Students Elect McDill, O'Meara to KK Honors

Louise McDill and Dick "Ajax" O'Meara Friday night stepped through a large, red cellophane heart to become the 1948 Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet.

Presentation of the honors was made at the 1948 Kosmet Klub Fall Review in the Coliseum. Prince Kosmet and the Nebraska Sweetheart were elected by students attending the show.

Miss McDill is a news editor of the Daily Nebraskan, a member of Student Council, Home Ec club and Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary Home Ec sorority. She is secretary of Ag Exec board, a junior in Ag college and treasure of Chi Omega, social sorority.

Innocents Choose Five

Miss McDill was chosen from a group of five finalists chosen by the Innocents society. The other four candidates were Joane Bergman, Dorothy Borgens, Jeanne Sampson and Laverne Acker.

O'Meara, 1948 Prince Kosmet, was elected from a group of six candidates chosen by the Mortar Boards. O'Meara is a senior in the College of Business Administration, a member of Newman club and Delta Upsilon, social fraternity.

The five other candidates were Al Thompson, Bob Berkshire, Bill Mickle, Rex Hoffmeister and Jack Carson.

Presentation of Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet came after eight fraternities had presented skits in the Kosmet Klub Review. The two honored students stepped through a red cellophane heart contained in a large crown.

Awards Presented

Kosmet Klub's 17 members were lined on each side of the heart. President Norbert Tiemann presented a combination cigarette case and lighter to O'Meara, and Business Manager Warren Howard presented a bouquet of American Beauty roses and a jewel box to Miss McDill.

Master of ceremonies for the show was John Carson, and music was by Jean Moyer's Orchestra.

Audubon Society Gives Travelogue

An all-color film, "From Coast to Crest," narrated by Alexander Sprunt, Jr., field investigator for the National Audubon society, will be shown at Love Memorial Library auditorium Wednesday at 8 p. m.

The film-lecture is a scenic travel tour from the Gulf of Texas northward thru the land of the Navajos in Arizona, the Grand Canyon, Colorado's Mesa Verde, and Wyoming's Teton and Yellowstone parks.

Sprint, a noted ornithologist, is the second of five lecturers to appear on the Audubon screen tours. These films are sponsored by the University in co-operation with the National Audubon society.

Beauty Queens

Beauty Queens for 1948 were selected Saturday afternoon by five members of surrounding college yearbook staffs. The identity of the campus beauties will be revealed in the December 1 issue of Cornshucks.

The six queens named were selected from 12 finalists chosen from 46 candidates by the committee. The twelve girls, whose names were revealed by Jerry Johnson, Cornhusker editor, are: Laverne Acker, Love Memorial hall; Pat Berge, Gamma Phi Beta; Joane Bergman, Alpha Phi; Virginia Bodinson, Delta Delta Delta; Vanita Brown, Women's Residence hall; Carmen Christoffel, Alpha Phi; Pat Gaddis, Kappa Alpha Theta; June Hornby, Towne Club; Jo Noble, Kappa Alpha Theta; Nancy Sayre, Kappa Gamma; Margaret Thomas, Alpha Chi Omega; and Joan Truhisen, Chi Omega.

Each of the 46 girls was a representative of a house or club on the basis of one candidate for every 20 Cornhuskers sold by a member of that house or group. They also were required to pay a $2.50 entry fee to pay the traveling expenses of the college judges.

Dean Moritz Retires After Fifty Years Potent Oklahoma T Dazzles Huskers

BY HAROLD ABRAMSON.

Sports Editor, Daily Nebraskan.

Dean R. D. Moritz of the University of Nebraska Summer Session, and director of the University's educational service department, has retired after a half century of service to public education in the state.

Born in Germany 76 years ago, Dean Moritz received bachelor degrees at Peru State Teachers college and Hastings college. He was Adams county superintendent, 1897-1901; superintendent at Blue Hill, 1901-07; superintendent at Red Cloud, 1907-14; state high school inspector, 1914-16; and superintendent at Seward, 1916-25.

He joined the University staff in 1925 as dean of the summer session and head of the educational service department.

His colleagues in the University's Teachers College say Dean Moritz throughout his professional career advocated two basic ideas.

(1) Nebraska public school teachers should be professionally trained in institutions of higher learning in a course of study which demands of them thorough knowledge of the technical matter they teach, a good general education, and sufficient professional training to enable them to give this information to their pupils. This, Dean Moritz often says, is the "balanced program" vital to teacher training.

(2) Adequate pay for teachers is not an end in itself. Citizens should support education generously, Dean Moritz once said, but at the same time should insist that they get 100 cents for every dollar spent. Dean Moritz was a consistent champion of economy and efficiency in schools, but strongly opposed retrenchment.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers surprised the Oklahoma Sooners in the second quarter to take a 7-0 lead, but the superior Oklahoman's came back to score three quick touchdowns and finally win 41-14.

The Huskers' first touchdown was made after a miscue on the part of Oklahoma cost them 15 yards for a misconduct charge. The penalty came after the Huskers had managed to move only six yards from the Sooner 45-yard marker. Phil Young's try at the center of the tough Oklahoma line failed—and then came the penalty.

It gave new life to the Huskers as Junior Collopy faded back to the waiting arms of Fletcher. The Cornhusker end gathered the ball into his arms and went across the goal line unmolested. Gerry Moore came in to boot the extra-point and Nebraska led, 7 to 0.

Oklahoma, which was supposed to be below par after whipping Missouri last week, had little trouble with the Huskers. For the most part the Sooners stayed on the ground, scoring only one pass via the airplanes. The left side of the Oklahoma line, All-American Homer Paine and Paul "Buddy" Burris, was a thorn in the side of the Nebraska team the entire game.

Jack Mitchell, hard driving T-formation quarterback, lived up to advance publicity as he engineered most of the Sooner offensive play. Mitchell, along with Tackles Homer Paine, Truman Wright; Center Pete Tillman, Guard Buddy Burris and Linebacker Myrle Greathouse were playing their last game before Oklahoma fans. The six Sooner standouts will be lost through graduation this year.

Six minutes after Nebraska scored its initial touchdown the Oklahoman's tied the ball game. Junior Collopy managed to get away the punt, after being hurried by the charging Sooner line. Greathouse advanced the ball to the Husker 35 yard line.

Sig Ep Skit Takes Top Honors in K Klub Show

Sigma Phi Epsilon was awarded top honors for its skit in the Kosmet Klub Fall revue held Friday night in the Coliseum.

"Dig-U-Later", the winning skit, was directed by Frances Flaherty. The show was a take-off on radio murder mysteries. The scene was laid in a mortuary where the current question was: "Where did formaldehyde?" The cast included a body, a pier and a sleuth who eventually came up with the solution to prove that "crime doesn't pay."

Kappa Sigs Second

Second place honors went to Kappa Sigma for "Football Follies of '48." Written and directed by Norm Leger, the satire concerned "Bonanza U" and its football seating situation. Mr. Lowandewski, Bonanza business manager, finally solved the problem by moving the team into the stands and letting the fans play the game. The script was written in verse and involved caricatures of several campus personalities.

TK's Take Third

The male edition of a '48 Coed Follies skit, "Choo-Choo-Chew-Chew," won the third place position for Tau Kappa Epsilon. Skitmaster, Bill Poe, repeated the coed songs in their original form. The plot revolved about a gum salesman who tried to persuade three tobacco-chewing hill-billies to use his product. The reluctant victims were eventually won over by Bubble Gum.

The show was judged by Miss Davies of the school of Music and Mr. Black of the Speech department.

The first place trophy was presented to Sigma Phi Epsilon immediately following the last skit by Norbert Tiemann, Kosmet Klub president. Other officers of Kosmet Klub are: Warren Howard, business manager and Irv Chesen, secretary.

Carson Returns As M. C.

Between acts, John Carson, M. C., entertained the audience with mimickery, ventriloquism and commentary. Carson M. C'd the '47 Kosmet Klub Revue.

A quartet made up of Gordon Gealy, Bill French, Lloyd Lotspeich, and Herb Jackman sang "Jalousie" and "In My Merry Oldsmobile." They were accompanied by Lew Forney.

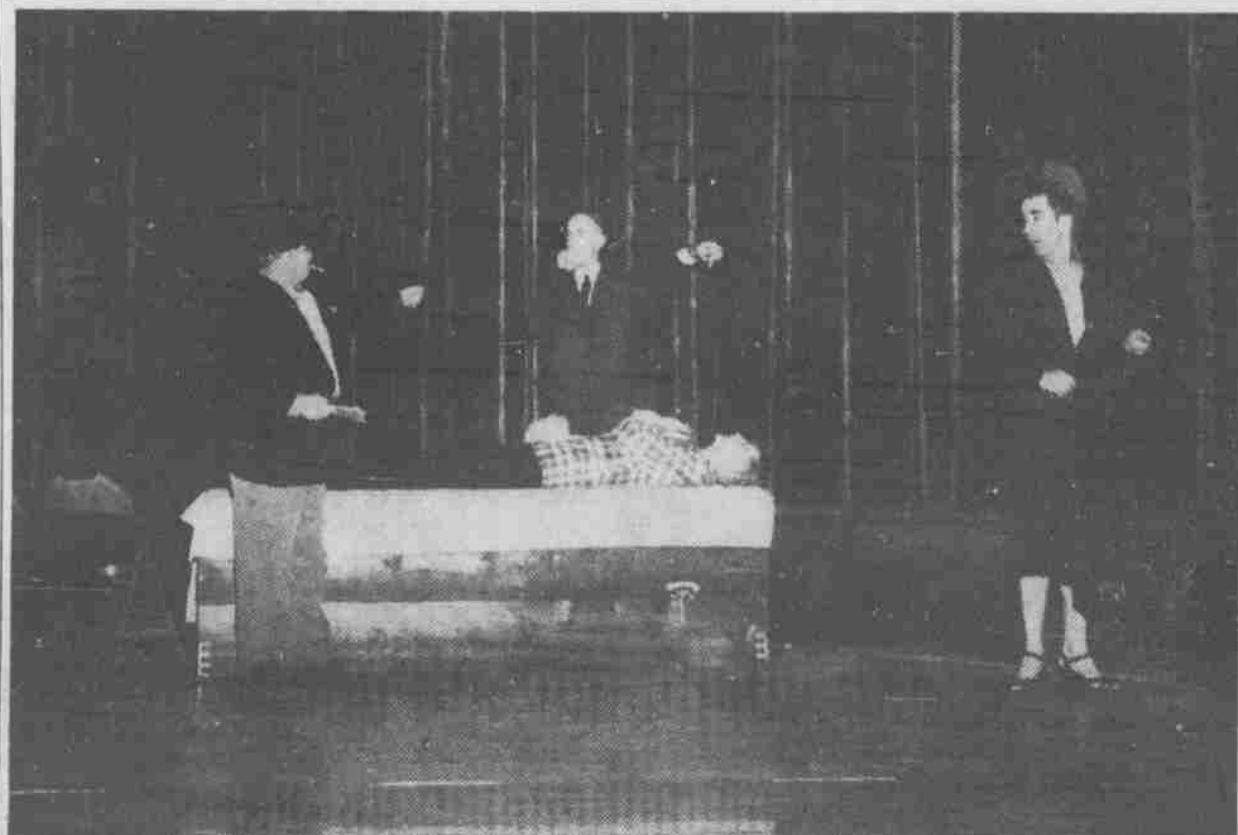

Before curtain time, some 1500 play-goers heard the music of Jean Moyer's orchestra.

Kosmet Klub, founded in 1911 to promote an interest in drama on the campus, stages a Revue for fraternities each fall. All organized men's groups are invited to submit entries from which Kosmet Klub judges select the top skits to appear in the show. Kosmet Klub also sponsors an all-male musical comedy and the Inter-fraternity Ivy Day Sing contest.
