of the agriculture engineering department, Tuesday suggested an eight point research program to help free agriculture from complete dependence on petroleum.

Addressing a petroleum conference sponsored by the University of Illinois and the American Research Foundation, Prof. Hurlbut pointed out the dependence of farm production on petroleum. World war II, he continued, emphasized the possibility of loss of this irreplaceable resource.

To Save Petrol.
He offered eight areas of research to make more efficient use of petroleum: Development of different sources of power; research on new sources of liquid fuel; improving present fuels; improving present engines; increasing efficiency of transportation of farm products; determining the most economical methods of cultivation; matching engines and fuels for greatest efficiency, and studying ways to eliminate war, the greatest waste of resources.

World Federalists To Meet Today

The Nebraska chapter of the United World Federalists will hold an organizational meeting in Union Parlor X at 7 p. m. Thursday, for members of the UWF and for interested students, Eugene Berman, chapter secretary, said Wednesday.

For World Government.
Berman stated that a meeting will be held next week to discuss the principles involved in a federal world government and the present practicality of such an international organization.

Tonight's meeting will plan a membership drive and a program and list of activities for the coming year. Matters of policy and stands on current issues will also be discussed.

Lippitt Gives Meditation At Vespers

Service Planned By Campus Religion Groups

Tonight will mark the initial service of All-Campus Vespers. The meditation speaker will be the Rev. Gordon L. Lippitt, executive secretary of the University Y. M. C. A. His topic will be "Dogged Faith," and assisting Mr. Lippitt in the service will be the Vesper Choir, a group of 30 voices under the direction of Kay Wocheater.

The services for the year will be held at the chapel of the University Episcopal Church on the corner of 13th and R streets at 5 p. m. Miss Camilla Palmer, Vespers chairman, stated that a meeting place relatively isolated from the turmoil of the campus will serve as an excellent background for the programs of meditation which have been planned for the year.

The planning committee, comprised of Miss Lulu Runge, faculty adviser, Rev. John Leuke, student pastor advisor, Miss Palmer as student chairwoman, various student groups have outlined the year's program to center around "Faith" and its various aspects as it applies to the student in his campus life.

All-Campus Vespers are sponsored by the Religious Welfare Council and are interdenominational. The aim of the group is to provide a half an hour of quiet meditation during the midst of a busy campus routine in order to gain a clear perspective of life.

Bizad Plaque Given by Gold Placed in Sosh

A new plaque has been added in the west corridor in the Social Science Hall explaining the principles and ideals of Beta Gamma Sigma, bizad honorary. The following inscription is on the plaque: "Beta Gamma Sigma. Founded to encourage and reward scholarship and accomplishment in the lines of business activity. To promote the improvement and extension of education in the science of business administration. To foster principles of honesty and integrity in business practice. Alpha Chapter of Nebraska, College of Business Administration."

This plaque was contributed by Mr. Nathan Gold, an honorary member of Beta Gamma Sigma, international bizad honorary which is composed of a limited number of men and women selected from the upper class of the college. It is the only scholarship honorary recognized by the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, and is comparable to Phi Beta Kappa in the Arts and Sciences college.

Indiana Zoologist to Tell Sigma Xi About Genes

Dr. T. M. Sonneborn, professor of zoology at Indiana University, will speak at the initial meeting of Sigma Xi scientific research society, at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 6, in the general lecture room of Avery Lab.

Dr. Sonneborn's topic will be "Beyond the Gene", and he will attempt to explain in a general way what has been learned about the plasmagones and what may be guessed as to their relations to genes.

Trumble Named To Union Board

AWS Waives Point Limit For Council Secretary

Edward Trumble, bizad junior, was elected to the student union board by the student council at its meeting Wednesday in room 306 of the Union.

Trumble was one of the four candidates recommended in a letter from Duane Lake, union director, on behalf of the union board.

He was elected by the plurality of four votes over Donald Wiggins, arts and science junior who headed the list of union board recommendations.

12 Applicants.

The four men recommended by the board were chosen after interviews with the 12 applicants Sam Lerner, former Bizad junior, did not return this fall. The two others recommended were Robert J. Easter and Spence Phillips.

Jo Ackerman was recalled to office as secretary following the AWS ruling last Thursday permitting her retention since no other women on the campus meet the requirements of the council constitution.

At the request of the committee studying NSO President Harold Mozer called the next meeting of the council at 7 p. m. next Wednesday. The full report of delegates sent to the NSO convention in Madison Wisconsin will be heard at that time.

The rally committee reported ticket sales for the Missouri migration will be held Oct. 15 to 24, allowing time for unsold tickets to be returned to Missouri. Arrangements have been made through the Columbia, Missouri chamber of commerce for dining facilities in two conveniently located churches.

Filings for existing vacancies on the council will be delayed until a check has been made to determine which members elected last spring are not now in school. Mozer said this is to permit the filling of all vacancies at one time.

Palladian to Hear Chancellor Talk

"The Chancellor Looks at the University" will be the topic of a speech by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson at Palladian hall in the Temple building at 8:30 p. m., Friday, Oct. 3.

Palladian's custom of inviting anyone who would like to attend its meetings will hold for Friday's meeting.

The speech will be the first in a series of lectures concerning university students' interests. It is sponsored by the Palladian Literary Society.

Oldfather Announces Rhodes Data

Announcement has been made that application blanks for Rhodes scholarships to Oxford University, England, are available in Dean Oldfather's office in Social Science building at any time. These application blanks accompanied by two letters of recommendation from the staff must be turned in not later than 4:00 p. m., Oct. 22 at the dean's office.

In addition to ordinary appointments, there will be a limited number of War Service Scholarships available to men who at any time since October 1, 1940, were between the ages of 19 and 25 years, and have completed one year of war service. Candidates are required to have completed one year of college or university work.

Selection is made on the basis of literary and scholastic ability and attainment, qualities of manhood, exhibition of moral force of character, and physical vigor. The selection committee, headed by Dean Oldfather, includes Professors David Dow, L. W. Lancaster, H. W. Manter, and C. E. McNeill. The preliminary selection will take place Oct. 12, 1:00 to 5:00 p. m., in the dean's office.

Those eligible are urged to apply. Further information will be found in Dean Oldfather's office.

VA Personal Counseling Service Data Released

Veterans eligible for benefits under PL 16 or PL 346 may take advantage of the personal consulting service which the Veterans' Administration has established.

The service is intended to aid the veterans who will be helped more by talking over their problems with qualified individuals than by obtaining medical treatment or written information. It does not deal directly with questions relating to subsistence, pension or rating for which other VA services are responsible.

Veterans who will profit most by discussions with the personal counselors are those who feel concerned about home problems, school, work, or training difficulties, or disturbances in connection with his adjustments to social life. Marital problems, problems of parent-child relationships, worries about plans for the future or about the feelings of inadequacy, or other mental conflicts which often interfere with the individual's ability to do his best work will be dealt with.

A letter from the Veterans' Administration explaining the service states, "It would probably be an unusual type of person who did not at some time or other have a problem or worry which he would like to discuss with someone whom he felt he could trust and in whom he had confidence. Experience in schools and industry has shown that when a person takes advantage of the opportunity to think freely about and discuss personal, social, or other matters of concern with a trained counselor, it is often possible to discover more ways of handling these matters."

The discussions will be strictly confidential since the matters can be of highly personal nature. Conferences with the personal counselor will have no effect or bearing on pensions or other relationships to the VA, according to the letter. No reports of such discussions become a part of the veteran's records.

Veterans may arrange to see the personal counselor through their vocational advisers, training officers, by letters, or by telephoning 2-7665-Ext. 56. The address of the Personal Counselor is Room 514, Veterans Building, 12th and "O".

'Mainstream' Posts Literary Prizes of $150

"Mainstream," the new literary quarterly, which will observe its first year of publication with the appearance of a fall edition, announced Monday a series of annual literary awards under the sponsorship of the magazine.

Four awards of $150 each will be offered. Two of these awards will be presented for the best unpublished short story and poem or groups of poems by American college students.

The other two awards will go to the best story or poem submitted by members of trade unions.

This year's competition will end March 21, 1948. The winning stories and poems will be published in "Mainstream." Judges will be the editors of "Mainstream," including editor-in-chief Samuel Sillen, Dalton Trumbo, John Howard Lawson, Howard Fast, Meridel Le Sueur, Theodore Ward and Arnaud d'Usseau.

Manuscripts should be addressed to the Mainstream Awards Committee, 832 Broadway, New York 3, N. Y., with accompanying return postage.

Frankie Carle To Play Here Friday Night

Pianist-composer Frankie Carle, who brings his orchestra to the Turnpike Friday, offers a twist on the usual success story.

Carle ran away from his first solo professional job, stricken with stage fright. Two years later however he was back in show business for good, leading his own band.

He gave this up to join such sidemen as Gene Krupa, Jack Teagarden, Jack Benny and Toots Mondello under the leadership of Ed McEnelly.

In 1939, once more fronting his own outfit, Carle discovered he had been "discovered" by Horace Heidt. Heidt recognized "Sunrise Serenade" by Carle as a modern classic, which it became in time.

Now Frankie once more has his own organization. His only daughter, Marjorie, sings for the band. Just to keep things as well integrated as possible, Marjorie is married to a member of the band, the piano player who alternates at the keyboard with Frankie himself.

Flu Shots Offered By Health Service

The Student Health Service is now offering influenza virus vaccines to all student on a voluntary basis.

The service will be given without cost. Dr. S. J. Fuenning, director of the service, advises that students interested should report during the month of October if they want the best results. The vaccine is also offered to faculty members and employes at cost.
