Letterip

Members of the Student Body:

In this letter I am interested in calling your attention to the following:

I. The University's Policy Regarding A. Use of Spirituous Liquors

It is believed that an educational institution that fails to point out the well-known results of the careless use of alcoholic liquors and admonish its students concerning their use may fail to live up to its educational responsibility; first, because of the danger that a student may unwittingly acquire a habitual desire for liquor that may retard or inhibit the development of his normal faculties; and second, because of the danger that even the casual drinker may thoughtlessly become involved in complicated or unsavory social circumstances. IT IS BELIEVED, THEREFORE, THAT THE ATTITUDE OF THE UNIVERSITY ON THIS MATTER IS WELL DEFINED BY STATING: FIRST, THAT THE SERVING OF ALCOHOLIC LIQUORS OF ANY STRENGTH BY STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS EITHER IN ORGANIZED HOUSES OR AT PUBLIC AFFAIRS CANNOT BE REGARDED AS ACCEPTABLE OR GOOD EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE; AND SECOND, THAT INTOXICATION, INTOLERABLE AND REPREHENSIBLE AS IT IS IN CIVIL LIFE, IS MUCH MORE INTOLERABLE AND REPREHENSIBLE WHEN INDULGED IN BY A REPRESENTATIVE OF A UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY.

B. Drinking and Driving

As a public institution it is believed the University should exercise any moral suasion possible to decrease and prevent the great number of accidents, many of them fatal, that are occurring on city streets and public highways. It should be understood, therefore, that it is the policy of the University to dismiss students found to be operating motor vehicles while under the influence of alcoholic liquors.

II. The Board of Regents' Regulations Regarding

A. Annual Review of All Student Organizations

"The Senate Committee on Student Organizations and Social Functions shall be empowered to subject each student organization, including fraternities and sororities, to annual review to determine its privilege to continue as an approved organization at the University of Nebraska. The power to review, suspend or regulate any student organization vested in the Senate Committee on Student Organizations and Social Functions shall supersede such powers granted any other university body subordinate to the Chancellor and the Board of Regents."

B. Membership in Non-approved Organizations

"Students found to be associated with organizations not approved by the Senate Committee on Student Organizations and Social Functions shall be subject to punitive action."

C. Membership in Organizations Requiring Unsavory and Immoral Practices for Membership or Initiation

"It shall be mandatory to dismiss from the University any student found by the Senate Committee on Student Organizations and Social Functions to be associated with or a member of an organization that encourages or requires as a condition for membership the drinking of intoxicating liquor or the practice of immorality in any form when this finding shall have been reported to the dean of student affairs or the dean of women."

Will you kindly bring these matters to the attention of your membership. Thanking you, I am

Sincerely,
T. J. Thompson, Dean

Sign 'Em, Please . . .

As always The Daily Nebraskan is glad to print letters from you, but only if they are signed! We will print no letters that come into the office without signatures.

Occasionally, according to circumstances involved and upon special request, we will withhold a name from publication. However, we must have the name of the writer in our files, so that it may be furnished to interested individuals upon demand.

SO, DO NOT SUBMIT LETTERS WITHOUT IDENTIFICATION!

Another point that should be clarified concerns the editorial writers of The Daily Nebraskan. There seems to have been some misunderstanding and question about identity of the editorial writers.

According to Daily Nebraskan policy, all editorials are written by the editor unless otherwise designated by initials or signatures.

Morrill Hall Collectors Pose Threat to Careless Inhabitants

If you are from Nebraska you better watch out—your very life is in danger! The people of Morrill Hall might be looking for you in their search for various specimens of the state of Nebraska to be put on display in natural habitat groups in our own University of Nebraska State Museum.

What is a Natural habitat group? Briefly, it is an exhibit which simulates a natural scene. Besides being an extremely effective and interesting manner to inform authentically, it is also a fascinating exhibition of beauty.

The process entailed in producing such a group is very involved: after the necessary research has been completed, a scientist, artist, craftsman and lighting specialist must work together to complete the group.

As soon as sufficient funds have been collected and lighting facilities improved, work on the displays will continue. Sixteen different localities in Nebraska will be represented in this new educational exhibit which will enable a visitor as well as yourself to visualize the varied wildlife in cross-section and the different types of landscapes to be found in Nebraska.

You are invited to see the display concerning the plans of this new exhibit which is now in the east basement of Morrill Hall. The display explains by means of examples the various processes that go into the making of a habitat group including a completed miniature model group. See how realistic rock is made from wire netting; how trees are made from paper; and how grass, moss, and plants are preserved to last forever in these spectacular exhibits.

Then there is the boy who caused a few eyebrows to raise by stating his intended profession as "Navel" officer. One co-ed belongs in the same class because she was the only gal on campus who told speech testers that she intended to be a housewife.

An English instructor, who represents a new class of scholar, astounded his Monday morning class by rushing out in a pelting rain to lower his convertible top. He returned not only wet, but also bearing a traffic ticket.

Union-Alls By Lee Best

(Note: The following letter is strictly for freshmen, written by one of the most outstanding members of the class of '52, Frannie (I'm just learning) Frosh. It seems Frannie just discovered the Student Union among various labs, classes, and appointments on the campus. Here such prominent persons as football players, free-Camel-passers, Student Council members, Norm Leger, (he gets in everywhere!) and various other important personages, mingle among the hoy-polloy of old NU; and friend Frannie, excited at the prospect of meeting these grandiose's, has just written home to Mother all about that "exciting" college life.)

Dear Mom:
I'm sitting here in the Stupid Union (Student Union to you oldsters) writing my weekly letter home before going upstairs to a movie. Gee, there are just loads of things to do here in the Union, after you catch on to all the trick names they have for them. How was I to know that a "Unionizer" wasn't CIO meeting, but a big weekend dance with Johnny Cox's orchestra? The first UNIONIZER is the 15th of October, with a different band for the three following Friday nights.

To get back to that movie . . . its a football picture. They call it the CAMPUS QUARTERBACK session. Gosh, what a deal! Every Wednesday noon they show movies of the previous Saturday's game in the ballroom, and you should see those huge handsome Nebraska players who come over to see what they look like on the screen. It's fun to listen to the coaches who come over and discuss the merits of the game with the crowd too. And all for FREE! But don't get worried Mom, I eat lunch in the Campusline before I come. With a Freshman football will never replace food I guess.

One of the senior girls tipped me off to a good thing the other day too, Mom. She said it was perfectly OK for a freshman girl to come to a weekend JUKEBOX FLING with a bunch of other girls. Good way to get acquainted. They have these dances with recorded music every Saturday this month except Homecoming weekend.

You tell Dad that I've found someone to teach me dancing, and bridge too, here in the Union. So he won't have to worry about his being too old for dancing, or me being too dumb for bridge. Dale Ball and Donna McCandless will take care of that. Donna starts DANCING LESSONS for beginners at 7 p. m. on the 12th of October, and Dale is the official Culbertson BRIDGE expert, instructing from 4:00 to 6:00 every Thursday afternoon, starting October 14, with no charge for either.

Say, why don't you tip me off as to what Dad, Bud, and Fido too, need for Xmas. They have a CRAFT SHOP in the basement of the Union where you can make all sorts of leather goods and gifts, and things. It opens right after homecoming, in time for us to make all the presents we want, free of charge, by December 25.

Well, Mom, I just saw Patsy Clark and some of the players go upstairs, so will close . . . gotta get a front seat.

Love,
Frannie.
P. S. How about $5.00. My Crib money is all gone. Come to the Union—It Suits!
