

Husker Band to Present Six Formations Saturday

BAND PLANNING—Don Lentz, director of the university pep band, and Drum Major Walt Davis get together and work on a routine for the band to present at a halftime during a Nebraska game. On the slate for the Iowa State game is a special "good luck" formation.

With the advent of the football season, students can once again expect to see all the color and precision marching of the famous university R.O.T.C. band, directed by Don Lentz and led by Drum Major Walt Davis.

Varied Formations Presented.

The Scarlet and Cream 106 piece marching unit will present an unusually varied six formation show Saturday. Included will be an Iowa State tribute directed to the Iowa rooters. Then the band will go into its good luck theme. The first formation will be a huge L-U-C-K, while the band plays "A Great Day." Then the members will place their hats on the ground in formation, while they superimpose upon it; first a huge four leaf clover, then a horseshoe, and finally a lucky pair of dice. The band will then go back to the L-U-C-K formation, pick up their hats, and present their final tribute to Dad in an unusually slanted letter formation, playing "The Man I Love."

These formations will only take about 15 minutes of the time between halves. But this short amount of time that the drill takes represents many hours of co-operation between each band member and his director, as well as many months of developing an idea.

Gamma Lambda Discusses Theme.

After being suggested to Director Lentz or Drum Major Davis, a theme is talked over with the members of Gamma Lambda, Nebraska's national band fraternity. Then it is mapped out on a cardboard football field made to scale to the real football field. Here Band President Darwin Fredricson, past President Jack Snider, Gamma Lambda prexy Kent Tiller and other band officers are called in to help map out the drills, suggest ideas and music and generally contribute their experience toward success of the band.

These trophies on display in the new P.E. building will be awarded to winners of various intramural sports. The coveted Jack Best trophy will be given to best all around organization in IM athletic competition.

In 1943, an article appeared in the Daily Nebraskan which began: "Sigma Alpha Epsilon house, no longer a fraternity, now bears the sign 'Panhellenic House.'"

The house was being used at that time to quarter upperclass girls who were going through rush week.

Optimistic Note Sounded at End Of School Week

BY LEE HARRIS.

The school year is in full swing with one full week under the belts of the better than 10,000 U.N. students.

So far this year the "poor" student seems to have become the forgotten part of the university, at least this fact appears to be so on first sight.

As if the lines of registration were not enough along with the task of fighting through the bookstore crowds to downhearten the average student, he now finds that someone has decided last year's seats at the football game are too good for him. So this year he will sit in the balcony away from the congested areas around the 50-yard line and view the football games from the clouds.

On top of this, mind you, the "poor" student has had to contend with first week assignments that after a three month layoff seem like giant killers.

Well, the first week is over and after Saturday the school year will be old stuff. To those who are already tired, disgusted, and out of sorts—don't feel bad, things might get worse.

Jean Fenster is in charge of entertainment, and Mrs. Erck is in charge of refreshments, assisted by Gamma Delta alumni.

Lutheran Chapel service will be conducted on the campus at 10:45 a. m. Sunday in room 315 in the Union. Rev. H. Erck, university Lutheran pastor, will preside at the service and will speak on the topic: "The proper relationship of husband and wife." Harold Gloystein will accompany the hymns, and Myra Hauge will be soloist.

Ticket Sellers Vie for Honors

Who will reign as Honorary Producer of the University Theater?

That's the question the campus is asking as organized houses round the first turn of the ticket-selling race. Although it's too early to predict winners or name leaders in the campaign, its has been rumored in ticket-selling circles that one fraternity has already passed the half-century mark in sales.

However, according to theatre officials, it's still a wide open affair. This is mainly due to the lack of coverage of certain districts and people.

Because of this lack of coverage, the University Theatre will periodically relay sales tips and hints to the Rag for publication.

Today's salestips: The faculty and Lincoln's business and residential districts have not been receiving ample sales coverage!

All organized houses should select immediately and phone in the name of their Honorary Producer candidates to the University Theatre business office.
