

YM Presents Russian Classic, Simonov's 'Days and Nights'

"Days and Nights," Konstantin Simonov's cinema adaptation of his moving novel about the defense of Stalingrad, will be presented by the YMCA on Friday, Jan. 16, at 8 p. m. at the Temple theater.

The Russian production, with English sub-titles, is one of a series of foreign films being made available by the YM. Admission, including tax, will be 50c.

Although "Time" magazine claims that "Days and Nights" possesses the weakness of so many modern Russian films, lush unrealism, and claims that it has "more than a touch of Hollywood-with-Russian-dressing," "Newsweek" in its acclamation states that the Soviet film "captures what must have been the true spirit of those men and women who by sheer power of will, won Stalingrad back, building by building."

Although all of its people are Russian, they might be Americans or Englishmen fighting to defend their country against invaders. The days and nights of the title are the days and nights when most of Stalingrad was in German hands, the days and nights which historians may decide marked the beginning of the end of Nazi might.

It is an exciting movie, action packed and almost devoid of propaganda. None of its characters, all vividly and humanly presented, spout the party line. It is a tribute to the Russian motion picture industry and to the people of the country that fought so courageously at Stalingrad.

It is no movie of black and white, in which the Russians are all white and the Germans all black. There is even a Russian traitor willing to sell out his country. Such Germans as move into the movie are not bestial, Hollywoodian villains with monocles and blood mania. The general feeling is warm and real.

The hero of the movie is a red army captain, whose job it is to take and hold three apartment houses in Stalingrad. This he does, but not easily, and not without severe losses among his men. Unskilled at the start in the dreadful modern art of house-to-house fighting, Captain Saburov does not move with incredible movie-like precision but like red army men must have moved when Simonov fought and wrote with them. Most of the movie is about how Saburov held his buildings and how, finally, in the distance, the Russians heard the rumble of their own heavy artillery and knew that with dawn the siege would be lifted at last.

STRAIGHT SKINNY

BY SUSIE REED.

World-minded Alpha Phi's are keeping up with the news by delving into all the available current literature. The latest book which has fallen into their eager hands is the Kinsey Report, a study of the behavior of the North American male animal. The Phi house is a-buzz with discussion concerning this worth-while best-seller.

The aquarium unit of the dormitory zoo is now located on third floor Love in the room also inhabited by Alpha Xi pledges, Toni Flemming and Joyce Buck. These gals are carefully supervising the raising of two goldfish which are named Dick and Art after the gals' current loves. Believe me, these fish get attention plus!

Love at First Sight.

A moment of silent prayer is now in order for all the feds who were left broken-hearted when ATO Fran Fagot started going steady. Fran had his first date with Alpha Chi Ruth Miller on the last Sunday night of vacation, and by the next Wednesday, the two were going steady. This dashing new twosome also made quite a showing at the Tau formal Saturday night.

The gals out Alpha Xi way are wondering when Bev Thompsen is going to get a Sigma Nu pin. The shadow knows! Another Alpha Xi, Pat Black, seems to have gone off the deep end over Beta Theta Pi. How's the water, Pat?

And the wedding bells will soon be ringing for Sig Ep Dave Portwood and Chi O Mary Camp. January 18 is the date set for the big ceremony when these two will go on a permanent hook-up.

Jaw Breaker.

The female population of the campus is on the look-out for the gal who put Sig Ep John Brower out of circulation by breaking his jaw over the holidays. John, more popularly known as "Mumbles," remains "N. C." And over at the Phi Psi house we have the man who is currently featured as "Whispering" John Ayers. Maybe these two should get together.

Another romance goes on the rocks. Alpha Chi Ann Webster and Sig Ep Art Tirro are ready to call it quits after several weeks of feudin'. Well, it was nice while it lasted.

Smoe Ackerman, N. U. footballer, had little trouble getting around stiff arms until he tried to gain ground on the Kappa front porch. That stiff arm with a quick spin-away through the front door has him stymied.

Back on the dating lists are Bill "Spare Tire" Vleck and Joan "Gizzards" Gifford.

Cosmopolitan Club Dance.

A dance sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club will be held Sat., Jan. 17 at 8 p. m. in parlors XYZ of the Union. There will be games, a short program, and refreshments besides dancing. All foreign students and interested American students are invited.

A. A. U. P.

An annual business meeting of the American Association of University Professors, will be held Tues., Jan. 20, at 6 p. m., in parlors XY of the Union. The election of officers will be held, and Dr. Carl W. Borgmann will speak on "The Dilemma of a University Administrator." The dinner will be $1.25 a plate and reservations should be made by Sat. noon by calling Dean Oldfather's office, 4140, or by sending your name by campus mail to 112 Social Sciences. All are invited.
