

Danish Architect To Speak May 12

Lars Marnus, Danish architect, will be guest speaker for the department of architecture Wednesday, May 12, at 3:30 p. m. in Love Library auditorium.

The Danish designer will lecture on the "rationalist" movement in architecture in Scandinavian countries. His talk will be accompanied by photographs and slides which show the evolution of a modern or functional style from the strict neo-classic design which has been customary in Scandinavian countries and Finland.

Sponsored by Danes.

Arriving in New York several months ago, Marnus has been lecturing at various state universities and conferring with fellow architects, among them Frank Lloyd Wright, famed American designer. His tour is sponsored under the auspices of the Danish government.

In lectures at other schools and colleges, Marnus has expressed his modernistic ideas on the industrialization of house building. He explains that since housing is, at present, the only kind of building going on in his country, as well as in America, it should be made to keep pace with the progress of other commodities. He is deeply interested in substituting for high telements low housing units that will provide easier access to the outdoors for mothers and children.

Lists Improvements.

He describes today's house as "a heaping up of obsolete and halfway modern materials." Among his listed improvements are the extensive use of synthetic materials which are now made completely fireproof, and the doing away with useless woodwork which is only an excuse to cover bad construction.

He will also outline in detail the use of reinforced concrete to make for new, more graceful lines in dwellings, as well as industrial buildings. The systematic production of every building detail, which the Danish architect advocates, should make the machine-made house quicker, better and cheaper, through the use of new materials and methods designed to fit specific needs of the occupants.

LARS MARNUS

Friendship Dinner Set for May 7

All foreign students on the campus are invited to attend the International Friendship dinner, May 7, according to Bev Sievers, religious welfare head.

The dinner, sponsored by the Religious Welfare Council, is to be held in the Green Room of the city YMCA and will begin at 6:30. Dinner will be an informal affair with the American and foreign dishes presented as a smorgasbord.

The original plan stated that each foreign student would come as the individual guest of a specific student or faculty member. However, in order to be sure that each foreign student is invited, the Religious Welfare Council is issuing an invitation to each and every foreign student on campus to attend the dinner.

Although a blanket invitation has been issued, the council hopes that students and faculty will still continue asking foreign students individually, for in this way personal friendships and understandings will be promoted.

Four Aspects of US-Russian Questions Explained in Forum

BY JERRY ROESLER.

Nebraska students demonstrated Tuesday night that this is one of the most democratic sections of the country by the absence of heckling or any attempts to break up the Y.M.C.A. forum held in Love Library, according to Curtiss Elliott, moderator of the forum.

Speaking on the question, "Can We Have Peace With Russia?" were: Dean of Law college Frederick K. Beutel; Rev. C. B. Howells, Baptist student pastor and a chaplain with the First army during the war; Milo W. Price, instructor in political science at the university; and Richard Criley, communist party member, formerly a captain on General Eisenhower's staff.

Advocates 'Get Tough' Policy.

Dean Beutel advocated the "get tough with Russia" policy. He stated that the only language the Russians understand is force, so we must use force against them. According to Beutel, the Russians favor the overthrow of existing governments thru force. As far as letting the United Nations deal with Russia, Dean Beutel says that organization cannot even scare the Arabs out of Palestine.

Mr. Price said that the only concrete program to peace is the United Nations, and that there will be wars as long as independent states maintain armies and navies, since armed forces certainly do not inspire nations' confidence in each other.

The last two wars to end war have not brought peace, and there is no reason to believe that the next one will. Price stated that the present United Nations is a weak attempt to preserve peace, since it is based on the principle of sovereign equality of nations, but that the United Nations might lead to world government.

Hits Russian "Distrust."

Reverend Howells described incidents to prove that early as one week after VE day, Russia distrusted the United States. He was with the American troops that contacted the Russians in Germany. As a result, Reverend Howells questions the sincerity of the Russians. He deplored the rapid demobilization of the U. S. army and navy after war, for we must have a strong army, navy and air force to maintain the peace. He said that the Truman policy is a step in the right direction.

Mr. Criley stated the United States government does not want peace, and has sabotaged relations between nations. He scored U. S. policy in Greece, China, Italy, Korea, Palestine and Spain. He also accused us of favoring the revival of Germany with Hitler's cohorts and aides. He stated that the masses all over the world are refusing to subscribe to the pre-war world order, and are demanding land reforms and the nationalization of industries.

Strong student interest in the question was evidenced by the question session, which lasted until the audience was forced out by the closing of the library.

Frank Mott to Talk At Writer's Fete

Missourian's Appearance To Highlight Party May 13

Dr. Frank Luther Mott, Pulitzer prize-winning historian and dean of the University of Missouri school of journalism, will be the featured speaker at the twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the University of Nebraska school of journalism on Thursday, May 13.

The Spring banquet is held each year as a climax to the school's activities and this year will open the institute on education for journalism, sixth and last of the series of weekend meetings which the school has been conducting for professionals in observance of its anniversary.

Other Schools Invited

Representatives of the journalism faculties of major state institutions neighboring Nebraska have been invited to the educators institute. A number of representatives of other schools and of professional associations and publications have also been invited.

Dr. Mott, a former newspaperman in Oklahoma and Iowa, was for fifteen years director of the University of Iowa school of journalism before going to Missouri in 1942. The author of many books on popular reading habits in the United States, he was awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1939 for his exhaustive history of American magazines.

Won Pulitzer Prize

He is currently the author of "Golden Multitudes," a history of best-sellers in American book publishing. In 1945 he was in charge of the school of journalism at the GI university at Biarritz, France, and in the spring of 1946 was consultant to General MacArthur on problems of journalistic education in the Japanese theater.

Men's Housing

All men now enrolled in the University of Nebraska who wish to apply for housing in the men's residence halls for the fall term, 1948-49, must make applications in Room 209 in the Administration building from May 7 to May 14, according to E. G. Freudenburg, director of men's housing.

This also pertains to present occupants of the dorm. There are also vacancies for the summer session.

Council Will Tighten Club Finances

Finances of campus organizations were tightened yesterday by the release of an expenditure policy rule by the committee on student organizations and social functions at the Student Council meeting Wednesday.

The recommendations, suggested to the committee by the sub-committee on audits, budgets, and expenditures, were adopted Feb. 25, 1948. They will be sent to all organizations next fall, according to Dean Harper, student activities director.

Jack Selzer, head of a Council committee to investigate the price of this year's Military ball, made the report on the rules. The recommendations were a result of the sub-committee's investigation of the prices for the military department affair.

To Curtail Expenditure

The rules to curtail organization expenditures from student activity funds, said to be the cause for charging high prices for sponsored affairs, are, in general: 1. Only expenditures deemed necessary for carrying out the expressed aims and purposes of the organization, as set forth in its constitution, will be allowed. Social activities for a limited number's benefit shall not be approved expenditures, except when members "chip in" in advance.

2. Organizations permitted to sponsor subscription events shall adjust admission prices only to avoid deficits and excessive profits.

Budgets Submitted

3. Each organization shall submit an annual detailed budget of all activities for the school year on or by Oct. 15 for examination.

4. The manager of student activities is authorized to scrutinize all requests for expenditures and to approve or reject vouchers in keeping with the above rules or policies, subject to appeal to the senate committee on student organizations and social functions.

The Council received the constitution of the Interfraternity Pledge Class council from repre-

3 Candidates Vie For Pub Board Post

Election of senior publications board member will be held today in the main hall of the Union on city campus, and in the student activities building on Ag.

The election is being held because a previous election was contested when Shirlee Wallace's name was omitted from the spring election ballot.

Candidates for the position are:

Edward Trumble
Norman Walker
Shirlee Wallace

All juniors are eligible to vote. The polls will be open from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. All juniors are urged to turn out for this election, according to Student Council president, Dale Ball.

The Pub board is solely responsible for choosing the staff for the Cornhusker, Cornshucks, and The Daily Nebraskan and, because of the responsibilities thus involved, it is important that all eligible students exercise their privilege of voting, Ball said.

In the first election, Ed Trumble received the highest number of votes. He is an Innocent, Corn Cob, member of the Union board and president of Sigma Nu. Miss Wallace is a Teacher's college junior and an Alpha Phi.

Representatives, and set Monday, 4 p. m., as the time to act on it. The judiciary committee, headed by Dick Schluessener will either approve or reject the constitution in absence of a new constitution committee. All interested parties are asked to attend the committee meeting, according to Schluessener.

Holdover members of the Council explained the work of the various departments.

See COUNCIL, page 3.

Men's Scholarship-Activity Program

Individual Activities

Student Council: member 10; Other elected officers, 15; president, 20.

Daily Nebraskan: circulation manager, special feature editor, society editor, photographer, 10; assistant business manager, sports editor, news editor, 15; managing editor, 17; editor, business manager, 20.

Cornhusker: staff editor, photographer, 5; assistant business manager, 13; managing editor, art editor, 15; editor, business manager, 20.

Student Union board: members, 10; president, 15.

Cornshucks: circulation manager, assistant business manager, 8; managing editor, 10; editor, business manager, 15.

Student Foundation: members of board, 10; president, 15.

Interfraternity council: executive officers, 5; president, 10.

Class officers: junior or senior, 10.

Homecoming displays: first, 60; second, 50; third, 40; participation, 30.

Homecoming floats: first, 40; second, 30; third, 20; participation, 10.

House Yell Contest: first, 20;

Kosmet Klub: member, 10; business manager, 15; president, 20.

Corn Cobs: member, 10; officers, 15; president, 20.

Nebraska Masquers: member, 5; president and theater business manager, 10.

YMCA: officers, 5; president, 10.

Honorary, departmental and professional organizations: officers, 4; president, 7.

N Club: lettermen or member, 5; officers, 12; president, 15.

Athletic managers: junior and senior managers, 5.

Debate team: member, 10.

Cheerleaders: member, 5; yell king, 15.

Varsity athletics: team member, 5.

All University Fund: division head, member of advisory board, 5; director, treasurer, 10.

Ag Exec board: member, 10; officers, 12; president, 15.

House Activities

second, 15; third, 10; participation, 5.

Kosmet Klub fall review: first, 60; second, 50; third, 40; participation in finals, 30; skits, 20.

Ivy Day Sing: first, 55; second, 45; third, 35; participation, 25.

Ag YMCA: president, 5.

Coll-Agri-Fun board: member, 5; manager, 10.

Cornhusker Countryman: assistant circulation manager, 5; circulation manager, business manager, managing editor, 10; editor, 15.

Farmers' Fair Board: member, 10, manager, 15.

Nebraska Blueprint: circulation manager, 5; business manager, assistant editor, 10; editor, 15.

Engineer's Exec board: member, 5; president, 10.

Engineer's Week: chairman and secretary-treasurer, 10.

Prince Kosmet, 10.

Eligible Bachelors, 5.

Ivy Day Orator, 10.

Ivy Day Poet, 5.

Innocents, 40.

Kosmet Klub spring show: part, 3.

Band: member, 5.

Publications board: member, 5.

Scholarship

House scholarship: first, 200; second, 190; third, 180; fourth, 170; fifth, 160; sixth, 150; seventh, 140; eighth, 130; ninth, 120; tenth, 110; any others above all men's average, 100.

Individual scholarship: each man on the honor roll, 10.