

Clark Readies Huskers For Notre Dame Attack

Coach Patsy Clark sent his Husker eleven through another heavy workout Wednesday in preparation for the tough grid meeting with the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame Saturday.

The Husker mentor was using a combination of players on the first varsity eleven yesterday afternoon. Bob Ackerman, Don Bloom and Bill (Rocky) Mueller were alternating at the right half-back post. Mueller will probably get the nod for the starting position Saturday.

Fischer Returns

The first varsity squad had Junior Collopy, Kirk Lee, Del Wiegand, and Mueller running in the backfield. Playing on the line were Tom Novak, Mike DiBiase, Darwin Salestrom, Dick Goeglein, Jim Godfrey, Howard Fletcher and George Bostwick.

Wednesday's scrimmage was highlighted by the return of Cletus Fischer. The St. Edward spark-plug ran through several plays and will be ready to go against Notre Dame.

Pass Defense Good

Fischer will captain the Huskers Saturday afternoon. He is the closest approach to a natural leader. The fleet back is the key man on the spread plays which were effective against Minnesota but bogged down against Colorado when Fischer was not in the game. Clark continued the use of a new defense he instituted Tuesday.

Howard Fletcher, 6-3 end, who played halfback at McCook high school, and Ray Magsamen, 6-2 end, are playing in the backfield when the Huskers are on defense. Patsy hopes their height will give the Nebraska backfield the extra punch they will need to stop the Notre Dame passing attack.

Lee Stands Out

Tom Novak, picked by Notre Dame players in 1947 as the best center they played against, has been troubled all fall by an ankle which he sprained playing baseball during the summer.

Kirk Lee, 166 pound sophomore, showed plenty of drive in Wednesday's scrimmage. The former Fremont flash was clipping off 10 to 12 yard gains in the practice session.

"Nebraska teams of other years have been known to rise to the occasion when Notre Dame invaded Lincoln," Coach Clark said. "We are hoping our present crop will catch fire as those teams of the early 1920's. I believe there will be room for both elevens on the field."

Mean Directs IM's Efficiently

BY HERM SHYKEN.

Many students on campus are actively participating in intramural sports and recreation without knowing anything about the mechanisms and staff that makes for efficient operation and management.

Louis E. Means is the boss of the organization, with the title of staff director. The detailed desk work is handled by Intramural Secretary Mrs. Genevieve Grossman. Both have offices at Intramural headquarters, 102 Sports Arena Building.

Hollie Lepley, commissioner of officials for all games, will direct a great deal of the fall and spring programs.

The Agricultural campus is the charge of one Ed Higginbotham who supervises most of the games and tournaments there.

Pat Patterson conducts three intramural events, wrestling, boxing and bait and fly casting tournaments. The latter is a new addition to the roll of special sports contests featured in the I.M.'s.

Bob Slezak is a part-time staff member, as is Dale Bloss, graduate assistant, both acting as field and game supervisors for many events. Warren Emery, another graduate assistant, helps out with intramural programs and special intramural problems and publicity.

The Student Health Service is responsible for giving complete physical check-ups to men participating in the more strenuous sports.

Special rules clinics are going to be held occasionally in order to provide better officiating in the team sports; supervisory help is given by Vernon W. Lapp and Charles E. Miller, physical education staff members.

Coed Capers

The Aquaettes are holding the second of two swimming club tryouts Thursday evening, October 14, at 7:00 at the Coliseum. All those who did not try out last week and would like to be invited to come.

There will be a W.A.A. Council meeting Friday, October 15, at 5:00 at Grant Memorial.

House lists must be in immediately!

TERRY BRENNAN, Irish left half, led Coach Frank Leahy's grid-irons in scoring the last two years with 36 and 66 points respectively. He will be one of the players Nebraska will have to stop Saturday.

Good Releases Cage Schedule

Head basketball coach, Harry Good, today released his 48-49 basketball schedule and announced that his varsity squad will begin their official practice grind tomorrow, October 15.

According to Harry, who is seeking to make his third consecutive year as Nebraska mentor another success, many of the returning lettermen and freshmen numeral winners have been conditioning themselves for this grind since the beginning of the semester.

Harry will begin work tomorrow with his squad which includes returning "N" winners Claude Retherford, Rod Cox, Paul Shields, forwards; Bob Cerv, Henry Cech, Anton Lawry, guards; and Richard Schleiger, Milton Whitehead, Dick Srb, centers. He feels that he will be able to find among the promising numeral winners a depth of material which the squad lacked last year. These numeral winners are: Darrell Brandenburg, "Red" Gaston, Jesse Sell, Jim Walsh, forwards; Ray Lucht, Joe Malecek, Bob Pierce, centers; and William Cronin, Bob Gates, Larry Walsh, guards.

Ed Department Stages Kid Party

The Elementary Education department held its annual "Kid Party" Tuesday evening at Ellen Smith hall. Approximately 225 university girls dressed in children's costumes attended.

Prizes for the prettiest costumes were awarded to Mary Lou Graham, Ellen Mahood, Mary Libershal, Janet Rallam, Wanda Young and Madelon Feldman. Corrine Lundin and Shirley Anderson were given prizes for the most clever costumes while Eleanor Skelmar wore the funniest costume.

Guest speaker for the Vesper Services to be held at 5 p. m. Thursday in the University Episcopal church, will be Charles A. Wells. Wells will speak on "Power Over the Atom."

Pre-Game Lunch Offered to Solve Eating Quandary

A pre-game buffet luncheon Saturday is the solution to University alumni's problem of finding a place to gather and eat before the Notre Dame game.

Fritz Daly, secretary of the University's alumni association, has announced that the meal will be served from 11:30 to 12:30 p.m. in the Union ballroom. Tickets are one dollar per person and reservations may be made by calling or writing the alumni office at the Union. There will be no program.

Lambert to Speak At Omaha Friday

Dr. W. V. Lambert, new dean of Ag college, will speak before the agricultural committee of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce on Friday noon of this week.

Dr. Lambert has been invited to tell the Omahans about current research work in agriculture now underway and that which is planned for the future. It will be his first public speaking appearance in Omaha.

He will be accompanied to the meeting by Marvel L. Baker, associate director of the Experiment Station; Clyde Noyes, district extension supervisor; and extension editor George Round.

Letters from our Mailbag . . .

Del Ryder, university golf team member, writes that there is more to last week's Daily Nebraskan article than meets the eye.

Del tells us that the university has refused him permission to play in the American Legion tournament at Miami because of a conference ruling that prohibits a player from entering a tourney not sponsored by the university during the time school is in session.

Ryder decided to drop out of the Miami tourney so that he would not lose his last year of eligibility on the golf team.

The golf ace found it rather embarrassing to have the write-up appear in the Daily and then find out he would not be able to go.

We are really very sorry to find out that Ryder will not make the trip to Miami. It was probably a very hard decision to make but we know that everything was done for the best.

Coach Patsy Clark in his weekly letter to alumni says . . . "This probably is the time to recall to you that, before the season opened, I went on record as saying that somewhere along the line we would win a football game. I did not say which one. I know you appreciate the building job we face. It requires time. We are making progress. But it is a slow—and sometimes—painful task."

"We met with the team soon after our arrival home from Boulder. I told the boys that I had been hired to get them out of the rut, and that we would make it if they stuck with us. I feel that, if Minnesota had been as synchronized as the Colorado team we played Saturday, the Gophers would have beaten Northwestern. The players agreed, declaring that Colorado "hit harder than Minnesota."

The coach goes on to say that it was just one of those days when the Huskers did everything wrong and Colorado seemed to do everything right.

"It's Notre Dame Saturday. Maybe we can furnish one of those shocks for which football is famous and provides the game's greatest appeal. You never know what eleven boys will do on a given afternoon," concluded the Husker mentor.
