

New Machines To Aid Library

Accuracy and speed will be the keynote in Love library beginning with the summer session. Books will be charged at the loan desk and reserve desk in a split second by ingenious electric-automatic book charging machines.

Each student and faculty member will be issued a small borrower's card. Attached to this card is a metal tab that carries an embossed number. This number becomes the student's library serial number for the entire period that he attends the university.

To charge a book, the librarian inserts this card into an open chute on top of the machine. The book card is inserted in another chute and automatically the date due and the student's number is printed on the book card.

The machines are so fool proof and easy to operate that hundreds of libraries throughout the country are using them. The time consuming task of signing names and addresses on call slips is completely eliminated. The Library also hopes to eliminate some of the unpleasant arguments at the Laird gave a convincing portrayal of the strong-willed wife who honestly believed she was helping her husband, as did Norm Leger of the troubled vicar. However, the conflict between the two, and the change in the wife was not too sharply drawn.

Jack Asbyll made a richly oriental appearance as the "servant" although his lack of experience and maturity was evident in this, his first major role. Robert, played by Merle Stalder, was appropriately rough and low-brow, but his performance lacked variety.

loan desk with this installation, according to Richard A. Farley, assistant librarian. A book may be charged to a borrower only when his card is used in the machine.

CRIB NOTES

by Bj Hokous

One week and a day brings the time in the school calendar that is circled with black and red . . . final exam week. All too soon comes dreary cramming and last minute review . . . and also an occasional round of golf or a show . . . only consolation is that summer is right ahead!

ODE FROM A SENIOR

It's time to call a spade a spade Admit life soon for life will fade I'm convinced life's all a kyp. I'm almost ready to lose my grip.

It's smarter not to study they say. Perhaps it's better just to play I'm sick of term papers, tired of tests Why not abolish finals and let us all rest?

A big red FLUNK gives me no thrills Just headaches, nausea and chills To finish four years of this education game Will never leave me just the same

I pity readers, profs and such I mean, I think they work too much Let's abolish finals and enforce the rule! So we all can enjoy these last few days of school!

PRE FINAL FLIGHT

The sofa sagged in the center The shades were drawn just so The family had retired The parlor lights burned low A sound then came from the sofa A sound that was not new And a Senior slammed his textbooks With a thankful, "Well, I'm through!"

Harvey's have the shirt to give your morale a lift, the IDLE HOUR fashioned from durable rayon gabardine for a full summer season of real comfort . . . gay plaid pattern gives this smart sport shirt a man-about-town-and-country air . . . save on your clothing investment by buying at Harvey Brothers, prices to fit your campus budget . . . let Harvey's help you!

An announcement on a bulletin board outside a certain church in a small town reads: "Do You Know What Hell Is?" Underneath, in small letters: "Come and hear our organist this evening."

If your nerves are rather shaky, if your way behind in five or six courses, if you haven't read any of the semester's assignment, in other words if you are a typical University student a bit of advice:

RESUME

(Dorothy Parker)

Razors pain you;
Rivers are damp;
Acids stain you;
And drugs cause cramp.
Guns aren't lawful,
Nooses give;
Gas smells awful
You might as well live.
