Council Change Subjected To Student Open Hearing

Students to Give Ideas, Suggestions at Meeting

Students will have an opportunity to voice their opinions on Student Council revision at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

An open hearing will be held by the chairmen of the Student Council judiciary and constitutions committees. The hearing will take place in room 316 of the Union.

INTERESTED STUDENTS will be on hand to present suggestions for revising the Council constitution. Various plans for apportionment of representation will be heard.

Part of the meeting will be devoted to explanations by Bill Schenck, constitutions committee chairman, and Dick Schleusener, judiciary committee chairman, of revisions previously proposed to the Council. They will also tell plans formerly used for campus political organizations and explain how political parties may be established under the present constitution. As the Council constitution now stands any political party which polls 125 votes, or a major portion thereof, is guaranteed a seat on the Council.

THE POLITICAL party system functioned on the campus until 1942 but has not been revived since the war. An attempt in 1946 to establish a political party was unsuccessful.

The primary prerequisite of any campus political organization is that its membership be unrestricted.

"Nearly any political party will receive Council approval if its membership is non-discriminatory," Schenck said.

SCHLEUSENER AND Schenck will illustrate methods of zoning and representation division which have been used in the past.

Student opinion, as revealed by the hearing, will be relayed to the Council at its Wednesday meeting. Later this week the judiciary and constitutions committees will meet with a subcommittee of the faculty committee on student organizations and social functions. Ideas for reorganization will be discussed.

Blain to Speak On Psychiatry

The present-day mental health problem will be discussed by Dr. Daniel Blain, medical director of the American Psychiatric association, at an all-university convocation Friday morning at 11 a. m.

The lecture will be given in the Union ballroom. Dr. Blain will present his speech in accordance with a series of such convocations sponsored by the University Health Center. These convocations will acquaint the students with different types of medical care.

While in Lincoln Dr. Blain will address several medical groups and will be main speaker at the annual meeting of the Lincoln Child Guidance Center Friday morning.

Ten Doctors to Conduct Official First Aid Course

Ten Lincoln doctors, members of the Student Health staff, will present an official Red Cross first aid course on the campus beginning Thursday, March 10.

The course will be divided into ten classes during this semester. Every Thursday night, beginning this week, the class will meet from 7 to 8:45 p. m.

A DIFFERENT doctor will present each lecture, employing visual aids and practical training periods.

The first aid course is sponsored by the Red Cross College Unit with the assistance of Dr. Samuel Fuenning, Student Health director and the college unit adviser.

Bob Mosher is the student leader of the course, assisted by Toni Fleming and Sandy McNabb.

ONLY 35 WILL be admitted to the special course because of American Red Cross regulations. Classes will be held in the Union, parlor Y.

The ten classes of the first aid course will be divided into such lectures as "The Why and How of First Aid," "Shock," "Wounds," "Fractures and Their Care," and "Common Medical Emergencies." The staff doctors will lecture on the treatments which are in their specialized field.

UPON COMPLETION of the course, Red Cross first aid certificates will be presented to all members of the class.

In announcing the course, Mosher commented, "This is probably one of the most notable first aid courses ever offered. The unquestionable skill of the ten doctor-lecturers should make this special class one of the most memorable first aid courses ever offered."

ROTC Officer Advanced to Captain Rank

Col. Howard J. John, head of the University of Nebraska Army ROTC, announced Monday the promotion of Oren W. Bryant from First Lieutenant to Captain, the first such promotion made at the University since the end of war.

Captain Bryant, an assistant professor in Ordnance, is from Tucson, Arizona. He was graduated from the University of Cincinnati and received his original commission in the army when he completed the ROTC course there in 1943. During the war he served with Task Force Polar Bear in British Columbia, Canada, testing Allied ordnance equipment. Subsequently he was assigned to the staff of the chief of ordnance of the European Theater.

With the organization of an Ordnance Department Unit of the ROTC at the university, he was assigned as the sole instructor in July, 1947. He is a life member of the National Rifle Association, a technical member of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, faculty advisor to the Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary fraternity, and a member of the American Ordnance association.

Pi Kappa Phi's MB's to Honor Reactivates; 10 Initiates Named

An initiation of ten students at the Cornhusker hotel, Sunday, March 6, marked the return of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity to the Nebraska campus.

The initiation, the first held since the inactivation during the depression, was conducted by a team from the Alpha Omicron chapter, Ames, Ia. It was arranged by the Lincoln alumni.

The initiates, now associate members, have sent a petition to the national headquarters of Pi Kappa Phi for the re-installation of the Nu chapter charter.

Those students initiated are: Edwin F. Spar, John Berigan, Roy F. Horacek, Jerry E. Dike, George F. Spatz, Gene R. Norton, Kevin T. Moriarty, Curtis C. Vennell, Don H. Eckel and Richard D. McMillan, jr.

Members are planning institution ceremonies to take place just after spring vacation.

Committee members were chosen from the 30 delegates who attended the organizational meeting.

Harold Sanders to Speak At All-University Ag Convo

An eminent English agriculturist, Harold "Jim" Sanders, will speak at an all-university convocation Wednesday at 10:15 a. m. in the Ag Union. All Ag classes will be dismissed for the hour.

The convocation will last from 10:15 to 11:15. Immediately after the lecture, the Union will sponsor a coffee hour in the Union lounge till 12 p. m., during which time Dean Sanders will visit informally with students.

CONSIDERED one of the world's top agricultural authorities, Professor Sanders is dean of the faculty of agriculture, horticulture and dairying at Reading University, England. Dean Emeritus Burr was a guest at the Sanders' home during his visit last summer to Reading University, a part of his European tour.

Dean Sanders, who is currently on a two-month tour studying agricultural methods in this country, operates the University's animal husbandry and experimental poultry farms. In 1944, he became professor of agriculture at Reading University. He is a member of the Berkshire agriculture executive committee and chairman of the scheme to train war veterans for the land.

AUTHOR OF two books, "An Outline of British Crop Husbandry," and "Farms in Britain," he has frequently addressed large radio audiences in Britain on agricultural subjects. Sanders claims that 90 percent of the 300,000 farmers in Britain are very well informed and are good farmers.

Professor Sanders, member of a family which has farmed land near Wellingborough, England, for a thousand years, is married and has two children.

This convocation has been arranged by the Ag union convocations committee, composed of Jack DeWulf, sponsor; Lavern Popken, chairman; Virginia Hageman and Jim Williams.
