

Coleman Hawkins to Head Jazz at Philharmonic Cast

Fifth National Tour of Musical Production
Features Leaders in Blues, Jazz Techniques

When "Jazz at the Philharmonic," Norman Ganz' unique musical production sponsored by the Student Union Activities committee, is presented at the Coliseum tonight at 8:30, Coleman Hawkins, the best known tenor saxophonist in the world will head the cast of instrumental and vocal artists.

"Hawk," as he is called by his associates, has been termed by some the greatest jazz virtuoso alive today, one critic calling him the "Picasso of Jazz." His music has influenced many reedmen who got their ideas on style and technique from him. In 1941, Hawkins returned from an international tour, organized a band, and made one of the most famous records in jazz history, "Body and Soul."

Blues vocalist Helen Humes, another star of the show, has been a standout jazz singer for some time. In 1945, on the strength of her recording of "Be-Baba-Leba," she became an overnight coast-to-coast sensation. Miss Humes, who wrote the song and first recorded it, was featured with the Count Basie band for several years.

Other leading figures of the modern jazz school who will appear in "Jazz at the Philharmonic" are Howard McGhee, a leading exponent of "be-bop jazz;" Ray Brown, bassist, fresh from a the Dizzy Gillespie band; Hank Jones, pianist; Flip Phillips, also a prominent Herman alumna; and J. C. Heard, formerly with Cab Calloway, on the drums.

The "Jazz at the Philharmonic" concert will be presented in three sets, the first two featuring instrumental numbers and the third including vocals, solos, and renditions by the entire ensemble. Each soloist of the group has developed an individual style which has put him on top in the swing music field.

This is the fifth national tour "Jazz at the Philharmonic" has made. The show was a complete sellout at the Carnegie Pop Concert series, and it has been eagerly received by audiences all over the country.

Tickets to the concert are on sale at the Student Union and at Walt's Music Store.

Huskers Off to Columbia 35-Man Squad Departs For Crucial Big Six Test

Nebraska's 35-man player squad departed for Columbia and the unknown Thursday night.

The fighting Huskers, seeking to retain a top spot in the Big Six conference standings against a highly favored Missouri club, will get a final tuneup Friday afternoon on the Tigers' lot before the all-important loop battle Saturday afternoon.

Nebraska once again has the misfortune of being the homecoming guests. The Huskers won by identical counts while playing the homecoming role to Iowa State and Kansas State. And both times they were tabbed the favorites. The tables are slightly turned this week with Nebraska definite underdogs.

From all indications Coach Don Faurot's "T" minded Tigers pack a wealth of power. And the Bengals also plot an aerial attack to throw at the Huskers.

Coach Bernie Masterson's charges, although riddled with injuries, were not downcast as they departed for the southland. A rousing student rally at the Student Union cheered the Scarlet gridders prior to their departure.

Thursday afternoon the Nebraska traveling squad went through light workouts while running plays. The Huskers drilled in sweat clothes on the Nubbins' rain-soaked practice field.

Costello, Damkroger Out.
Nebraska will miss the services of Bob Costello. The rough line-backer and expert place kicker is out for the season with a fractured vertebrae in the small of his back.

Alex Cochrane will replace End Ralph Damkroger, who also will be left at home because of a side injury that has kept him out of practice all week. Cochrane will team with Jack Pesek at the ends, Charlie Toogood and Carl Samuelson will open at the tackles, Fred Lorenz and Gene Wilkins will be at the guards and Tom Novak will start at center.

Game Captain Cletus Fischer will run with All-Big Six halfback Dick Hutton, Dale Adams will open at fullback and Dick Thompson may get the starting nod at quarter ahead of Del Wiegand.

Applications Due Today for Nov. 8 House Decorations

Today is the last day that organized houses may file applications to enter the homecoming decorations contest, according to Stan Johnson, Innocents president.

All an application consists of, Johnson said, is a letter to the Innocents society filing intentions of decoration with approximate costs listed. The maximum costs for each house have been set this year at $40. The letters should be sent to the Innocents in care of the Union.

Johnson also stressed that the entrance fee from each house is $2 instead of $3 as was previously announced in The Daily Nebraskan.

A rousing welcome home is planned for the Husker footballers Sunday morning. The University of Nebraska student body will meet the team's train at the Burlington station Sunday morning at 9:15. When the Nebraska migration special arrives 15 minutes later a parade back to the campus is planned, according to Tassels President Harriett Quinn.

Subsistence Check Delay Explained by Local VA

Veteran's Administration,
Kansas City, Mo.

5,000 veterans at the University of Nebraska are curious as to delay in GI allotment checks. Will you wire us, collect, answers to following questions: 1) Approximately when will checks arrive? 2) Why are checks late? 3) Is this delay nationwide? 4) Are all records for the University of Nebraska veteran enrollment complete and in your hands? 5) If not, why have these records been held up? Itemized answer, and/or statement will be appreciated within 48 hours of receipt of this message. The Daily Nebraskan, official publication of the University of Nebraska, plans on printing your answer with this message in its Thursday edition.

The Daily Nebraskan

Daily Nebraskan,
Lincoln, Nebr.

Reference made to wire this date relative to subsistence checks for veteran University of Nebraska students. This office has no jurisdiction over same. Have referred this telegram to the manager of the Lincoln office, Mr. Westmoreland, who can give you the information you request.

Brody, manager, Veteran's Administration
Regional Office.

As a preliminary to the following article, The Daily Nebraskan prints these telegrams to explain the situation. The first is from The Daily Nebraskan to the Veteran's Administration in Kansas City, Mo., and the second is the reply. The local office gave the information to Daily Nebraskan news editor Cub Clem in an interview Wednesday afternoon.

Subsistence checks for university veterans, delayed for over a month, should be received on or before Nov. 5, according to Ashley Westmoreland, manager of the Veteran's Administration's regional office in Lincoln.

This information was obtained in an interview Wednesday afternoon in the administration's downtown office. Also present at the interview were T. M. Sorenson, finance officer, and Ted Martens, chief of the vocational rehabilitation division. Both are connected with the Veteran's administration.

New National Policy.
The delay was caused by the new national policy of the administration to pay September and October checks at one time, so that later checks would not be delayed by the extra work involved in sending them out at the beginning of school.

Westmoreland said the checks will leave the administration's offices in Kansas City either late this month or early in November. At any rate, if they are not received by Nov. 5, contact should be made with the administration as soon as possible.

VA Representative on Campus.
One VA representative will be on the campus during the second week in November where he will be available for consultation. He will record the name and claim number of any veteran who reports non-receipts of a check, and will do everything possible to expedite payment.

An idea of the size of the local office can be visualized by the fact that the entire Security and Mutual building at 12th and O, except the street floor, is taken up by VA offices and rooms.

All Reports in Kansas City.
It was also revealed that, contrary to many campus rumors, reports on all university veterans have been sent to the Kansas City office. A few names may not be entered, due to the various facts connected with registration. These omissions should be taken care of as soon as possible, to facilitate future mailage of checks.

Should any veteran change his address, he should contact the VA office immediately, or his check may never reach him. It is impossible to forward government checks, so this action is necessary. It is a protection both to the VA office and the veteran.

Adamic Hits Reaction In U.S., Calls for Change

Hitting the "reactionary" government of the United States, Louis Adamic in a speech in the Union ballroom Thursday morning said our country is in "a dangerous predicament," as the world is beginning to lose faith in us and go over to the Russian side.

Speaking before an overflow crowd, Adamic pointed out that the world wide fight of "Need vs. Greed," must be resolved soon. Its solution, he said, will lead to either world chaos or peace.

America's Part Important

America's part in this struggle cannot be over-emphasized. Adamic said that our government must wake up to the feelings of the entire world and desert its conservative stand which, if carried on, will alienate the entire world. He went on to say that already the new Indian government, under the leadership of Pandit Nehru, has swung from support of essentially conservative England and the United States, to the concepts of the USSR. "Russia is a shining example to India," he asserted.

"People look for results. They can be patient, but if things don't work out, they will look in another direction," Adamic stated. "People are gradualists," that is, they will support progress so long as it progresses, but when it regresses, then they will turn their support to more effective channels.

World Wide Struggle

The noted author said that what used to be a conglomeration of petty, local problems, has now become a world-wide struggle—the struggle of "Progress vs. Reaction," "Truth vs. Lie," "Doctrine vs. Dogma," "Science vs. Superstition," and "Determination vs. Fatalistic Inertia."

According to Adamic, this country is being led by such "reactionaries" as the McCormicks, the Bullitts, and the Dulles, and that these men are making the president and other men of influence "dance to their music." He said that these are but a portion of a world-wide group of conservatives that are seeking to turn the clock back to pre-war days. Other prominent members of this group, said the speaker, are Winston Churchill, Jan Christian Smuts, Chiang-Kai-shek and Charles De Gaulle.

Attacks "Tolerance"

Launching into an attack against "Tolerance," Adamic stated that tolerance, as practiced here in America, can be worse than intolerance, as people may become too tolerant of things besides racial questions and may overlook other wretched aspects of life.

Tolerance is not the solution to the question, he said, but rather "acceptance and understanding" of the problem in all its details. Too many people are caught in the subtle trap of tolerance, and look with a condescending eye at all facets of American life.

Credits United States

The speaker said that it is to the eternal credit of the United States that we were the first to put into writing the precept that all men are created equal. The only way to avert international catastrophe is to accept this idea sincerely.
