"purge themselves" of third party adherents.

Berman called the action "completely assinine" and said that while he had been a delegate to the progressive party national convention "it's a matter of record that there never was a progressive party in Nebraska. Now the democrats are the real progressive party. My views and those of the democratic party are entirely consistent."

Don Morrow, university law student and chairman of the Lancaster Young Democrats, notified Taylor "that his (Taylor's) action was without authority and that he is personally trying to bring disunity to the ranks of the Young Democrats."

Morrow Replies

A later statement of Morrow's contended that the organization considers its character "in full force and effect."

An appeal made by Morrow to Roy G. Baker, national president of the Young Democrats club, brought no results, for Baker refused Thursday to enter the controversy in Nebraska.
