

Huskers . . .

the ball on the 25 yard stripe and ran untouched for another six points. Jerry Moore's conversion was no good and the score stood 12-2 at halftime.

The final Scarlet tally came late in the third quarter when Gerry Ferguson standing on the Iowa State 35 completed a pass to Ralph Damkroger good for eight yards. Ferguson again passed, this time to Jack Hazen, who ate up nine yards and gave the Huskers a first down on the 21 yard line. Dick Hutton picked up eight yards on a wide reverse. On the second down Ferguson again took the ball. Gerry ran sharply to the side picked out Dick Hutton on the seven yard stripe and hit the bullseye. Hutton made it over from the seven and Bobby Costello racked up the extra point.

Coach Abe Stuber must have really given his boys a pep talk during the halftime. The Cyclones came back an inspired team in the third quarter. John Griffith returned Nebraska's kick off to his own 26 where Bob Schneider stopped him. Lornie Paulson tried the center slot for one yard and Bob Angle went off tackle for eight. Angle tried the same spot again but he forgot that Charlie Toogood doesn't forget easily. Toogood stopped him for no gain. John Griffith whipped a pass to Syl Wilhelm which was completed to the Nebraska 48 yard line. It was all Griffith from then on as the small quarterback made a first down on a quarterback sneak and on the next play whipped a 40 yard pass to Bob Angle who went over for the marker.

The Iowa State offense bogged down until the final quarter when Sutherland connected on three straight passes to the Nebraska 12 yard line. Bobby Costello ruined Sutherland's fourth attempt when he knocked down a pass meant for Syl Wilhelm. Bobby Angle took the ball on the next play and went right through the Husker line to score from 12 yards out.

There was never any doubt in the minds of Husker fans that the Scarlet would win. Although there were times in the third and fourth quarters when it seemed Coach Patsy Clark's students might be in trouble. The Husker line had its back to the wall several times but managed to do a good job of holding off a stubborn Iowa State team. The win put Nebraska on top of the Big Seven conference standings, at least for this week.

The first quarter was uneventful except for the automatic safety scored in the early minutes of the game. Nebraska won the toss and elected to receive. Brukaker kicked into the Nebraska endzone. Cletus Fischer made two yards off tackle and Bill Mueller ran around end for 11 yards and a first down. Tom Novak picked up one yard through center while Cletus Fischer made two around end. Nebraska was penalized for taking too much time and Kenny Fischer punted to mid field.

Iowa State didn't connect on a pass during the first half but came back after halftime to complete 9 out of 21 passes. The Cyclones ran up 10 first downs while Nebraska tallied 11.

The Kansas Jayhawks roared past Denver university 40-0, Friday night at Denver before 25,070 fans.

Kansas' aerial attack accounted for two touchdowns and many long gains. The tilt was the first for both elevens.

IM Football To Be Played Says Director Lou Means

"A full intramural touch football schedule will be played as planned," announced director Lou Means at an intramural meeting Friday afternoon in the new P. E. building.

The announcement was made possible by the acquiring of five new touch football fields. Two malls in front of the Military Science building coupled with two fields at the Ag. campus and one field at Peter Pan park has made possible the beginning of competition Monday afternoon at 5:00 with four fraternity and two independent leagues.

An increase in dues of five dollars for each intramural member was approved by a majority vote and a motion to hold an intramural ball or awards program to raise funds for an injury fund for intramural players was referred to a committee for further consideration before action.

'Yearbook Space On Sale'—Johnston

Jerry Johnston, Cornhusker editor, announced today that space in the 1949 Cornhusker is now on sale.

Contracts are being mailed to all organizations represented in last year's Cornhusker. It's going to cost more for space this year. The price of one-half page is $30.00, full page $50.00, and two pages $75.00.

All new organizations, organizations not represented in last year's Cornhusker, or organizations desiring more or less space than last year, contact Jerry Johnston at once.

Intramural football is once more on the schedule at the University. This was the big news Friday to all organizations on campus and we are very happy to hear it.

We would like to shed some light on the playing field situation, however. The Husker athletic department refused use of the practice fields west of the Coliseum for a very good reason. Athletic Director, Patsy Clark with an eye to the future is expanding the Frosh football program. Clark is planning a freshman program with four coaches handling the boys in four groups. This will permit each lad with a desire to play football not only a chance to show what they have but give them proper screening.

The Husker mentor thinks a well coached frosh squad will mean greater experience and less chance of missing an athlete who has varsity possibilities.

The Frosh coaching staff, originally set at four members, has been doubled and the playfields, purchased with money earned by Husker football men, are now being monopolized by nearly 200 freshmen.

These playing fields to the west of the Coliseum are absolutely necessary if Coach Clark's expansion program is to be carried through. If these practice fields are necessary to make a better varsity team for the University lets all get behind Coach Clark and back him 100 per cent.

Jewish Temple Lauds Students

All-University Church Night was observed by the South Street Temple, 20th and South, on Friday, Sept. 24, at 8 p. m., in connection with the season's first Sabbath Eve service.

Students participated in conducting the service. Rabbi S. H. Baron spoke on "Student Types—Ancient and Modern."

An informal reception was held following the service and students were honored by the congregation and the Temple Sisterhood.

A new note on our campus: A smart Freshman who avoided registration by paying the $3.00 late registration fee and doing the job in 30 minutes.
