

NCAA Champs Oppose Husker Matmen Here

Coach Pat Patterson's NU wrestlers will open their dual season against the topflight Oklahoma A&M team Friday.

The Aggie grapplers haven't lots a dual meet since 1937, and boast a string of 59 straight victories. Coach Art Griffith, who handled the U. S. Olympic wrestlers last summer, will send his team after a second consecutive NCAA title this year. The Oklahomans have taken top honors in NCAA competition 17 times since it was originated in 1928.

The Cowpoke squad is composed of five veterans and three sophomores. Two members of the team, Bill Jernigan, 121 pounder, and Dick Hutton, heavyweight, competed in the Olympics last year.

Jack St. Clair, in the 165-pound class was an NCAA champion last season, and Elias George took second place in the 145-pound class in 1945. Hutton also was an NCAA titleholder in 1948.

In the feature match of the evening, Mike DiBiase, 1946 National AAU champion, will meet Hutton in the heavyweight division.

C.U. to Establish Sanitation School

The establishment of a Sanitarian Training center is being planned at the University of Colorado Medical center in Denver by co-operating agencies sponsoring the program. The center will be the only one of its kind in the Rocky Mountain region.

Designed chiefly to aid in overcoming a great shortage of trained personnel in sanitation, the training center is a cooperative endeavor of the U. S. Public Health service, the Colorado State Health department and the Medical school.

Trainees from Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Montana will be given a three-month course of intensive study which will include lectures, discussions, demonstrations and field experience. Qualified young men and women will be selected by public health agencies in those states to participate in the program.

Delivery Delay

The Daily Nebraskan will be delivered after 10 a. m. for the remaining days of the semester due to production difficulties at the Lincoln Journal, where the paper is printed. Sunday's Nebraskan may not be delivered until Monday morning.

CLAUDE HOUCHIN will be on the floor come Saturday night, with the University of Kansas Jay-Hawks. Houchin saw plenty of service in the recent tourney at Kansas City.

Hoosiers Meet Nebraska Again Cold Does Not Stop Gridsters

Indiana University will return to the University of Nebraska football schedule in 1950, Athletic Director George (Potsy) Clark announced during vacation.

It is a one year agreement calling for a game in Lincoln, Sept. 30. It will provide five home games. The 1950 schedule as it now stands has nine games.

A tenth game might be signed for the Sept. 23 date ahead of Indiana, but it is doubtful, Coach Clark said.

Indiana, which drew the all-time record home crowd of 39,360 in 1937, began playing the Cornhuskers in 1936. The Hoosiers have won seven, lost three and played two ties.

1950 schedule:
Sept. 30—Indiana in Lincoln.
Oct. 7—Minnesota at Minneapolis.
Oct. 14—Colorado at Boulder.
Oct. 21—Penn State in Lincoln.
Oct. 28—Kansas at Lawrence.
Nov. 11—Kansas State in Lincoln.
Nov. 18—Iowa State in Lincoln.
Nov. 25—Oklahoma at Norman.

Scores of previous Indiana games:
1936—Nebraska 13, Indiana 9.
1937—Nebraska 7, Indiana 0.
1938—Nebraska 6, Indiana 0.
1939—Nebraska 7, Indiana 7.
1940—Nebraska 13, Indiana 7.
1941—Nebraska 13, Indiana 21.
1942—Nebraska 13, Indiana 54.
1943—Nebraska 13, Indiana 54.
1944—Nebraska 0, Indiana 54.
1945—Nebraska 14, Indiana 54.
1946—Nebraska 7, Indiana 27.
1947—Nebraska 0, Indiana 17.
1948—Nebraska, Indiana.

IM Denominational Play Gets Start

Denominational table tennis will get underway next week with five teams participating in the free for all.

Matches will begin at 5 p.m. in the Coliseum with each team composed of five players. Teams must submit a list of five seeded according to rank. The best player and this rank must be maintained throughout the entire league.

Next week's matches will see Newman Club against Methodists while Baptists tear into the Presbyterians and the Methodists meet the Presbyterians.

Huskers to Meet Kansas Saturday

BY JERRY EWING
Nebraskan Sports Staff

University of Nebraska cagers will begin a six-game home stand Saturday night by entertaining Kansas.

During the holidays the Husker five competed in the Kansas City tournament, winning one and losing two.

The Huskers were plagued by "tournament jitters" in the first round game against Kansas State and lost 48-24. After a poor first half which found the Nebraskans trailing by 14 points the game was played on even terms.

Missouri provided the opposition for Coach Harry Good's five in the consolation bracket. The Tigers rallied in the last four minutes to overcome a 47-40 Husker lead and took a narrow 52 to 50 win.

Cox Hits
A last second bucket by Rod Cox gave the NU team a 56-54 victory over Harvard in the Husker's closing game. Henry Cech hit from the field with sixteen seconds left to knot the contest and set the stage for Cox's clincher.

Standouts among the Husker cagers in tournament play included Cerv, Retherford, and Cox, with Pierce and Lawry showing much improvement. Retherford has been moved to a guard spot in an effort to smooth out the team's floor play, and has shown well despite two taped ankles. Lawry and Cox are alternating at the left forwards post, with Malacek remaining at the other forward spot.

Sooners Win
The tournament favorites, Oklahoma, copped the title by edging the Kansas Jayhawks 52-49. The Jayhawks, unrated by pre-tournament dopsters, were the most improved team in the tourney. Led by Waugh, England, Houchin, and Peterson, a Nebraska letterman in 1945, the Kansans deadly accuracy from the field cut down Missouri and Kansas State before succumbing to the Sooners.

The Kansas team was edged by Oklahoma 38-36 Tuesday night in conference opener for both clubs. The Huskers, back on their home court, will be after their first conference win the fifth of the season.

Drifted Highways Delay Students

By Herb Armbrust

Oh to be snowbound! To be comfortably seated in a snow drift way out west while your classmates trudge wearily over ice-covered walks to their eight o'clocks.

With highways through McCook and Grand Island closed and trains from the west two days late, students were stranded in many places. A few hardy souls who did manage to get through told stories of drifts fifteen feet high.

Busses on routes through McCook and Grand Island are stuck somewhere west of these two towns, according to the manager at the Burlington depot.

Trains from Montana and western South Dakota, two days late, were expected to arrive Wednesday evening, and two other stalled trains will arrive later.

Meanwhile, students have a better excuse for missing classes than they have ever been able to think of before.

K State Chapel

Kansas State's Meditation Chapel, which is now under construction, will be completed in March or April. It is part of the Memorial Chapel being financed by Kansas State college alumni, present students and friends of the college. The Danforth Chapel, larger of the two units to be constructed, will be used mainly for private devotions and meditations.

Students are requested to have Activity ticket number nine ready for presentation at the door when attending wrestling matches Friday night.
