After being overlooked on a couple of All Big Six teams, Tom Novak, bruising Cornhusker center, gained honorable mention on the Associated Press All-America football team. He was the only Nebraska man mentioned on the AP squad.

Another Big Six footballer, Ray Evans, Kansas U. back, was named on the first team. Evans is the first Jayhawker ever to gain an All-America berth. "The greatest back I have ever seen," is what his coach, George Sauer, has to say about the stellar Evans.

Evans' All-America backfield mates include Notre Dame's brilliant quarterback, Johnny Lujack; Bob Chappuis, running and passing star from Michigan, and Doak Walker, Southern Methodist whiz.

Linemen on the AP eleven are Ends Bill Swiacki, Columbia, and Paul Cleary of Southern California; Bob Davis, Georgia Tech, Dick Harris, Texas, at the tackles and Guards Bill Fischer, Notre Dame, and Steve Suhey, Penn State. Penn's giant junior, Chuck Bednarik, was named at center.

Seven of the men chosen on the first team are seniors, three are juniors and one, Walker, is a sophomore.

Size Not Important, Eliot Says

Illini Coach Ray Eliot's colorful speech highlighted the annual University Club football banquet Tuesday night for the Cornhusker gridders.

Eliot talked to the grid squad and some 200 University Club members on what makes a winning football team.

"Courage, not size, will produce a winner," he said. "Give me a 142-pounder with a fighting heart over any giant who does not have courage on the gridiron."

To back his statement, Eliot cited Alex Agase, an All-American guard and Eddie Bray, a 142-pound Illinois back, as examples of small men with excessive courage. Agase weighed 169 when he started playing football at Illinois.

Mar. 6—Western Union College at Lincoln.

Assistant football coaches were given words of praise in a brief speech by Coach Bernie Master-son.

Senior members of the squad, Ed Nyden, Joe Partington, Fred Lorenz, Jerry Jacuke and Gene Wilkins, were presented wrist watches.

The Beginning Social Service commission group will meet at Ellen Smith at 3 p. m. Thursday to take a field trip to the Orthopedic hospital.
