

NU Cagers Win 63-52 Game Paced by Weak Nebraska Offensive

BY HAROLD ABRAMSEN,
SPORTS EDITOR

Nebraska University's basketball team won a slow moving cage game in the Coliseum Saturday night by a 65-52 score.

However, the 11-point lead does not tell the whole story in the slow-paced 40 minutes. The Teachers had trouble with Nebraska's height advantage and couldn't score when a basket counted.

Crack Scoring

Nebraska cracked the scoring column after two minutes had elapsed in the first period with Norm Jespersen fouled Bob Cerv. Cerv hit the bucket twice to score two charity tosses.

Henry Cech followed with another bucket but Tom Chandler and Van Combs evened the count at four-all. Combs matched baskets with Cerv to keep the count even at six-all before Jespersen scored a freethrow to give the Teachers their only lead of the game.

Malacek Scores

Joe Malacek put the Huskers in the lead with two quick baskets and from then on the game slowed down to a snail's pace with only one point being scored in the next five minutes—that a freethrow by Walt Koehnoff of the Teachers.

Norm Jespersen added a pair of baskets to bring the tutor squad within two points of the 15-13 lead held by the Huskers.

Nebraska showed brief sparks of brilliance during the game but for the most part the Husker passing was practically nil. Kenny Anderson potted two points on a neat pass from Claude Retherford which had been set up by a down court pass from Bob Pierce.

Lundquist Solves Problems For Sigma Tau Members

Speaking before members of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, last Friday at the Stuart theater, Dr. Eugene E. Lundquist, outstanding aeronautical research specialist, offered advice to future engineers. His topic, "The Graduate School of Experience," included answers to problems that confront all prospective engineers.

Lundquist Recommends Planning

Dr. Lundquist recommended that a student should plan his experience in advance so that he may derive the most from it. He encouraged each student to look upon post-college days as the beginning of a "graduate school of experience." Then the student will be working for the joy of work itself and for what it will contribute towards maturity, he said.

First of the three questions which he selected to discuss was, "What job shall I take?" Dr. Lundquist suggested that the student of "the graduate school" should choose the job that offered the most educational value and pleasure.

Question Concerns Supervisor

The second question was, "Un-

State Schools To Participate In UNESCO

The UNESCO program is being expanded to include outstate colleges, UNESCO co-chairmen, Shirley Sabin and Bob Nickols, announced today.

Hastings College, York College and Wesleyan University will participate in the conference by representing nations in the same manner as organized campus groups.

York and Hastings will share a nation with Chi Omega and Phi Gamma Delta. They will represent Czechoslovakia and Mexico, respectively. The two groups will divide the work areas and the campus organizations will supply executive board members.

Wesleyan will represent Egypt. All three groups will send delegates to the plenary session in February and be represented on councils and committees.

Wayne State Teachers' College will also participate by sending observers to the conference.

Representatives from outstate schools will be housed on campus during the conference, according to Jerry Young, facilities chairman. Any group which can supply rooms for delegates is asked to contact Jerry Young through the UNESCO office, room 305, Union. Office hours are: 12:30 to 1 p. m. and 2 to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

CROP Solicitors Wage Campaign

Christian Rural Overseas program solicitors throughout the state have collected 46½ carloads of food and $27,136 in cash for the Nebraska Goodwill Train with collections still incomplete, state CROP director, Dwight Dell, has announced.

der what supervisor in the graduate school should I study?" He emphasized that good supervision promotes hard work which in turn develops ability. He warned that good supervision doesn't mean a soft job.

"Should I also take post-graduate work in college?" was the third question that he suggested. The researcher stated that the job which the student intends to take determines the need of such education. Describing certain cases, Dr. Lundquist illustrated how one could reach the right decision.

Lundquist Names Characteristics
Dr. Lundquist also specified certain characteristics that a man in research needs in addition to specific training. The important ones are honesty, scientific curiosity and drive.

Dr. Lundquist concluded his address by emphasizing the fact that the highest degree of maturity in any field of endeavor is attained only when technical proficiency and development of character go hand in hand.

Cyclone Coach Pushes Cagers For '49 Season

This is the fourth in a series of articles about future Cornhusker opponents. Other articles will appear as the season progresses.

Coach Clayton Sutherland is attempting to build a fire under the Iowa State scoring machinery this season as the Cyclones prepare for their 1948-49 conference campaign.

Ice-cold scoring was the most glaring shortcoming of the Cyclones against the Bulldogs last Monday as Iowa State bowed 53-38. It was the first loss of the season for Iowa State.

During the game Iowa State hit only 11 percent of its shots, falling off to a mere four percent in the final half. However, Coach Sutherland felt play was satisfactory in other departments for early season games.

Cyclones Lose

The loss was the Cyclones' first of the season, having earlier beaten Cornell, 61-36, and Coe College.

Nebraska fans will be able to view the Cyclone cagers when they visit Lincoln Jan. 15 in the Coliseum.

Coach Clay Sutherland will probably start a veteran team including three seniors and two juniors. This means the starting five will include forwards Therol Peterson and Leo Schneider; center, Don Paulsen; guards, John Shepard and Bob Petersen.

Paulsen Good

Barring injuries Don Paulsen, 6-4 junior center, could become the high scorer on the Cyclone team according to mentor Sutherland.

Bob Petersen, 5-8 guard, is the smallest man on the starting five. Petersen holds three letters in basketball at Iowa State and is the highest scoring guard in Cyclone history with 193 points which he scored last season.

Coach Sutherland expects plenty of drive from Therol Peterson, 6-1 junior forward who also plays baseball in the spring. Therol is no relation to Bob Petersen.

Former Nebraskan

Leo Schneider who won a letter at Nebraska as a Navy V-12 student, holds two letters at Iowa State. The 200 pound, 6-3 senior is expected to be one of the sparkplugs of the Iowa State five.

Another six footer, John Shepherd will be playing his last year for the Cyclones. He is a good player to have around when it comes to getting the rebounds and may give the Huskers some trouble.

Pre-season dope on the Cyclones figures them to finish no worse than fourth but their inability to win on the road may keep them from moving any higher.

The Cyclones play three top teams outside the Big Seven conference including Canisius college at Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 18; Syracuse University at Syracuse, Dec. 21; St. John's University at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 22.

Deciding that Emily Post hadn't written enough on the subject, the Mortar Board of the University of Utah put out a booklet on manners entitled "Etta Quette." It is designed to let freshmen into the know concerning correct behavior and dress at the various campus functions and it covers everything from introductions to parking.

Fairmont Food Director Talks To Dairy Club

Dr. C. Evinger, personnel director of the Fairmont Food Company of Omaha was the main speaker at the Varsity Dairy club meeting Wednesday evening. He also interviewed graduating seniors who are interested in future dairying jobs.

In his speech, Dr. Evinger stated that there were two main aspects involved in interviewing men for work in dairying. First, the previous school training and technical training of individuals must be known, and secondly, the natural ability or aptitude of the candidate must be learned. As a measure of the latter, thirty-minute examinations were given to prospective applicants.

Prospective new members of the club were introduced at the regular business meeting which followed. The next Varsity Dairy club meeting will be held Jan. 12.
