

Let's Get Together . . .

Out of the current political turmoil on campus has come the final realization that the campus is definitely in need of more social activities which are for the University — not for one social group, or campus organization, or department club but for the entire student body.

Seeing the need for further activity along this line and giving the entire student body the chance to come together as students of the University, members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, are sponsoring an informal get-together Friday afternoon in the Union ballroom. It is not just a tea dance or an occasion contrived to enable Mortar Board to give recognition to seniors who have contributed largely to the field of student activities.

While there will be dancing and awards made to deserving seniors, the "Masque Ade" is a worthy effort to bring students together as students outside the classroom. There will be a representative of the coaching staff on hand to emphasize the importance of student support and spirit in athletics. Students will see two skits representative of all hard work that goes into the AWS Co-ed Follies, traditionally restricted to women students.

Any profits which might be derived from the "Masque Ade" will be used by Mortar Board to grant student scholarships and finance Ivy Day, the University's oldest and best known tradition.

The keynote of the affair is informality. The get-together should prove to students that they can come together for an afternoon of pleasant relaxation for the purpose of having fun. It should further prove that students may be just as anxious to share a feeling of unity in a social way as they are in acquiring such needs as adequate parking and sufficient time to prepare for final exams.

With student population of over 10,000, the job of creating unity among students is an extremely difficult one. However, if steps are taken in that direction now, one may find that in several years' time when enrollment has decreased that the means for creating this unity will have been greatly assisted by the foresight and consequent action of previous groups.

Meet The Council

Several of the smaller colleges have only one Student Council member. Two of these colleges are Pharmacy and Dental.

Pharmacy college representative is George Coupe. He is a member of the constitutions and review committee. This group passes on the admission of new campus organizations. It must approve all embryo organizations by passing on their constitutions. It also checks the extent of each organization's power as outlined in its constitution.

Dear Editor:

Since our nation has inherited most of its cultural and political institutions from England, and since the political, economic, and social conditions on this campus closely resemble those in England at the time of the formation of its government, we respectfully offer for your consideration a proposal by which the University of Nebraska might pattern its "representative" government after the noble example of Great Britain. We propose:

1. That a bicameral legislative assembly be founded consisting of an "upper" and a "lower" house, which shall respectively be known as the House of Greeks and the House of Commons;
2. That the President of the upper house be acclaimed King of the University of Nebraska Commonwealth of Lords and Lowlies;
3. That all members of the upper house shall hereafter bear the title of "Lord" or "Lady";
4. That the society of Innocents shall constitute the Most High Privy Council and that the Mortar Board shall be the Keepers of the Privy Seal; the above mentioned members shall be known as Dukes and Duchesses;
5. That the Corncocks and Tassels shall be elevated to positions of Solicitors of the King's Exchequer;
6. That the president of the Interfraternity Council shall hereafter hold the office of Court Jester; and the above said council shall be known as the King's "pages";
7. That the secretary of the Faculty Senate shall be known as the Leader of the Royal Opposition;
8. That the president of the Student Foundation shall be known as Minister of Foreign Affairs;
9. That the editor of The Daily Nebraskan shall hold the office Minister of Greek Propaganda;
10. That all members of the organized houses of "nobility" shall be addressed as Knights and Ladies;
11. That all pledges to above mentioned societies shall be Vassals and Ladies-in-waiting;
12. And that all above mentioned titles and honors shall be passed to later generations according to the law of primo geniture hereafter to be known as legacies.

Done this eighth day of March in the year of the Lord nineteen-hundred and forty-nine.

Dear Editor:

The latest decision of the faculty committee on student organizations and social functions to throw a monkey wrench into the average student's activities certainly deserves criticizing. I am referring to the committee's refusal to let a freshman girl appear in the "All-American College Freshman" contest.

There is no denying that some girl here at the University of Nebraska is being cheated out of a great chance. The girl that won the local contest would have received one-hundred dollars and a free trip to Hollywood and back with a chaperone. At Hollywood she would have competed with fourteen other college freshmen for top honors and more prizes. All other fourteen schools invited to enter have welcomed the chance and have accepted.

The reason given by the faculty committee for refusal was that the contest was not in accordance with University policy, since it is for commercial gains. But who would gain more from such a contest than the girl, herself?

I think that in all fairness the faculty committee should reconsider this matter, and, if it is going to refuse its permission, it should present a better reason than it already has.

Sincerely,
Jack Barnhart.
