

'Religion in Life Week' Starts Today

Schedule Five Speakers For Ag Campus Convos

Four major convocations will highlight "Religion in Life Week" activities on Ag campus, Nov. 9-11. Featured speakers for the three day "week," Monday through Wednesday will be Dr. Julian Hartt, Miss Ruth Packard, Dr. Joseph Nelson, Rev. John A. O'Brien and Dr. G. S. Nichols, according to Dale Stauffer, Religious council member in charge of Ag campus.

Dr. Hartt, keynote speaker for the week, will address all unaffiliated students in a convocation to be held in the Dairy Building at 7:30 on Monday evening. At the same hour all organized houses will have speakers, conforming with plans on city campus.

The Rev. John A. O'Brien, Philosophy professor at Notre Dame University will address a gathering of all Catholic students Tuesday morning at 11:00 a. m. in the Ag Student Union.

Chinese Authority.

Tuesday night at 7:30, Miss Packard will address the weekly meeting of YM-YW in the Home Ec parlors. Miss Packard is the regional director of the National YWCA, and is an authority on the Chinese student movement.

The closing session will be a seminar from 4-5:30 p. m. on Wednesday in the Home Ec parlors with Dr. Nelson presiding. He is an expert on Rural Sociology, and is executive secretary of the Nebraska Baptist Board of Education. His interests revolve

Religious Week Leaders to Hold Special Meets

During the three days of "Religion in Life Week," Nov. 10, 11, and 12, all nine leaders engaged for the "week" will be available to students for personal conferences. Conference hour is 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. each day.

The main purposes of these conferences is to furnish an opportunity for students to become better acquainted with these men and women than is possible at the convocations and seminars. If students wish it, the period may be used for personal guidance.

Dual Purpose.

But the purpose is "two-way," Donald Crowe, president of the Religious Welfare Council, emphasized. Speakers in the past have indicated a desire to know students better on the campuses where they speak. Conferences are really "get-acquainted" sessions.

Individuals or small groups desiring conferences may sign up for them on printed schedules in the Union lobby. The following leaders will be available from 1:30 to 3:30 (unless otherwise indicated) in the following places on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday:

- Dr. Abraham Cronbach, 102 Temple.
- Dr. Julian Hartt, 313 Union, (1:30-2:30).
- Dr. William J. Hutchins, Union faculty lounge (1:30-2:30 Tuesday only).
- Dr. Joseph O. Nelson, Baptist Student Center, 315 North 15th.
- Dr. G. S. Nichols, Methodist Student House, 1417 R street.
- Father John O'Brien, 22C, Temple (1:30 to 3).
- Miss Ruth Packard, East Room, Ellen Smith Hall.
- Dr. John H. Patton, Presbyterian Student House, 333 North 15th, (Monday and Tuesday only).
- Dr. Ruth Wick, Lutheran Student House, 1440 Q street (Monday and Tuesday only).

Rev. Sam Maier To Speak Monday

A special Monday night convocation at 7:30 p.m. for students who do not live in organized houses—including married students, town students, and members of organizations other than Greek-letter—will present as the featured speaker Rev. Sam Maier, well-known Presbyterian student pastor.

Scene of the convocation is Emmanuel Methodist Church, 15th and U streets, opposite Bancroft School. The Rev. Mr. Maier's topic will be, "Christian Marriage and Family Life."

around young people and he has had wide experience in the fields of religion as related to philosophy and psychology.

Added Features.

Added features of the Ag program will be two early morning sessions to be held at 8:00 a. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday. Tuesday's program will present Dr. Nelson as speaker, and Wednesday Dr. Nichols, director of the Wesley Foundation at Iowa State College will preside. Dr. Nelson's talk will concern rural sociology, problems relating to rural life, while Dr. Nichols will be concerned with international relations. These meetings will begin promptly at 8 and will dismiss in time for first period classes.

7 Workshops Bolster Annual Religion Week

Seven seminars, workshops in applying principles of religion to many phases of everyday living, will form the concrete crux of "Religion in Life Week," which opens this evening with a convocation and continues with varied activities through Wednesday night.

Eight outstanding religious leaders will direct the discussions in each of the seven seminars, contributing information and answers to students' questions on topics ranging from happiness in marriage to establishing personal religious faith. Each of the seminar topics will be discussed for three afternoon from 4 to 5:30 p. m. in various locations over the campus, so that students may attend several interest groups during the "week." A student chairman will moderate each discussion following the leader's talks.

Perennially Popular Topic.

A popular topic in every year's "Religion in Life Week" is "Inter-faith Understanding." Speakers for this subject will shift each day, giving various denominational leaders an opportunity to clarify the differences and similarities between denominations, and thereby bring about an understanding that can lead to co-operation.

A second discussion seminar whose speakers will change day to day, is called "Religion Faces World Problems," which will in turn present a Presbyterian director of the Westminster Foundation at the University of Kansas, as well as a noted Jewish worker in social action and professor of philosophy at Hebrew Seminary in Cincinnati.

Seminar Schedule.

Other topics, their leaders, and the rooms in which discussion will take place all three days are "Faith and the Individual," Dr. Julian Hartt, YMCA lounge in Temple; "Culture and Race," Miss Ruth Packard, Ellen Smith hall; "Marriage and Happiness," Dr. John H. Patton, Union 315; "Choosing a Vocation," Dr. Ruth Wick, Episcopal Student House, and "Problems of Faith," Dr. John A. O'Brien, Union faculty lounge.

National Leaders To Address Student Body Through Nov. 13

"Religion in Life Week," an annual project of the Religious Welfare Council which brings to the campus each year prominent national religious leaders, officially opens at 8 p.m. tonight with a campus-wide convocation in the Union Ballroom. The convocation will present Dr. Julian N. Hartt, Yale professor of philosophy, as key note speaker. His topic will be "What is This Which We Believe?" Dr. C. H. Patterson will preside and Vespers Choir will sing.

Dr. Hartt will make a total of seven appearances during the weeks, and class-room appearances of leaders.

Carrying the general credo theme, "This We Believe," the week will get underway Monday with the program of class room appointments by the various speakers, initial meetings of discussion groups at 4 p.m. with personal conferences arranged from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and with dinner guest speakers at organized houses and dormitories. A special convocation for unaffiliated students, townspeople and non-Greek letter organizations will be held at Emmanuel Methodist Church, 15th and "U" streets.

Tuesday and Wednesday will follow the same outline, varying only with the evening program. On Tuesday Protestant, Catholic and Jewish denominational groups will hold separate meetings from 6 to 9 p.m., and there will be special convocations at Huskerville and at Ag campus. The closing all-university convocation will be held in Temple Theater Wednesday at 8 p.m. when Dr. Hartt will again be the main speaker.
