

YWCA Names Rosenbaum Delegate to National Meet

Audrey Rosenbaum has been chosen to attend the National YWCA Convention as the official delegate of the campus YWCA. The convention is being held in San Francisco March 7 to 14.

Nebraska is one of three schools in the Rocky Mountain region sending a delegate to the convention. Miss Rosenbaum, who is also being sponsored by Wesleyan university, will be the only student from Nebraska attending the meetings. Also attending the meeting will be five representatives from the Lincoln city YWCA.

DELEGATES attending the conference, the "49'ers," will decide the YW policy on national and international issues for the next three years. There will be joint meetings of student and community groups as well as conferences on problems relating primarily to university campus life.

Student meetings before the convention by the National Intercollegiate Christian Conference prepared an agenda for the conference which will be combined with the program of the community YW groups.

A PROPOSAL especially related to the student delegations would allow men to become members of the YWCA. The plan calls for inter-denominational, co-ed groups not affiliated with campus YW's to take part in Y activities.

In the field of international relations, recommendations will be made with the goal of "Peace with freedom and higher living standard for all people everywhere" in mind.

Action will also be taken on the YWCA policy on civil liberties legislation, federal aid to education and federal aid to medicine.

Budget Raise Sought for NU Public Service

The need for funds in public services offered by the University is one of the bases on which the university has requested a 20 percent increase in its operating budget.

University public services include the Agricultural extension service, the Conservation and Survey division, the University hospital, and the Extension division.

The Agricultural extension service promotes better farm and home making practices, crop and livestock testing, 4-H club work, home demonstration clubs and soil conservation education.

The work of the Conservation and Survey division involves soil survey and analysis, community water supply, pump irrigation surveys and groundwater survey and analysis.

The university hospital provides surgical and medical care for Nebraska's indigent and psychiatric care.

Pre-Game Rally To Boost Cagers

University pep organizations are planning a rally prior to the Nebraska-Oklahoma basketball game Saturday night.

All Tassels, Corn Cobs and cheer leaders will meet in the Union lobby at 4:15 p. m. Saturday. From there the pepsters will go up to the training table in Room 313 of the Union to give several cheers and songs for the team.

Cob President Bob Hamilton has stated that this pre-game spirit and backing can do a lot to spur the team to victory Saturday night. He has invited all students who can attend the rally to join the pep organizations in a show of enthusiasm.

Illegal ID Use Creates Quest For New Form

Illegal transfer of student activity tickets has led to the formation of a faculty-student committee to find a new student identification card for use next fall.

Bob Wallace, Student Council member, was appointed by Council President Dale Ball several weeks ago to investigate means of curbing transfer or resale of tickets.

WALLACE organized a meeting of administrative personnel of the University directly concerned with the ID card problem. Those present included: A. J. Lewandowski, Dr. Samuel Fuenning, Duane Lake, John Selleck, Dr. Lundy, librarian; Miss Wills, Registrar's secretary; Mr. Hoffman, photographer, and Wallace.

They discussed "a more efficient means of student identification," dealing especially with the illegal transfer or resale of tickets, the misuse of University student facilities, and valid identification for miscellaneous use.

THE COMMITTEE is currently investigating identification procedures in other schools, as well as the cost of a machine to print ID cards with student pictures on them.

They will consider the comparative value of the new card and its cost. The possibility of a four-year ID card is also being considered.

'Medical Project Invalid'—Munger

Plans for socialized medicine now before Congress were discussed by Dr. Munger at the Nu-Meds meeting Wednesday night.

He described the 12-point plan before the House Ways and Means committee and showed the "invalidity of the arguments for the program." Under the plan, medicine would be completely socialized and would be directed by an especially appointed member of the President's cabinet.

Dr. Munger believes the recent advances in local, state and national medical associations is improving the quality and extent of medical services. He also referred to the "vast gains being made in Blue Cross and similar non-profit system of voluntary health insurance plans."

At the business meeting, President John Kahle appointed a committee to make plans for the spring picnic. The next Nu-Med meeting will be held April 6.

Production Difficulties

Due to prolonged production difficulties at the Journal, the Daily Nebraskan will continue to come out in the late morning or early afternoon until further notice.

AFTER the presentation, the candidates will form a court for the coronation dance. Candidates for the honor were selected by a committee of class presidents, president of Mortar Board and president of Innocents. The candidates are Dorothy Borgens, Sue Bjorklund, Charlene Holcomb, Gracie Nielson, Janet Stratton, Dorothy Travis, Winton Buckley, Harvey Davis, Chuck Hemmingson, Bob Keller, Chuck Peters and Harlan Powley.

Norm Leger, Innocents president, will act as master of ceremonies.

Tickets are $3. They may be secured at a booth in the Union lobby. Spectator tickets will be available at the door for 85 cents. Tickets may also be secured from members of Innocents or Kosmet Klub. Ticket sales will close this afternoon.

"TICKETS are going rapidly so get yours before they are sold out," Irv Chesen, ticket sales chairman, cautioned.

Tex Beneke's band will feature ten vocalists during the evening. Several of the performers will be playing their first engagement with Beneke.

Arrangements for the prom were handled by representatives of the Junior and Senior classes. Norbert Tiemann served as general chairman for the affair.

OTHER committee members were Norm Leger and Lee Best, publicity; Frank Loeffel and Ralph Taylor, decorations; Ed Trumble, By Hooper and Marcia Pratt, general arrangements; Jack Selzer and Dick Schleusener, presentation; Irv Chesen and Jerry Shulken, ticket sales and promotion.

The prom is being sponsored by the Innocents society and the Student Union board.

Students Support Frosh Contest

COMPILED BY FRANK JACOBS

The students of Nebraska are not in agreement with the administration's ruling on the currently-discussed freshman women's beauty contest, a Daily Nebraskan poll has shown.

Over 500 students, questioned on all parts of the campus, almost unanimously answered the question, "Are you in favor of the University of Nebraska entering the All-American Freshman Beauty Contest?" in the affirmative.

As is the case in every "Nebraskan" poll, more than a few students offered comments. And, as usual, these opinions ranged from the serious to the ridiculous.

OF THE 463 pollees who answered yes, several ideas showing definite examples of foresight were presented.

One sophomore girl stated,

"This negative policy has not been followed through the years, so why start it now?"

A junior male reasoned, "Having visited many campuses throughout the country, I've been able to judge the relative merits of extra-curricular activities. The U. of N. is without a doubt the most restrictive and unco-operative of them all."

One serious-faced freshman lad answered, "Probably what we need is a little publicity on the campus."

Naturally, facetiousness wasn't forgotten as a good segment of those polled attempted witticisms.

A CYNICAL graduate student: "My opinion is entirely unprintable."

A wide-eyed freshman girl: "My chance is gone!"

Another female frosh: "This proves Lincoln is 'The Boston of the Bible Belt.'"

The feature department's poll for this week, "Are you in favor of the University of Nebraska entering the All-American Freshman woman's beauty contest?"

Yes, 463 or 92 percent. No, 15 or 3.3 percent. No opinion, 23 or 4.7 percent.

A sophomore skeptic: "It's all right, but I'm still hunting for a beautiful freshman girl."

A zoology major: "We should compare our pigs with those in other schools."

A starry-eyed male freshman: "Sex is here to stay!"

Other students quipped: "The University of Nebraska has as many beauties as any other school."

THE UNIVERSITY has fluffed its chance to be in the national eye.

"Too much 'upstairs' meddling in 'downstairs' affairs."

"If Oregon can enter, we can win!"

"It think it's a reprisal against the students!"

"No comment. Norman Leger hit it on the head in his editorial!"

And on this same line: "If the Cooper Foundation can give us money, why can't we do a little of something to help them."

One independent student agreed on the condition "the contest is not the product of the politicians."

All in all, the affirmative answers agreed on certain basic points. Nearly all thought that the competition would do the campus good and would raise the University nationally and locally. A nominal number labeled the Administration ruling as "reactionary."

ON THE OTHER side of the ledger, the 17 students who answered "No" also had their share of opinions. Of these 17, the largest number based their reasoning on the "commercialization" angle.

One junior man claimed: "It is sponsored mainly for money-making purposes."

A freshman female maintained: "I don't believe in beauty contests. They're silly! And it would make class girls extremely jealous!"

OTHER ANSWERS were as follows:

"My wife might hear I voted for her and get mad."

"It's a cheap publicity stunt."

"The freshmen are too young."

"The whole thing is ridiculous!"

Thus, a segment of the campus population gave their opinion one of the more vital issues of the day.

The feature department thanks pollsters Pat Hintz, Nancy Davis, Pati Gartland, Mary Jane Rooney, Polly Kennedy, Carol Gross, Nancy Davis, Rod Riggs and Jane Bridgman.
