Student Opinion . . .

Members of the current student council and potential council members who may be preparing to enter the spring election have an adequate supply of thought-provoking and action-stimulating information available, now that results of the council poll of the student body have been tabulated.

The poll, which was taken in ballot form at Chancellor Gustavson's address on UNESCO during a first semester convocation, indicates that students are in favor of pushing ahead with several proposals which the council has had under advisement.

Included on the ballot were questions concerning the parking situation, student representation on the faculty senate, the need for an all-university chapel and the formulation of a senior week which would replace final examinations for seniors.

Topping the list in response was the question concerning an all-university chapel. The fact that this question was first on the ballot might have some influence on the 1195 students who answered this question, but irregardless of the reason for answering, university students voted almost two to one in favor of an all-university chapel.

And the response did not slacken too much when the question of personal support of the chapel was asked. Over 700 students of the 1251 who returned questionnaires declared that they would contribute to a chapel building fund.

Other questions were not neglected, however, for students were overwhelmingly in favor of student representation on the faculty senate and favored establishment of a senior week which would replace final exams for seniors.

With these expressions of sentiment established, the student council has a definite guide to future action. Projects which it has been considering have been approved by a thinking group of students, students who were sufficiently interested to appear at the all-school convocation and present their wishes on the council ballots.

We hope the council will heed the expressions of student opinion.

George Caraker, Sr., formerly of the staff of the Office of War Information under Owen Lattimore, will speak before the students of Union College Wednesday, March 24, at 9:30 a. m. Letterip

Dear Students:

The clothing drive here on the campus is over and in a few days clothing gathered here will be on its way to Europe, to give a measure of protection to some who might otherwise have to do without. Whether or not the recipients of this donation rise spontaneously and become spokesmen for our efforts against Communism I wouldn't want to say. But this I will say, I am glad that there are still those who will arise to support a humanitarian effort.

It is to those who responded to this call that we direct this letter. We also want to thank Mr. Lake, our Union director, for his fine cooperation. Thanks are due also to Doc Secord, president of Alpha Sigma Phi, who drove all of his pledges and actives out into the night to take up the collections of the organized houses. To paraphrase George M. Cohan I have only this to say in conclusion: Those who receive this clothing will thank you, and I thank you.

Yours,
JERRY BLATCHFORD,
Chairman of Uni-Vets clothing drive.

To The Editor:

To all Ag College students and Ag College Cafeteria administrators:

This not intended as an unfair attack on the cafeteria, but merely what I consider and believe a fair example of other unfavorable criticism, either voiced or silent, which are in the minds of most Ag College students who ate their meals in it.

My criticism is this: Just what are the facts and figures behind the very conservative attitude of the cafeteria's counter employees? Are these employees in fear of being called down for giving reasonable servings of food? If not, then just what is the purpose of so carefully, and quite often, scantily measured food servings? Perhaps it is to save food in order that high wages may be paid employees, or because the foods and nutrition building has not been completely paid for to date, but available evidence to support these excuses is obviously lacking.

Unless there are good reasons for the present situation as described above, I am at a loss to know why there is a decidedly marked difference between the size of food servings at the Ag College cafeteria and those in the campus line on the city campus.

I sincerely hope these comments and questions draw response from other thoroughly unsatisfied students on Ag campus, and that they cause the advious administrative officials to issue statements in their defense.

HAROLD HANSEN,
One Ag Student.

A Thought

According to Wordsworth, "The world is too much with us, late and soon, getting and spending we lay waste our powers."

Of late, figures have been quoted stating that 85 percent of college students are neurotic. Surely this indicates a serious lack in the lives of the acclaimed "highest 10 percent of the nation." It would seem that we are too concerned with our own selves, our own wants, and our own world: "getting and spending we lay waste our powers."

Sense of Values.

In the scramble for tangible objects, the proof of success in our materialistic world, we overlook the possibility of the value of intangible objects and in so doing, we lose our sense of values. It is when we no longer have the power or desire to discriminate between good for the individual and good for the group, that we border on the line of "normalcy" and neuroticism.

In this ensuing week the students of this campus will have the opportunity of evaluating their aims and beliefs, for Easter is traditionally a time of new life.

We, as the prospective leaders in a world of chaotic upheaval, owe to ourselves and to all peoples of this turbulent earth the chance to redetermine our goals.

Privacy Required.

A Lincoln minister recently stated, "Jesus went apart to escape going to pieces." This signifies the necessity in His life of periods of calm and privacy to insure progress in the best direction.

If each individual would reorder his day so as to have ten minutes alone with himself and his thoughts, he would understand how "going apart" can help one from "going to pieces."

PEACE POSSIBLE

Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi said Monday he sees a step towards a United States of Europe in the proposal of the three western powers to return Trieste to his country. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, who announced the plan Saturday, also stated that peace is possible. However the cold war between Russia and the western powers went on unabated.

FIN-RUSS TREATY

Finland's delegation reached Moscow to negotiate with Russia on a treaty according to diplomatic sources. The delegation has been instructed to sign a treaty similar if not identical to those Russia recently concluded with Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

TAX CUT

The G.O.P. sponsored tax cut of $4,800,000,000 seemed like a sure thing in Washington circles early Monday. Democrats agreed with Republicans that the bill would pass.

UMT

Dr. Karl Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology told the senate armed services committee that time is running out on the UMT program in view of the fact that it will take 1,600 hours to prepare each trainee. Meanwhile the majority of Senators polled as to their opinion on the selective service and UMT were still "undecided."

Campus News In Brief

University of Nebraska Dames schedule for this week: Tuesday, March 23, 7:30 p. m., sewing in room 116 at Lincoln High and beginning bridge in the Student Union; Thursday, March 25, 7:30 p. m., sewing in room 116 at Lincoln High.

Stassen Club . . .

(Continued from page 1) welcomed, LeVander stated, since they will enable the group to get to the heart of the pressing problems of the day in less time than an extended talk.

The student group will be given a chance to learn how they can participate personally in furthering Mr. Stassen's candidacy and hear a first-hand report of campaign developments in other sections of the country.

The organization is endeavoring to make this meeting "a membership meeting." Ellis said, and again stressed the purpose of the organization as being entirely informational. Permanent officers will be elected.
