The Union board received a letter of resignation from Miss Ruth Odell of the English department. Miss Miriam McGrew was appointed by Chancellor Gustavson to fill the post.

Lake presented financial reports for May and June to the board and discussed the financial report for the close of the fiscal year.

Campus Beautification Starts In Area of Memorial Buildings

The first phase of a campus beautification program that has been pending for a good many years was finally started this summer. A story in the July 16 issue of The Daily Nebraskan described the work being done now. The initial program is being confined to the area between 12th and 14th streets from R street to Memorial Mall. Funds for this beautification project were made available through the co-operation of the Cooper Foundation of Lincoln.

Stand as Memorials

The project has been started in the section of the campus where buildings stand as memorials to men who worked long and hard for and gave much to the University. The Don L. Love Memorial stands in this area. Mr. Love gave the University funds for the construction of the library.

From the Library the project will move north, as funds are available, to surround Andrews Hall, Burnett Hall, Morrill Hall and Bessey Hall, which stand as memorials to Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews, Chancellor Edgar A. Burnett, Dr. C. E. Bessey, famed botanist when a member of the Nebraska faculty, and the late C. H. Morrill, for many years a member of the Board of Regents and the board's president for 10 years.

Started Foundation

The late Chancellor Burnett introduced the Foundation program to the University and it is through the Foundation that the project is being carried out.

As soon as funds are available, the development will reach Andrews and Morrill Halls which had waited 20 years for such a project.

The late Chancellor Andrews headed the University from 1900-1909. Mr. Morrill homesteaded in Polk County in 1871. He gave many thousands of dollars to the University's museum.

Open Mural Drawing Contest For Decorations in Corn-Crib

Plans are underway for redecoration of the Corn Crib this summer or in the early fall. New wall murals are to be painted and the Union board authorized the purchase of new blue and gold drapes last week.

Because a number of students have expressed a wish to plan the murals and have their work on the walls of the Crib, the Union is sponsoring a contest to name the artist who will draw the murals.

Any student may submit an entry in the contest. Each plan should consist of an outline of mural sketches showing a panorama of student life and campus activities to coincide with that decoration plan in the crib. Also, each contestant should submit a quotation of the cost of the work. Entries must be made by the close of the summer school session as Union officials would like to complete the work by the start of the fall term.

Winner will be selected by the Union staff, the building committee of the Union board along with the student members of the board that are in summer school. These include Ed Trumble, Byron Hooper Sue Bjorklund and Jeanne Kerrigan.

In order to enter the contest, a student should have done work of this kind before, according to Union Director Duane Lake.

Record Audience Pronounces 'Pops' Concert Huge Success

Pronounced a "huge success" by the audience of nearly 1500 in attendance last Wednesday evening, the third annual "Pops" concert presented by the University symphony orchestra went off on schedule in spite of threatening rain clouds and an occasional sprinkle during the evening.

A record crowd filled all available chairs in front of the east entrance to the memorial stadium and also heard the concert from cars parked in the area.

Contrary to the original summer's calendar of events and an announcement that appeared in The Daily Nebraskan, there will not be a second "Pops" concert on July 21. The announcement in the calendar of events was in error.

This third concert of its kind has become an annual summer event at the University. It was attempted for the first time two years ago when it was well received by students and residents of Lincoln as well.

In order to make the audience comfortable and free from bothersome mosquitoes and chiggers, the concert area was sprayed with chemicals prior to the concert. Also adding to audience comfort was the serving of free lemonade by the Union.

The concert was jointly sponsored by the Union and the School of Fine Arts. Directed by Emmanuel Wishnow, the orchestra built their program theme around a "salute to the United Nations."

The eight arrangements offered by the symphony included the music of composers of various nations ranging from the familiar strains of a Strauss waltz to the more modern numbers of Tchaikowsky.

Four Student Cadets Represent Nebraska at Ordnance Camp

Four students, in the status of cadets, are representing the University of Nebraska at the ordnance ROTC summer camp now in session at Aberdeen proving ground, Maryland, under the command of Brigadier General Elbert L. Ford, commanding general of the proving ground, and Lt. Colonel Frank R. Swoger, executive officer of the camp. The camp training, a compulsory portion of the cadets' ROTC training, will continue for a period of six weeks, during which time each cadet is being subjected to an intensive program of ordnance operations.

The cadets undergoing this training, who upon the satisfactory completion of summer camp and a total of two years of advanced ROTC college instruction, will be eligible for commissions as second lieutenants in the ORC. The cadets from the University of Nebraska are: Harold Jansen, James C. Martin, William E. Rolfemeyer, Erwin G. Wittman.

The training program is featuring practical application of the theories learned in the college ROTC courses. This practical application includes, as a highlight, three weeks of actual proofing and testing of ordnance equipment at the development and proof service division of the proving ground. The cadets are performing such tests as: Proof firing of 8 inch guns; cold weather testing of ordnance equipment; establishing powder charges for artillery weapons; and numerous other similar projects.

In addition to the ordnance training, the cadets are participating in scheduled organized athletics during a part of the day, and climaxing their evening social activities with three formal dances during the six weeks period.

E. Schossberger To Give Second Book Review

In her second program of the summer, Miss Emily Schossberger, University editor, will review "The Steeper Cliff" by David Davidson, in the Union Book Nook Thursday at 4 p.m.

The book review programs given in the Union are free of charge. Miss Schossberger presented a series of book reviews in the Union last summer.

Last week, the University editor reviewed "Son of the Moon," the story of a young man in modern India. The book is concerned with conflicting Indian society.
