To the Editor:

This is an answer to your comment on the difficulty you meet in understanding medical terms. It is apparent from your editorial that your acquaintance with the University of Nebraska does not extend beyond the Lincoln campi. Apparently, also, you have not delved into Classics 73.

Doctor Rubendall, professor of Otorhinolaryngology, "(note correct spelling)," at the College of Medicine, which, for your information is located at Omaha, Nebraska, has held that position for the past thirty-eight years and, during that time someone must have "had it." His name is located on page forty-six in the Student Directory.

For further information, may we refer you to Miss Elizabeth Rubendall, Librarian, Bessey Hall Library, within a stonethrow of The Daily Nebraskan's editorial offices. Miss Rubendall is the daughter of Professor Rubendall.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Glenna L. Cahill.
Miss Mary Lou Hanosn

John J. Cahill.

to cut the number of points allowed an individual."

Only seven four point positions are listed under the new schedule. They are presidents of Student Council, Corn Cobs and Kosmet Klub, and the business managers and editors of the Cornhusker and The Daily Nebraskan.

The Daily Nebraskan lists both managing editors and news editors at three points. This was done on Novotny's request which is because news editors, although the subordinate post must spend far more time on the job than the managing editor.

Fifteen types of posts draw three points under the announced schedule.

Junior and Senior Class Presidencies are reduced to the one point classification since both have become titular offices.

Maximum points allowed an individual are specified by the board according to class in school. Men with a weighted average lower than 4.5, equivalent to 75 per cent, are permitted to carry fewer points.

Orchesis Recital Interprets Holiday Spirit 'Effectively'

BY GLORIA POLSKY

The Christmas Dance Concert Memorial Hall last night left presented by Orchesis at Grant little doubt in anyone's mind as to the effectiveness of modern dance as a medium for interpreting the holiday spirit which prevails in all campus activities this time of year.

Opening with the impressive "Processional" by the entire cast, the program offered a variety of dances ranging from Dickens' classic, "Scrooge's Christmas" to Oschner's popular ballet, "The Juggler of Notre Dame." Although without the benefit of a real stage, the dancers easily overcame this handicap. Their technical skill and delightful costumes combined with effective lighting and music and excellent choreography gave the concert a professional smoothness rarely found in collegiate dance productions.

IM Dancers.

The three winning numbers from the Intramural Dance Contest, "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen" by Delta Gamma; "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks by Alpha Chi Omega, and "A Christmas Card Shop" by Pi Beta Phi, were included in the program. The Alpha Chi Omega humorous interpretation of a traditional Christmas carol was especially well-received by the audience.

Audience approval also established the elaborate performance of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker Suite" as an outstanding number. Myrtis Rider and Nancy Howey were noteworthy as soloists in this ballet, while Florence Nerenberg and Helen Rodin maintained the skillful grace they exhibited in several dances throughout the program.

Dance Suite.

Dr. Aileen Lockhart, director of the recital, and Marion Falloon, president of Orchesis, appeared in the dance suite, and the male chorus including David Carlson, James Howard, Charles Jones, Andrew Morrow, Wendell Smith gave an excellent rendition of the vigorous, "Russian Dance, Trepak."

The difficult "Waltz of the Flowers," performed by four Orchesis members in conventional ballet costumes, and "The Juggler of Notre Dame," starring Betty Quinton, ranked side-by-side as beautiful dance portrayals.

The dance group, composed of Orchesis, Pre-Orchesis, and the newly-organized male chorus, lived up to their reputation from former recitals by presenting unique and very lovely interpretations of traditional Christmas numbers.

Foundation to Hold 'Get Acquainted' Gathering Jan. 6

A mass social meeting of the Student Foundation will be held Tuesday, Jan. 6. It will be a "get acquainted party," according to Mary Ellen Schroeder, chairman.

All Foundation members will meet at 7 p. m. at evening in parlors XYZ of the Student Union. The ten groups of the organization each will present a short skit. The skit named best by judges Miss Mary Mielenz, faculty adviser, Dr. C. M. Elliot, professor of economics, and Duane Lake, Student Union head, will receive a prize.

John Carson will present a ventriloquism act, and Larry Landeryou, Student Foundation president, will act as mistress of ceremonies. Refreshments will be served.

bracket are limited to seven activity points. Freshmen and transfere students are limited to two points.

University scholastic eligibility requirements must be fulfilled by those participating in any campus activity as in the past.

The point board consists of senior men holding principal campus offices. Johnson, as president of Innocents, is the ex-officio head. Other board members are:

Duke Novotny, Martin Pesek, Dick Lahr, Duane Munter, Harold Mozer and Rod Franklin. It acts as an independent organization with membership prescribed through its constitution by the Student Council.

than other student dances because of the large guest list several council members led by Bill Palmer, senior at large, reported faculty members receiving "invitations" found upon arrival that they had to buy tickets to get in.

Palmer asked that the council again investigate the Student Health Service. No action was taken, however.

John Hayes, graduate student representative, was appointed to the special committee studying membership in the National Students' association.
